43 LIVES LOST WHEN FRENCH SUBMARINE IS SUNK BY SHIP

Greek Vessel Reports Ramming Craft on Endurance Run Night of Oct. 3 Off Oporto.

SUBMERSIBLE BOUND FOR AFRICAN COAST

Captain of Steamer Says He Tried in Vain to Save Crew—Destroyers Ordered to Make Search.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Forty-three men aboard the French submarine Ondine were lost the night of Oct. when the Greek steamer Ekatrina Goulandris collided with the submersible off Oporto and sank it.

First definite news of the fate of the Ondine, which has been overdue at Bizerta, Tunis, for the last three days, came from the French consul at Rotterdam, to whom the Captain of the Greek steamer had reported the tragedy on his arrival today. The Captain said he had sought in vain to save the crew, which was made up of 40 men and three officers, but gave up the search after two hours.

Although the French Ministry of Marine entertains little hope of finding any of the crew alive, it has ordered the second squadron of destroyers which is cruising near Oporto to proceed to the scene of the collision and to make certain the fate of the men.

The Ondine, which was 600 tons, left Cherbourg on an endurance trial run Oct. 1. It was last heard from Oct. 3 by a Spanish wireless station. Its position was then off Cape Finisterre.

The Ondine was due at Bizerta, the seaport of Tunis, Oct. 9. When it did not arrive the French naval authorities began a search in the hope that it might have met with some accident which made it impossible for it to give its position.

The Ondine was one of the modernly equipped small submarines on which the French naval administration has been spending much time, thought and money. It was of 600 tons surface displacement—765 tons when submerged. Length over all was 216 feet. It was of 16 feet beam and had a mean draught of 11½ feet. It was driven by two sets of four-cycle Diesel engines on the surface, supplemented by electric motors which made 1200 revolutions a minute on the surface and 1000 when the boat was running under the water.

The Ondine was launched May 1925, having been built at Havre. Three sister ships have been turned out from the same yards.

REMOVES OWN APPENDIX TO DISPROVE SHOCK THEORY

Dr. Robert Meals of Hollywood, Cal., Performs Operation on Self as Experiment.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 12.—A report was confirmed yesterday by Dr. Robert Meals, Hollywood surgeon, that he successfully removed his own appendix Monday in an operation performed while he was propped up on the operating table of a Los Angeles hospital.

Using only a local anaesthetic, Dr. Meals opened his abdomen, removed the inflamed organ and sewed the wound.

Neither economy, necessity nor desire for publicity prompted his self-operation, the doctor said. Rather the operation was an experiment to verify his previous conclusion that the shock which most patients suffer from operations was due largely to anesthesia rather than the operation itself. This theory, he said, had been corroborated.

So reluctant were hospitals to be the scene of the experiment that Dr. Meals said, he was refused permission to carry it out at two of the larger institutions here.

Dr. Meals was assisted by a friend, Dr. J. Norton Nichols, who helped locate the appendix, which was in an unusual position, and to loosen it from adhesions to the back of the abdominal wall.

GASOLINE TAX COLLECTIONS DURING AUGUST SET RECORD

$705,382 Largest Total for One Month Since 2-Cent Levy Became Effective in State.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 12.—Collections of the State gasoline tax for August totaled $705,382, establishing a record for the tax payments for a single month since the 2-cents-a-gallon levy became effective in Missouri in January, 1925, State Oil Inspector W. A. McAtee announced today. All of the money goes to the State road fund for construction and maintenance of the State highway system.

aGsoline tax payments for all but one of the first eight months of 1928 have shown increases over the corresponding months of last year, the total of $4,662,390 for the first eight months of 1928 being a gain of $464,798 over the total for the 1927 period.

The State has collected $21,951,303 in gasoline taxes from automobile owners under the gasoline tax law, which was approved by voters in November, 1924, in the form of an initiative proposal.

ELECTRIC SPARK EXPLODES GAS FREED BY MAN IN ENDING LIFE

Blast Follows Pushing of Buzzer in Chicago Apartment; Note to St. Louis Wife.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—When the buzzer in John Havelka's apartment sounded and a terrific explosion shook the building, Havelka didn't hear. He was dead. He was found seated in a kitchen chair. Four jets of the gas stove were open, and there was a note addressed to his wife in St. Louis.

Tenants had complained of smelling gas. The janitor cautiously knocked the coals from his pipe before looking for the gas but didn't think about electricity. He pushed the doorbell button at Havelka's apartment and the electric spark in the buzzer is thought to have ignited the gas which filled the kitchenette.

A side of the room was blown away. The janitor, Carl Hoss, was injured. Windows near by were shattered. Twenty tenants rushed to the street.

In a trunk police found this note in Havelka's hand, addressed to his wife, a gymnasium instructor in St. Louis: "Permit these posies to say that I love you when I am not here. Your husband, JACK."

HOOVER DOESN'T TALK ENOUGH, GOV. SMITH SAYS

NEW YORKER WANTS TO DEBATE ISSUES

Real Fight on in Tennessee, Candidate Learns After Speech to 25,000 Persons in Chattanooga.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 12.—In a short impromptu speech here today, Gov. Alfred E. Smith again challenged Herbert Hoover to debate the issues of the presidential campaign. He taunted him for making few speeches, and with putting little meat into those which he has made.

A throng of 25,000 persons, filling the Municipal Auditorium and the streets leading to it, cheered the Democratic nominee to the echo, as they had already cheered the introductory speaker when he declared the South would rise and rebuke "the intolerance, prejudice, bigotry and slander which have appeared in this campaign."

"A political campaign," said Gov. Smith, "usually takes the form of a debate." Then pausing, and grinning widely, he added: "But I don't hear anything from my opponent. He only speaks once every two weeks. That wouldn't be so bad, however, if I could find anything in his speeches to argue about."

Spent Vacation as Truckman.

The remainder of his talk was a happily phrased acknowledgement of the greeting he had received. He remarked that it was his first visit to Tennessee, and Iwelt humorously on the onerous job of being Bovernor of New York. He said the only extended vacation he had taken in 25 years was "as a truckman" adding that "a truckman's life, let me tell you, is a picnic compared with that of the Governor of New York."

From local political leaders, Gov. Smith learned that he faced a real fight to carry Tennessee. The story was similar to that in other border States—a story of widespread disaffection among Democrats, ostensibly arising from the prohibition question, but actually based upon religious grounds. Here, as in Oklohoma, North Carolina and Virginia, local leaders told how many Baptist and eMthodist pastors were regularly denouncing Smith from their pulpits, bringing into the campaign a degree of bitterness unprecedented since Civil War days.

On the "practical" side, the news was more cheering to Democratic ears. The Republican organization in Tennessee is torn by factional strife. Moreover, the State is ringing with the story of how Congressman J. Will Taylor, Republic- and leader of the State was "snubbed" by Hoover at Elizabethton last week. Carroll Reese, wh made the arrangements for that meeting, is a personal friend of Hoover, and a bitter personal enemy of Taylor. It is said that he caused Hoover to ignore Taylor, who had been billed to take an important part in the rally.

Leader Asks for Apology.

So incensed was Taylor that he served curt notice on the Republican National Committee that he expected an apology, and expected it promptly. How deeply the incident might affect the future conduct of the Republican campaign in Tennessee is, of course, conjectural. Politicians usually manage to bury their wounded pride when practical stakes are involved.

After an early morning demonstration at Knoxville, where a welcoming delegation boarded his train, Gov. Smith came to Chattanooga today and was given a rousing reception at the Southern Terminal station.

Gov. Horton was on the Reception Committee. There was a parade escorting the Democratic presidential nominee through the downtown streets to the Memorial Auditorium for a rally.

Special trains had brought hundreds of out-of-town visitors to take part in the Smith reception.

Knoxville turned out a large crowd to greet the nominee, but he was still in bed when that city was reached. The crowd cheered and sang the "Sidewalks of New York," but failed to get a glimpse of the Governor during the brief stop.

A. B. LEWIS KILLS SELF BY JUMPING UNDER AUTO TRUCK

Head of George D. Barnard Stationery Co., Patient at Hospital, Breaks Away From Nurse.

TRIED TO COMMIT SUICIDE MONTH AGO

Associate in Firm Says President's Breakdown in May Was Probably Due to Overwork.

Archibald B. Lewis, president of the George D. Barnard Stationery Co., ended his life today by throwing himself under a wheel of a heavy motor truck near St. Mary's Hospital, in the county, where he had been under treatment since a month ago, when he attempted suicide at his home by slashing his wrists.

Lewis was 50 years old and lived with his wife and two children at 712 Claytonia terrace, Clayton.

Accompanied by a special nurse, Mrs. Catherine Kelly, Lewis left the hospital at 10 a. m. for his regular morning walk. They were walking south on the east side of Bellevue avenue, between Harter and Hoover avenues, just south of the hospital, when the truck came north on the east side of Bellevue.

Driver Quick to Stop Truck.

The truck was driven by Frank Allen, 2747 Hermitage avenue, employed by the Breckenridge Construction Co. It was of five-ton capacity, for hauling rock, but was not loaded. Allen, taken to Clayton to give bond pending the Coroner's inquest, said he was driving about 12 miles an hour. He said he did not see the man jump in time to avoid striking him, but did stop the truck before the rear wheels reached the body.

The suicide was witnessed by Motorcycle Policeman Hartley L. Robinson of Richmond Heights, who was directing traffic attendant upon a funeral procession a block away. He obtained a statement from Dr. Warren G. Marston of St. Mary's Hospital, who had been treating Lewis since he slashed his wrists a month ago. Dr. Marston said Lewis had told him he intended to end his life at the first opportunity. No statement was obtained from the nurse.

No public report was made on the suicide attempt a month ago. Lewis' slashed wrists were still bandaged today.

Had Breakdown in May.

Lewis suffered a nervous breakdown last May and had not since been able to return to work at the Barnard company. Frank B. Coleman, a vice president, of the company, said today. He spent several months at St. Anthony's Hospital and then went to his home and later to St. Mary's. Coleman said Lewis' breakdown probably was due to overwork.

Lewis had risen to head of the stationery company after a start as office boy. Born in St. Louis, he attended Lincoln public school until family circumstances made it necessary for him to earn his own living. At the age of 13 he entered the employ of the Barnard company and since then he had worked in all departments of the concern save that of auditing and accounting. For years he was a traveling salesman for the firm, covering the Western states. The company, at 3863 Laclede avenue, has $1,000,000 capital.

SENATOR CURTIS REFUSES TO SPEAK IN ALBANY, N. Y.

"I Never Have Campaigned in the Home City of An Opponent," Says G. O. P. Candidate.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—A proposed appearance of Senator Curtis in Albany, N. Y., the home town of Gov. Smith, was vetoed today by Curtis.

"I never have campaigned in the home city of an opponent," he declared, "and I am not going to start now. I don't play the game that way."

A noon meeting in Albany in about 10 days had been tentatively arranged by the Eastern Speakers Bureau of the Republican National Committee for Senator Curtis.

GRAF ZEPPELIN REPORTED TO HAVE REACHED AZORES, 800 MILES OFF PORTUGAL

GRAF ZEPPELIN PASSENGERS FIND TRIP DELIGHTFUL

Wireless Dispatch Direct From Airship Says They Hardly Realize They Are Flying.

EASE OF TAKE-OFF A HAPPY SURPRISE

After First Novelty Wears Off Afternoon Naps in the Cabins Are the Order of the Day.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.
(Copyright, 1928.)

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, OVER THE MEDITERRANEAN, Oct. 11.—The Graf Zeppelin will be in New York Sunday forenoon if the present weather holds out. That prediction is based on indications at 10 o'clock tonight as we are driving along wonderfully smoothly. We are going at a good crossing speed of 62 miles an hour, under a dark but star gleaming sky 1500 feet above the Mediterranean, 30 miles off the coast of Spain.

It was 20 minutes past 4 o'clock this afternoon when we passed out of France over the Mediterranean 50 miles west of Marseilles. It was in the brilliant sunshine, and warm, and we were going at a 57-mile an hour cruising speed against a 15-mile head wind.

The weather is simply beautiful, Barcelona burst upon us out of the blackness of the early night at 7:45, like a city of flashing jewels. We dropped a bag of mail.

Our wireless is experiencing difficulty with strong static.

We expect to be off Gibraltar at 5 o'clock Friday morning. Our course will probably be considerably south of the Azores.

We had a good dinner tonight, consisting of cold cuts, salad, tea and excellent wines. The repast is just over and we are all happy and comfortable.

Hardly Know They Are in Air.

The 20 passengers aboard this ship vote this to have been the most wonderful day of their lives and all express astonishment at such slight realization that they are actually in the air and not on terra firma. The steward is now making up the berths as if this were a Pullman.

I have just come from the control bridge.

"The night is perfect. We are making good time," said Capt. Flemming, who is on duty.

Commodore Eckener, with whom I visited the bridge a short time earlier, said: "We will have good weather tomorrow."

At 8 o'clock tonight when we were off Barcelona we had made 670 miles in 12 hours against headwinds.

Our take-off was splendid. Our good luck surprised us. The expected difficulties in getting up in view of the weight of the ship and the low temperature lessening the lifting power, failed to hamper the start in the least.

At 8:05 o'clock this morning the steward called "last mail for Germany," preparing us for the las posting before we should cross th Rhine. At 8:45 we were at Schaffhausen, with the sinuous Rhine and beautiful Rhine Falls 900 fee below and in the distance th snowy Alps peeping through th scurrying clouds.

The last mail bag was dropped. The bag, with its scores of post-card greetings to the home folks from those on board, was blown into the falls to the loud amusement of the crowd, but to the chagrin of the writers. "The daughters of the Rhine will read them," some one shouted.

Dr. Eckener All Smiles.

Above the beautiful Rhine, gently swaying in the direction of Basel, we go at 61 miles an hour. Dr. Eckener, at the bridge, is all smiles and cheery, an infallible sign from that human barometer that the weather was improving.

"Didn't I tell you I would give you a nice trip?" he asked me. The sun has broken out. At 9:32 we are over Basel. Another mail bag goes overboard. Better luck this time. We are heading for Besancon.

The motors are keeping up a

Toombs' Adviser After His Surrender

DR. E. F. MORGENSTIERN.

BARTHOLDT INTENDS TO SUPPORT SMITH

G. O. P. Ex-Congressman Promises to Issue Statement of Reasons Soon.

Richard Bartholdt, German-American leader and Republican Congressman from the Tenth Missouri District for 22 years from 1893 to 1915, intends to support Gov. Smith in his campaign for the presidency, it was learned today.

Bartholdt, who returned a week ago from a tour of Europe, said he would give out a formal statement within a few days.

A recognized leader of citizens of German descent, Bartholdt backed the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket in 1924. Up to the time of his retirement from Congress in 1912, Bartholdt was an orthodox Republican, although he was known to have extremely liberal leanings.

Unquestionably Bartholdt's statement, when made public, will substantially strengthen the defection among German American voters which is proving a source of great vexation to Republican leaders. Its twofold cause is first the conviction among those of German descent that the stand of Gov. Smith on prohibition is more liberal and more logical than that of Hoover, and second, the impression that Hoover discriminated against the people of Germany in distribution of food after the World War.

Francis M. Curlee, president of the League of Loyal Democrats, an anti-Reed organization of 1922, has annuonced he favors Gov. Smith for the presidency on the strength of his record as a public official, and of his stand on prohibition, concerning which Curlee said that "present conditions of law enforcement are intolerable." Curlee also made an appeal for the election of Charles M. Hay, his former law partner, now Democratic nominee for United States Senator.

A Smith-for-President Club has been organized among voters of Hungarian descent in St. Louis, many of whom favor Gov. Smith not only because of his stand on prohibition but also because he is against fixing immigration quotas by the 1890 census and favors a quota based upon a later census.

A First Voters' Smith-for-President Club has been organized in the Fifteenth Ward by Mrs. P. H. Hogan, Democratic Committeewoman. The club will meet every Thursday night at Thirty-ninth street and Castleman avenue.

DR. E. F. MORGENSTIERN SURRENDERS TO POLICE

Gives $15,000 Bail Here—Jointly Indicted With Toombs for Larceny.

Dr. E. F. Morgenstiern, former personnel director of the International Life Insurance Co. and close adviser of Roy C. Toombs, former president of the company, who has not accounted for $3,500,000 of assets which he took from the company, surrendered at the Municipal Courts Building today and furnished $15,000 bond under a joint indictment against him and Toombs.

The indictment, it was revealed at the time, charges Dr. Morgenstiern and Toombs with grand larceny, specifying that Dec. 6, 1927, they appropriated $538,000 worth of "various bonds of various communities and places, the property of the International Life Insurance Co."

The Rumanian physician, handwriting expert and writer on criminology, appeared with a Chicago attorney, Edward Rothbar, and went immediately to the office of Circuit Attorney Sidener, who accompanied him to Circuit Judge Hall's courtroom, where Dr. Morgenstiern waited for court to open. The formalities were brief. Dr. Morgenstiern's attorney having made arrangements with the National Surety Co. to sign the bond.

Dr. Morgenstiern's appearance and demeanor had changed little since his departure from St. Louis, where he had impressed his business and social acquaintances by his close-lipped personality, his supposed occult powers and his strange ability to read character at sight.

Later, with Attorney Rothbar at his elbow, Dr. Morgenstiern explained that in December, 1927, Toombs asked him to accompany B. O. McReynolds to New York with some bonds. With the assurance that the transaction had been ordered by the board of directors, Dr. Morgenstiern said he and McReynolds went to New York and delivered the bonds at the Central Union Trust Co. "I was but a messenger carrying out the order of my superior," he said.

Hail and Snow in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 12.—Cold blasts of rain, pelting hail, stabs of lightning and flurries of snow brought an early winter to Southern California last night and early today.

SIGHTED 60 MILES WEST OF MADEIRA

Dirigible on Way From Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J. Follows Southern Route.

MAY NOT ARRIVE BEFORE MONDAY

Acknowledges Weather Reports From Hamburg by Wireless but Does Not Give Its Position.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Paris late today said that advices had been receivd from Ponta Delgada that the Graf Zeppelin had passed the Azores this evening.

No direct advices had been received from the Azores at 3:45 p. m., Eastern standard time, reporting the passage of the Graf Zeppelin. The Azores are approximately 600 miles from Madeira, which the Graf Zeppelin passed over at 7:30 a. m. St. Louis time. With favorable winds the Zeppelin could cover the distance in eight hours at 75 miles an hour, but in view of the contrary winds which the ship has been encountering this appears somewhat doubtful.

The Azores are 800 miles west of Portugal.

By the Associated Press.

PONDA DELGADA, SAO MIGUEL, Azores Islands, Oct. 12.—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin sent a radio message at 6:25 p. m., saying that she would pass over this island at 10 o'clock tonight.

(That would be 4 p. m., St. Louis time).

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 12 (6:30 p. m.)—Latest news from Horta indicates that Dr. Hugo Eckener, instead of going directly to Bermuda, is heading sharply for the Azores which he expects to reach early this evening.

Aeronautic circles which had received direct advices from Dr. Eckener at noon that he would head for Bermuda, concluded that this reported change of plan was prompted by the hope that he would be ablo pick up by radio American weather stations from the Azores and that he could then determine what course to follow from that point.

The last definite report of the position of the airship was received from the steamship Euclid, west of the Island of Madeira, and 500 miles off the African coast. This said that the dirigible was flying west-northwest on a course that would carry her midway between a direct line to the Azores and to Bermuda.

FUNCHAL, Island of Madeira, Oct. 12.—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin passed over Funchal at a great height at 12:30 p. m. (7:30 a. m. St. Louis time).

(Madeira is 600 miles southeast of the Azores.)

The baromoter was steadily rising, there was a slight breeze and visibility was good.

While passing over Funchal the Zeppelin dropped a mail bag for the German consul here. It fell in the garden of a casino.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A Reuter's dispatch from Ponta Delgada in the Azores reporting that the Graf Zeppelin passed over the island of Madeira said the passengers were reported to be exceedingly air sick.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 12.—Dodging far to the south to avoid strong headwinds, the giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin today was headed south of the Azores, planning to reach the United States by way of Bermuda.

Advised after leaving Gibraltar on his way to the Azores that the headwinds would make a flight over those islands inadvisable if not impossible, Dr. Hugo Eckener, the dirigible's commander, decided to change his course and head for the Island of Mederia, 450 miles off

AUGUSTA STETSON, OUSTED CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST, 87, DIES

Woman Who Said She Was Immortal and That Mrs. Eddy Would Return Succumbs in Rochester, N. Y.

TRIED TO CENSOR NATIONAL ANTHEM

She Was Expelled From Church Following Move to Set Self Up as Successor to Founder.

By the Associated Press.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, one of the early preachers and subsequently a leader in the Church of Christ Scientist, died here today following an illness of 10 weeks. She was 87 years old.

Following the death in 1910 of Mary Baker Eddy, Mrs. Stetson launched a movement to have herself recognized as her successor in the leadership of the Christian Science Church. This, however, was unsuccessful, and Mrs. Stetson was expelled from the church. She then established a church of her own, but this had no connection with the Christian Science Mother Church in Boston.

Mrs. Stetson had been staying with her nephew, Maj. Harold W. Stimson, at Hotel Sagamore here since her return from his cottage in Canada in August. Stimson and his mother, Mrs. E. W. Stimson, a sister of Mrs. Stetson, survive.

Reports several weeks ago that Mrs. Stetson was seriously ill was denied by her relatives.

Declared She'd Never Die.

Mrs. Stetson repeatedly proclaimed that she would never die, physically or spiritually. She always refused to tell the date of her birth and her age was not generally known even among those close to her. She held that only sinners died, and that as her life was unstained by sin her immortality was assured.

Not long ago she followed a statement of belief in physical immortality with the assertion Mrs. Eddy would shortly return to the world, because Mrs. Eddy was the Christ in feminine form. The trustees of the Christian Science Church in Boston emphatically repudiated that idea.

Aside from her part in a "spite wall" suit, Mrs. Stetson was perhaps best known to the general public for her attempts to abolish the third stanza of the "Star Spangled Banner."

She was called as a witness in 1924 before Deputy Commissioner of Accounts Loudon, in New York City, who was investigating the financial source of an alleged flood of propaganda against the National Anthem. She testified that she had spent $16,000 for an advertising campaign aimed at causing the third stanza to be struck out. She maintained that the stanza was subversive to both peace and good will.

Born in Waldboro, Me.

Mrs. Stetson was born at Waldboro, Me., and was the daughter of Peabody and Salome Sprague Simmons. She was educated in schools at Damariscotta, Me., Newcastle, Me., and the Blish School of Oratory and the Metaphysical College of Boston.

Mrs. Eddy conferred upon her the degree of Doctor of Christian Science (C. S. D.)

Mrs. Stetson's husband, who died several years ago, was Capt. Frederick J. Stetson. They were married at Damariscotta, Me.

Beginning the practice of Christian Science healing in 1884, Mrs. Stetson the next year preached on alternate Sundays in the Mother Church, in Boston. She was sent to New York City in 1886 by Mrs. Eddy and became one of the organizers and charter members of the First Church of Christ Scientist, New York.

She preached regularly in the church and in 1888 became its pastor, which title was changed in 1895 to first reader. She continued in that office until the rule of rotation was inaugurated making a term three years. Her total tenure of office as pastor and first reader was 17 years.

When the New York Christian Science Institute was chartered in 1891, Mrs. Stetson became its principal. She raised $1,250,000 to build the First Church in New York City and dedicated it free of debt, as soon as it was completed in 1903. The entire amount was contributed by Mrs. Stetson and her students.

Trouble Developed in 1909.

Friction arose between Mrs. Stetson and the mother church and she resigned her membership in the First Church, New York, in 1909.

Some years later Mrs. Stetson and trustees of the First Church in New York became involved in litigation which occupied the attention of the courts for a long time and which became known as "the spite wall" suit. Mrs. Stetson brought the action to restrain the trustees from building at 17-foot stone wall between the church in West Ninety-sixth street and her home, which adjoined the church.

The litigation grew out of differences which began in 1909, when Mrs. Stetson was summoned to Boston by the Christian Science Board of Directors for questioning them as to the correctness of Mrs. Stetson's teaching of Christian Science.

Engaged in Doctrinal Dispute.

Mrs. Stetson, who had been personally taught by Mary Baker Eddy, as a class student, and had been guided by Mrs. Eddy in her New York work for more than 25 years, by letter and by personal conferences, refused to recant or compromise with the directors on the doctrinal issue, and was dropped by them from membership in the Boston church organization.

Mrs. Stetson then resigned her position in the church in New York to still factional strife within the church between the Boston directors' adherents, and Mrs. Stetson's students who had built the church. Mrs. Stetson's co-trustees of First Church, then in office, resigned with her, and newcomers in sympathy with the Boston directors and hostile to Mrs. Stetson gained possession of her church building on Jan. 1, 1910.

The project to build the 17-foot wall, which the trustees said was to be part of a "covered passageway" to the rear door of the church, began in 1911. Counsel for Mrs. Stetson said that the proposed wall was not in good faith, but an effort to harass Mrs. Stetson, that it would damage her property to the extent of $25,000; that it was a case of "shylock demanding a pound of flesh," and that the wall was useless to the church.

13 Years of Litigation.

Counsel for the trustees introduced no evidence or witnesses, conceding the physical facts in the case, but claimed the legal right to erect the wall. They denied that the agreement in the deed prevented the church corporation from building the wall.

Witnesses who appeared in court for Mrs. Stetson included her architect, Richard Howland Hunt, and several of her former co-trustees, William H. Taylor, Joseph B. Whitney and Dr. John Franklin Crowell. The outcome of the preliminary suit was in favor of Mrs. Stetson, but the litigation continued for 13 years thereafter.

The decision decreed that no construction of any kind should be erected to shut off the "light, air, view and access" between Mrs. Stetson's $75,000 home and the church.

ZEPPELIN SIGHTED 500 MILES OFF COAST OF AFRICA

the northwest coast of Africa and thence fly to the United States by way of Bermuda. This news was received by the Zeppelin works here.

The latest weather reports indicated that a storm area reached down to the Azores.

In view of slow progress made by the airship Graf Zeppelin in bucking headwinds on its flight along the Spanish coast to Gibraltar, experts today estimated the dirigible would require 100 hours for the trip to Lakehurst, N. J. This would mean that the ship would reach her American port at 6 a. m. Monday, Eastern standard time.

The latest weather reports this morning stated that new storms were coming on the Atlantic, and that the Graf Zeppelin would probably have to go out of her way somewhat to steer clear of the worst weather.

It was pointed out that because of the adverse winds the Graf Zeppelin needed more time for reaching Gibraltar than the ZR-3 had needed to reach the Azores. With the detour it was estimated that in traveling to Lakehurst she would have to cover about 6300 miles.

STEAMSHIP GLOUCESTER CASTLE, Oct. 12.—(By radio to the Associated Press)—At 11:17 a. m., Greenwich time (5:17 a. m. St. Louis time) at latitude 34.01 north, longitude 13:17 west, sighted German airship bearing south 88 east true, apparently steering to the westward. (The position given by the Gloucester Castle is about 150 miles northeast of the Island of Madeira) which is about 700 miles from Gilbraltar.)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The master of the motor vessel Dagomba wirelessed the Associated Press this afternoon that he had sighted the Graf Zeppelin at 12:54, Greenwich time (7:54 a. m. Eastern standard time), northeast of Madeira.

The message read: "In latitude 34.41 North Longitude 14.06 west sighted German airship Graf Zeppelin boarding 196 degrees steering west approximate distance 20 miles 12:54, Greenwich mean time."

The Dagomba sighted the airship one hour and 37 minutes after the Graf Zeppelin was seen by the Gloucester Castle. In that time she had remained at approximately the same latitude but had progressed about 100 miles to the West.

Weather Generally Favorable Over Zeppelin's Route.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Generally favorable weather prevailed today over the indicated ocean course of the Graf Zeppelin on her flight to America, said Dr. James H. Kimball of the Weather Bureau. "Of course, the ship will encounter local storms," he said, "for there are always local storms over the Atlantic, but there are no general storms indicated. so far as reports to the Bureau show."

steady droning symphony as we pass over the checkerboard of tiny farms and fields in the Rhine valley. We are flying low, stampeding the cattle and making the chickens scamper. The dogs bark at us.

France is chilly toward our ship. The people stand and stare at the monster of the sky and all the passengers comment that not a single handkerchief is waved and no hands are raised to wave at us so far except for one military flyer who came along close to us, photographed us and shook his hands in a friendly manner.

At 1 o'clock we passed Lyons. I go out to the control bridge where young Knut Eckener is at the elevator wheel, the Commodore himself sitting in a chair, his eyes on everything.

Rosendahl Takes a Nap.

Capt. Flemming bent over a plate of hot soup. Lehmann and Skerz are standing over the charts. Commander Rosendahl of the Los Angeles, who is bunking with me, lies down to take a much needed nap. Buckets of hot soup and stews begin to pass from the tiny kitchen and disappear down the narrow gangway into interminable depths.

We lunched with a gorgeous panorama of snow-capped Alps about us. At our left was Mont Blanc, majestically towering above the rest. Everybody is hungry. I sat down with Commander Rosendahl, Col. Herrera, Prof. Dettmann, Rolf Brandt and Theo Matejko.

Dr. Eckener came through from the bridge and went to his cabin to snatch a little sleep.

We were over Valons at 2:30. The first excitement and novelty was beginning to wear off and the passengers mostly retired to their cabins for afternoon naps.

DAWES AND HOOVER TO SPEAK AT NEW YORK RALLY OCT. 22

Vice President Will Open His Campaign for Republican National Ticket With Nominee.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committeeman, announced last night that Vice President Dawes would make his first New York campaign speech for Hoover on the night of Oct. 22 in Madison Square Garden, on the same platform in which the nominee himself is to make his first New York appearance of the campaign.

Hilles, who returned from a conference with Hoover at Washington yesterday, said the nominee and his party would arrive here on the morning of Oct. 22, have luncheon with members of the campaign organization and depart for Washington soon after the Madison Square Garden address.

HOW POWER TRUST FOUGHT OREGON UTILITY PROPOSAL

Witness Says $29,000 Was Spent Against Housewives' Water Plan Amendment.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The campaign waged late in 1926 by the Oregon Public Utility Committee against the Housewives' Council "water and power" amendment to the State Constitution was outlined today in the Federal Trade Commission's power inquiry by H. L. Walther, manager of the Oregon Public Utility Information Bureau at Portland.

He identified a campaign expense report made to the State, which showed that $29,677.44 had been spent, and said the means used had included State-wide speaking, distribution of pamphlets by utility employes, and newspaper advertising.

The committee was made up of utility representatives connected with his bureau, Walther said, but was not sponsored directly by the bureau. He described the amendment as intended to enable the State to go into the power business, with an authorization of a $53,000,000 bond issue to finance the work. Copies of the amendment introduced into evidence by Robert E. Healy, commission counsel, showed that it was backed by an organization of housewives.

Healy brought up the fight on the amendment after Walther had denied that the bureau was a political organization rather than an informative one. The witness testified that the weekly news service maintained by the bureau had sent out articles intended to arouse public opinion against the amendment and that similar matter had been circulated in pamphlet form to employes of utility companies.

Speakers Named by Witness.

The speakers named by Walther included A. A. Smith, a lawyer assisting him; Chris Scheubel, an Oregon City lawyer, and Elmer Johnson a Portland lawyer. He said these men had spoken to organizations which consented to hear them, such as city clubs and chambers of commerce. Smith was said to be getting a monthly salary of $416 from the bureau and to have received $325 for his speaking. Two payments made to Scheubel were said by Walther to have totaled $2210, and Johnson was paid $60.

Campaign expense accounts showed a payment of $100 to E. E. Smith, whom Walther described as a Portland publisher. He said this payment was for the writing and publishing in a magazine of an article opposing the amendment. A payment of $300 to A. C. Gage also was shown in the expense account, and Walther said this was for working on advertising matter. The total amount spent for advertising was $18,715 and the total spent for pamphlets was $5662.

Walther said he had been with the Bureau since May, 1926, and that it had been financed through contributions from utility interests of the State since being formed in 1923. He said he was formerly employed by the California Power Company, for which he carried on a legislative service. This consisted, he said, of analyzing and reporting to the company on bills affecting utilities introduced before the State legislature.

Utility Contributions.

Walther said contributions for the campaign against the amendment had totaled $36,000, and that refunds had been made of the money which was not used. The list of companies to which funds were returned was entered, and this showed that the largest, amounting to $2445, had gone to the Portland Electric Power Co. Other companies on the list included the Mountain States Power Co., the Northwestern Electric Co., the Pacific Power and Light Co., and the California-Oregon Power Co.

The witness estimated that contributions toward the work of his bureau by utility companies had totaled $30,000 in 1927; and testified that $18,099 had been received in May, 1927, from the Northwest Geographic Division of the National Electric Light Association.

Healy then went into contracts between Walther's organization and the Washington Industries Education Bureau, about which Mrs. Clare K. Tripp testified yesterday. Walther's testimony coincided with that of Mrs. Tripp. He said the bureau had begun contributing $100 a month to the Washington organization last March, and verified Mrs. Tripp's assertion that he had prepared the data upon which was based the article about Oregon power which bore her name and was intended for circulation in the schools.

Herbert Hoover Quoted.

The views of Herbert Hoover concerning Government operation of utilities were quoted in publicity matter circulated by Walther's Bureau on Feb. 4, 1928, it was revealed through a file of news releases, which was put into the record by Healy. Under the caption "Liferty Safe-guarded," the release said:

"The prominence of Herbert Hoover as candidate for the presidency gives to his views more than ordinary interest at this time. The present Secretary of Commerce in the Cabinet of President Coolidge has made the following utterance on 'our Government.'

"'Neither our national nor our state Governments are planned or equipped for the task of Government operation of utilities. The fathers purposely made our Government to a different model, for a different task. They divided power and responsibility where business must concentrate them. They thought liberty and individual rights were worth safeguarding."

RETURNED ENVELOPES DISCLOSE SAFE HAD BEEN ROBBED

The receipt through the mail yesterday of two envelopes and a pay check was the first inkling of officials of the Hirschfield Bros. Dress Co., 1307 Washington avenue, had that the safe in their office had been robbed.

The envelopes, which bore the return address of Hirschfield Bros., had contained a ring worth $100, the pay check and $3, the property of Miss Argin Long, an employe. The valuables were placed in the safe several days ago when Miss Long became ill. The thief kept the ring and $3 and dropped the envelopes, one containing Miss Long's pay check, in a mail box.

The auditorium capable of seating more than 5000 was nearly filled when the Governor, brown derby in hand, was escorted in by Gov. Horton and other State leaders.

Prior to the Governor's entry, which touched off a demonstration, announcement was made that he would deliver a campaign speech in Nashville tonight.

Judge M. M. Allison announced to the crowd in the auditorium here that the Governor, to conserve his voice, would make only an impromptu speech of greeting and added that his positiono on all questions is well known. "We know that the Tennessee Democrats," said former State Senator J. B. Frazier, introducing the Governor "who despise bigotry and hypocrisy, will rise in their might and carry the Democratic candidate to the presidency."

Governor Smith brought his brown derby deep down into the slouch hat country today. In Tennessee, as in Virginia and North Carolina, his purpose is to stiffen the shaken morale of his party and insure for himself the votes which Democratic presidential candidates in the past usually have taken for granted.

His method represented a rather novel compromise between the insistence of his advisers and his own opinion. He has been urged that a speaking campaign is necessary to hold these border states in line. On the other hand, he believes they are perfectly safe. The outcome was a compromise, in which he agreed to make a flying trip through this country, but to deliver no set speeches. Thus he has traveled from New York to East Tennessee in two days, passing through some of the principal cities of the Atlantic seaboard, without saying anything beyond the conventional responses to welcoming demonstrations.

Demonstrations of Welcome.

If the size of the crowds and the degree of their enthusiasm is a safe index to the political situation, the candidate is justified in feeling that he was right and his advisers mistaken. His passing yesterday through Virginia and North Carolina was punctuated by a constant succession of tremendous, cheering throngs and riotous demonstrations of welcome. The total number of persons by whom he was seen and cheered during the day must have been near 200,000.

Beginning at noon at Richmond, where a huge crowd surged and stormed through the streets and around the State Capitol, the performance was repeated during the day at Raleigh, N. C., Burlington, Salisbury and Greensboro, and last night at Charlotte and Statesville. Up to and long past midnight each town and village through which the special train passed— times without even slowing —presented the inevitable expa of upturned, waiting faces, and the inescapable roar for "Al!"

Governor Waves His Derby.

There were parades—long ones at Richmond and Raleigh, shorter ones at Greensboro and Charlotte —in which the Governor smiled and waved his derby through row lanes, hedged closely in by the multitudes on either side. He made two or three brief talks, knowledging the greetings, and shook hands with scores from the back platform of his car.

Crowds are deceiving, as every experienced political observer knows. The largest crowd ever gathered in any State to welcome a candidate probably did constitute more than five per of its voting population. One not forget the tumultuous who fought to hear La Follette 1924—any more than one forg the fact that he carried but State. Moreover, it was recall that these Southern people seldom had an opportunity to see a presidential candidate either party. The last one previously to appear in Raleigh for example, was Henry Clay, on the occasion when he delivered historic speech against the annexation of Texas in 1844. Here many of those who assembled along the route yesterday and today may have been actuated curiosity.

However, Gov. Smith drew assurance from the number standing of State leaders who him, as well as from their attitude toward him and the reports which they gave him. In Richmond he was publicly attended Gov. Byrd and Senator Glass, both of whom assured him that Virginia was safe for the Democratic ticket.

North Carolina admittedly more doubtful. There Senator Furnifold Simmons, long the recognized Democratic leader of the State, is off the reservation the wet issue, and has said he not vote for Smith. Senator Overman, however, traveled much the way across the State in the Governor's private car, and in one town spoke in his behalf from the rear platform. Also, Gov. Mc Lean was on the train most of the day. Both assured Smith that he had the virtually solid support the regular Democratic organization in the State, and predicted would carry it by a safe majority John W. Davis carried it over Coolidge in 1924 by 93,000. Local servers were virtually unanimous in the opinion that the religious issue constitutes the chief dan to the Democratic ticket in Carolina.

GANGSTER HELD IN MURDER ON WOMAN'S STORY

Mrs. Dorothy Woods Appears Before County Grand Jury Against Tommy Hayes.

Information which may clear up a number of gang murders in St. Louis County, as well as a series of bombings and robberies, has been given to the St. Louis County grand jury by Mrs. Dorothy Woods, a former friend of Tommy Hayes, Cuckoo gangster, now under arrest.

One indictment has been voted already as a result of her testimony, it is understood. Hayes, released at Clayton last night on a $5000 bond on a warrant charging him with brandishing a revolver at Mrs. Woods in a "rude, angry and threatening" manner, was immediately taken into custody by St. Louis police who plan to hold him indefinitely.

It's the old story of the woman scorned. Returning home last Wednesday from a hospital where she had been some time, Mrs. Woods accused Hayes of paying attentions to other women and, moreover, stealing her clothes. Hayes is alleged to have hit and kicked Mrs. Woods and threatened to shoot her with a revolver he flourished. A deputy sheriff who was summoned found Mrs. Woods at the home of Roy Schooley, an attorney, who has been convicted of participation in the Festus, Mo., bank holdup robbery, where she had taken refuge. Hayes fled, but was arrested elsewhere.

Woman Conducted Roadhouse.

Mrs. Woods conducted a roadhouse at Sutter and Plymouth avenues, University City, until 18 months ago, when it burned down, and she moved to a house in the neighborhood, where Hayes also lived. Last July James Russo and Mike Longo, gangsters, were shot to death on the grounds of the old roadhouse by rival gangsters who escaped in an automobile, later abandoned, which bore a license plate which had been issued to Mrs. Woods.

Hayes was one of two men ordered held by the Coroner's jury which investigated the murders, but they were turned loose by the Prosecuting Attorney and Sheriff. At that time Mrs. Woods professed not to know anything about the murders. She maintained her silence until her quarrel with Hayes, Wednesday, after which she volunteered to go before the grand jury.

Mrs. Woods Guarded.

Obviously in fear of gang violence, Mrs. Hayes was guarded to and from the Courthouse by a Deputy Sheriff. During the noon recess she refused to leave the building and had her lunch brought to her.

One of the murders in which she is understood to possess inside information is that of Philip Cracchiolo, proprietor of a Wellston saloon, who was shot to death in August a few days after he had given authorities details of an extortion plot which resulted in "Big Bill" Davis, extortionist, murder suspect and ex-convict, being shot and killed by police in the saloon.

Mrs. Woods also is understood to have information about a jewelry robbery and several bombings. In this connection, it is recalled that after Russo and Longo were murdered a supply of dynamite was found in a shed there.

JUDGE RAKES U. S. OFFICERS FOR SEIZING MAN'S MONEY

Truckman Accused of Mail Robbery Says They Took $20,000 From Him.

A motion in behalf of E. G. Skulidis, 21 South Fifteenth street, a Union Station mail trucker, charged with rifling the mails, for the return of $6500 in certificates of deposit and minor items of personal property which he says Postoffice Inspectors took from him after his arrest July 31, was overruled today by Federal Judge Faris, who, however, criticised the officers' action as an arrogation of authority which they did not possess.

"The time has not come," the Judge said, "when Government officers can take Czar-like actions of this character and ignore the rights of the individual."

Skulidis had $30,000 in money and certificates when arrested. Admitting the theft of $3500 from the mails, according to inspectors, he gave them that amount in cash, and then put up $20,000 more of his money as cash bail for him. The Government charges that Skulidis robbed the mails over a 12-year period and that all his savings came from that source.

Judge Faris overruled the motion for lack of jurisdiction, but after his critical remarks District Attorney Breuer said he would advise the inspectors to return the defendant's property. Assistant District Attorney Stattler, he explained, had told the inspectors they could take it because they wanted him to give them such advice.

NEW PLANE SAID TO CLIMB 1000 FEET IN 27 SECONDS

By the Associated Press.

MARSHALL, Mo., Oct. 12.—A new shell type unconventional all-metal monoplane, which he said was capable of high speed with a light, air-cooled motor and would climb to 500 feet faster than Government pursuit planes, was announced here yesterday by Walter H. Barling, builder of the Barling bomber.

The plane, which has the wing at the lower part of the fuselage, was under construction six months in the factory of the Nicholas-Beazler Airplane Co. here. Secret tests have been made and it was said the plane would take off in two seconds, climb 1000 feet in 27 seconds and land at 30 miles an hour.

Barling, who said he had been working on the design for 13 years, was a designer for the British Royal Air Forces during the World War.

Featherweight Knocked Down by 190-Pounder When He Tries to "Crash Gate."

John Kaiser, 25 years old better known as "Peewee" Kaiser, local featherweight boxer, had a disastrous encounter with William Miller, a 190-pound Deputy Sheriff of East St. Louis, last night.

According to Miller "Peewee" insisted on being admitted to Ainad Temple in East St. Louis, where a marathon dancing contest is going on, without paying the customary admission fee. Miller says he warned Kaiser to depart. Instead of complying with the order Kaiser is alleged to have struck the big Deputy Sheriff, who promptly knocked the 126-pound boxer down.

Kaiser came up for two more knockdowns before submitting to arrest. He was fined $5 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct by Justice of the Peace Stocker this morning.

FIRE DEPARTMENT TESTS 65-FOOT PUMPING TOWER

Apparatus Can Throw Stream as High as Seventeenth Story of a Building.

Tests yesterday of the St. Louis Fire Department's new 65-foot pumping tower, which is 20 feet higher than the apparatus now in use, indicated that it can throw a stream to the seventeenth story of a building. It shot a shaft of water 205 feet across vacant property at Thirteenth and Gratiot streets in the face of a stiff breeze.

Built under the direction of Master Mechanic A. W. Meier of old materials, it cost only $7858, whereas such a piece of apparatus new would cost about $23,000. It is equipped with three hoses, a hydraulic hoist attached to a motor, and searchlights for night use. Tests were made in the presence of Fire Chief Alt, other department officials and about 500 spectators.

THREE YOUTHS WHO KILLED 'FOR A THRILL' GET LIFE

Sentenced in Pittsburg After Admitting They Held Up and Murdered Night Watchman.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 12.—Confessing that they robbed and killed "for a thrill" three young men were sentenced today to life in the penitentiary by Judge James H. Gray. They pleaded guilty to a charge of murdering Edward Flynn, a night watchman, in a holdup.

Michael Ferraro, 17 years old; Henry Constanza, 18, and Lloyd Moore, 19, told the Court they engaged in holdups and shootings for "a big throll." Joseph Ferraro, 22, brother of Michael, who pleaded guilty as an accessory after the fact, was sentenced to serve from two to four years in the penitentiary.

Judge Gray said doctors who examined the defendants had reported to him that Constanza was above the average in intelligence; Joe Ferraro was average, and his brother, Michael, was subnormal, and Moore was of the moron type.

SAYS CARMEN'S DEMANDS MEAN FULL 10-CT. FARE

Street Car Statistician Asserts Increase of 1.8 Cts. Above 8-Ct. Rate Would Be Required.

William B. Bennett, statistician for the Public Service Co., said today, in the City Hall hearing on the street car company's wage arbitration with its employes, that if all the men's demands were met, a fare 1.8 cents higher than the present straight 8-cent fare would be needed.

This would mean a straight 10-cent fare, and not merely, as the company's officers have been suggesting, a 10-cent cash fare with the sale of tokens in quantities at a 7½-cent rate.

Bennett estimated that compliance with all the men's demands would add $3,172,714 to the company's annual costs. Of this, less than one-fourth, or about $750,000, would represent wage increases to present employes. The greater part, he said, would be for added employes, much of it for work not done.

800 More Men, He Says.

He interpreted the men's demand that 65 per cent of the carmen's runs be made "straight" runs, of eight hours' work within not more than nine hours. At present, 35 per cent of the runs are in this class. He said the proposed program would call for the hiring of 800 more men, whose wages would make up the remainder of the amount he named.

At present, Bennett said, the company pays $139,430 a year for work not done, as in a case where a man takes out a car for 6½ hours, turn in because of slacking business, but is paid for eight hours. Under the program demanded by the men, Bennett said, the company would pay $1,161,690 a year for time not representing actual work.

The proposal for a 10-cent cash fare, with tokens at 7½ cents, made yesterday by Stanley Clarke, executive vice president of the company, has impressed city officials favorably, and Associate City Counselor Ferris has undertaken a further inquiry into the matter.

The company has made a study which it thinks indicates that no more than 5 per cent of the riders would pay 10 cents and that the remaining 95 per cent would benefit to the extent of one-half cent a ride over the present 8-cent fare.

When the fare was 8 cents cash and two tokens for 15 cents, the company records that no more than 9 per cent of the riders in any given period ever paid the full cash fare, and that as few as 4 per cent at times did so.

Loss on 8-Cent Fare.

The advantage to the company was estimated by Clarke as a possible increase of as much as $100,000 a year in revenue and the certainty of collecting fare from virtually every passenger. The company thinks it does not collect the present fare of 8 cents from every pasenger—that in rush hours many boarders of cars drop something less than 8 cents, or anything to make a deceptive tinkle in the farebox.

Moreover, speed in loading would be materially increased if tokens were generally used. Speed in loading means quicker runs and quicker runs mean lowered operating costs.

DECLINE IN CAR RIDERS FOR SIX-YEAR PERIOD AS SHOWN BY COMPANY

EXHIBITS of the St. Louis Public Service Co., introduced at the wage arbitration before the Public Service Commission to support the desire of the company to cut wages of its employes five cents an hour or 7.6 per cent, show a progressive decline in street car riding since 1923, as follows:

	Revenue Passengers.
1924	279,222,520
1925	270,103,400
1926	269,555,730
1927	258,810,976
1928 (first 8 months)	167,842,381

The number of passengers carried in the first eight months of 1928 was fewer by 5,373,989 than the number of passengers carried in the first eight months of 1927.

WOMAN WAITING TO BE OPERATED ON DIES

Miss Margaret Boegemann Succumbs to Heart Ailment in Doctor's Ofice.

A Coroner's verditc of death formnatural causes was returned today in the case of Miss Margaret Goegemann, 28 years old, a bookkeeper, of 2864 Wisconsin avenue, who died yesterday afternoon in the office of Dr. Oscar F. Baerens, throat specialist, in the Arcade Building, as he was preparing to remove her tonsils.

An autopsy discolsed that death was due to thymico-status lymphaticus, a gland condition near the heart, and to acute dilation of the heart caused by the gland trouble. Coroner Vitt, a physician, explained preparations for the operation had no connection with these causes of death.

Dr. Baerens testified he had sprayed Miss Boegemann's throat with a combination of local anesthetics, which he told her would make her throat numb and prevent speech temporarily, and that he cautioned her not to let that fact excite her. However, he said, she became hysterical, threw herself upon him and then fell back. Three other physicians were called in, but were unable to revive her by artificial respiration.

Miss Boegemann's sister, Cecelia, who had been waiting in an anteroom, testified that she had gone to the doctor's office in apparently good health. Coroner Vitt said Miss Boegemann would have been overcome in any surroundings, if excited.

ZEPPELIN COMING TO ST. LOUIS; TO BE IN U. S. TEN DAYS

Dr. Eckener Plans Extensive Inland Flight That Will Take Dirigible West to Mississippi River.

QUICK ROUND TRIP AIM OF MASTER

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—A stay of not more than 10 days in the United States, including one extensive inland flight that will take her to the Mississippi River and over as many cities as possible, is planned by the German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, according to announcement made last night by representatives of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation and the German railroads information office. The craft is expected to spend only four days at the Lakehurst naval aero station, reservicing after her trans-Atlantic voyage.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, master of the giant airship, is said to be eager for a quick round trip, not only to prove the ability of his craft, but in order to visit the International Aeronautical Exposition now being held in Berlin. This show closes the latter part of October.

St. Louis on Itinerary.

Another reason for cutting short the visit is that Dr. Eckener and his crew want to make another round trip to the United States before the end of the year. Hugh Allen of the Goodyear-Zeppelin organization, and Ernst Schmitz of the German railroads group, in making these plans public also disclosed that the Graf Zeppelin's inland itinerary will take her over St. Louis, Boston, Akron, Detroit, Chicago, Louisville, Washington, Philadelphia and others, New York being due for a glimpse of the huge craft both going and coming. Many other cities have asked that they be included in the visit.

A number of civilian passengers will be taken on this cruise and on the return trip to Germany, but no decision has yet been made on the many applications received for a ride on the "super-Zep."

Lakehurst Ready for Zeppelin.

Officers and enlisted men at the Lakehurst Naval Station have completed preparations for handling the big Zeppelin.

If the wind is favorable and not too strong the Graf Zeppelin will be run into the hangar with the Los Angeles, and the two Navy blimps J-3 and J4. If the wind is unfavorable, she will be moored to the mast at the far side of the field.

One hundred and eighty additional men from the Brooklyn Navy Yard have been ordered here to assist the 270 men of the regular landing crew. The extra men are needed because of size of the Zeppelin, which is 100 feet longer than the Navy dirigible Los Angeles.

The detail of 55 Marines stationed here has been augmented by 12 State troopers to handle the crowds which are expected.

Rear Admiral Moffett, head of the Naval Air Forces, and Rear Admiral J. L. Latimer are to be on hand to welcome the visitors.

The J-3 and J-4, if the weather is favorable, will go to meet the Zeppelin somewhere along the coast and escort her over New York City and then to the naval field here. The Los Angeles will not be taken out.

New York Welcome Plans.

Five military planes from Mitchel Field, Long Island, and many commercial ships bearing photographers, are to act as an escort for the dirigible. They plan to take off as soon as the Zeppelin nears the coast and fly with her over the city.

Monday the city's official welcome will be given the air travelers, provided the Zeppelin arrives Sunday. They are scheduled to arrive at Jersey City by train from Lakehurst at 12:07 p. m. There they will be met by the municipal tug Macom, which will bring them across the Hudson River to Pier A, the Battery, landing place of many distinguished visitors. There they will enter automobiles and with an army and navy escort parade to City Hall, where Mayor Walker will extent the city's official welcome. The ceremonies are to be broadcast by WYNYC.

After the reception at City Hall the visitors will be taken on an automobile tour of the city, ending at the Advertising Club on Park avenue, where they are to be guests at luncheon. They will be guests at a private dinner that night and then attend a show.

Tuesday they are to be taken on a four of the harbor aboard the Macom, returning in time for luncheon at the Hotel Astor as guests of the Associated Business for Better New York. They will be guests at a reception at the German Club that afternoon and at dinner at the Hotel Astor that night. Additional private affairs will probably be arranged for individual members of the party for the next few days.

DEMOCRATIC GAINS SEEM PROBABLE IN BUCHANAN COUNTY

United Party Organization Is Working Hard for Smith but Anti-Catholic Feeling Is Strong.

LARGE VOTE CERTAIN; OUTCOME IN DOUBT

"Scratchin' est County" Likely to Live Up to Name—G. O. P. Leaders Confident of Victory.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 12.—Buchanan, known as the "scratchin'-est county" in the State in elections, seemingly is going to live up to its reputation this year, and a Democratic gain over the Coolidge-Davis vote of four years ago is indicated. That the 2750 Coolidge majority will be wiped out and a Smith majority recorded seems hardly likely, but anything can happen in Buchanan County and, it might be said, does happen nearly every election.

Democratic leaders here appear certain Smith will have a small majority, but Republican leaders, on the other hand, appear equally certain Hoover will carry the county.

About the only thing that is certain is a much larger vote than the total of 35,000 cast in 1924. As to how it will be divided, there is a difference of opinion among well informed politicians of the two parties.

Taking all the elements into consideration, however, it would seem that the Democrats can expect to make a better showing than in any presidential election in the past 10 years.

Democratic Harmony.

The Democrats have an advantage, in that the county normally is Democratic. Usually Democratic nominees for county offices win, though Buchanan goes Republican in presidential elections about as often as Democratic, Harding and Coolidge having carried it. Generally speaking, Republican successes in the county have been due to disruption of the Democratic party.

There usually are two powerful Democratic factions, and organization and primary fights frequently leave such bitterness that a part of the Democratic ticket fails. This year, however, the factions are more nearly harmonious than they have been in nearly 20 years.

An increased registration may be regarded as advantageous to the Democrats, and a greater interest by Democrats, as shown by the primary vote, is a factor to be considered. The total primary vote last August was 16,543, an increase of 2295 over the 1924 primary. Of this increase, 1735 was in the Democratic primary and only 560 in the Republican.

The Democrats have put on the registration books this year practically all of the Catholic Sisters. They have not been in the habit of voting. A larger proportion of the Negro vote than a Democratic candidate usually gets also will go to Smith, but this is not a great factor and undoubtedly Democratic estimates that this will mean 700 or 800 votes are exaggerated. More likely the Democrtaic Negro vote will not exceed 200.

In a town the size of St. Joseph, the third city of the State in population, a considerable number of Republican votes will go to Smith on the prohibition issue, but it is impossible to estimate the extent of this with any degree of accuracy.

Anti-Catholic Sentiment.

All of this looks favorable for Smith, but—it is a fairly good sized "but"—this advantage would be wiped out and a Republican gain shown if the Republicans are even approximately correct in their estimates of the extent of the Democratic anti-Catholic defection. From Republican sources one hears there will be from 6000 to 8000 Buchanan County Democrats who will not vote for Smith because of his religion.

It is difficult to believe this is true; yet this was strong Ku Klux Klan territory, and while there remains only a semblance of the old Klan organization, those who were members still vote, and presumably, many of them are controlled by the same impulse that took them into the Klan five or six years ago. It also is to be recalled in this connection that in 1924 when Coolidge carried the county by 2750, Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, the Democratic nominee for Governor, who had Klan support, carried it by 5457. That appears to be a switch of about 4000 votes.

However, Democratic defection does not appear as great as in 1922 when Senator Reed lost the county by more than 2500 votes. Then many of the outstanding party leaders were fighting Reed openly. Today none is fighting Smith.

No doubt there is much opposition to Smith among Protestant Democrats, but whether it is sufficient to overcome the advantages he will have from a better and united organization, increased vote and greater interest of Democratic leaders in party success, is a matter of speculation and there is no true measure for gauging it.

AARON WALDHEIM GIVES $200,000 TO JEWISH HOSPITAL

Money to Be Used for a Clinical Laboratory Building—Will Be Named in Honor of Donor and Wife

A gift of $200,000 for a clinical laboratory building at the Jewish Hospital was made by Aaron Waldheim, president of the Board of Directors of the hospital, at a meeting of the board last night. The building will be known as the Waldheim Health Clinic in honor of Waldheim and his wife.

Waldheim, who is president of the May-Stern Furniture Co., vice president of the Boatmen's Bank and owns valuable downtown real estate, is said to have given $135,000 to the Jewish Hospital previously.

The clinic, according to Miss E. Muriel Anscomb, superintendent of the hospital, will round out the building program of the institution. It will be located on Forest Park avenue adjoining the main building on a site now occupied by an old residence which is doing temporary duty as a clinic.

The structure will be five stories high, with three floors for clinical purposes and two for laboratories. Construction will begin shortly to relieve congestion in the temporary clinic. The site is 60 by 156 feet.

The gift, it was said, was a complete surprise to the directors who had assembled for a regular monthly meeting. A resolution formally accepting the gift and thanking Waldheim was passed unanimously. It is expected that the present personnel of the institution will be sufficient to operate the new facilities. At present about 100 patients a day are treated at the temporary clinic, no distinction being made as to race or creed.

HUNGARY CALLS KELLOGG TREATY UNSATISFACTORY

Nation, in Note to Washington Demands Assurance Disputes Will Be Settled by Peaceful Means.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Hungary is willing to become a signatory of the Kellogg anti-war treaty but will take steps to make its adherence valid under the supposition that, war being outlawed, some other means for the settlement of international disputes will be provided.

The Budapest Government's official announcement of its intention to adhere to the pact was made public late yesterday at the State Department together with a note addressed to J. Butler Wright, the American Minister at Budapest.

The communication expressed the "highest appreciation" of the "generous and humanitarian intentions" of the United States, but predicted that the peace pact could not lead to satisfactory results without the establishment of some efficacious means, other than war, of meeting international crises arising from unjust and unnatural conditions.

Hungary, the note said, was forced to sign a treaty at the close of the World War which "created an unjust situation," one that "has not been fit to assure tranquility and is impeding the development of herself and her neighboring nations." It asserted further that whenever in the past "relations between nations have not been determined by the exigencies of justice and reason" forcible clashes have followed.

For these reasons the note said that "the Hungarian Government adheres to the proposal of the Government of the United States under the supposition that the Government of the United States as well as the Governments of the other signatory Powers will seek means of rendering it possible that in the future injustices may be remedied by peaceful means."

The body was discovered by Mrs. Anna Bell of that address when she heard a noise in the basement and investigated. She said Simpson's wife had left him Monday, taking their 6-year-old daughter, Imogene, but leaving him their 10-year-old daughter, Lorraine.

DR. A. T. HADLEY, EX-HEAD OF YALE, FOR GOV. SMITH

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Dr. Arthur Twining Hadley, president Emeritus of Yale University, has decided to support Gov. Smith because of the latter's stand on prohibition and his qualities of "a true statesman," according to a letter made public yesterday by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Dr. Hadley, who was President of Yale from 1899 to 1921 also was chairman of President Taft's Railroad Securities Commission and formerly was commissioner of labor statistics in Connecticut. He is at present a member of the executive committee and director of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad and a director in various other corporations, including the First National Bank of Boston, and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

Dr. Hadley's letter, dated Oct. 8, follows:

"My dear Mr. Raskob: What first decided me to vote for Gov. Smith was his courageous stand on the prohibition question.

"The object of the eighteenth amendment was to stop drunkenness and promote public order. This object has not been attained. The amendment and its enforcing statute, the Volstead act, have not only failed to secure either of these results, but have failed so conspicuously as to produce disrespect for law among private citizens and public officials alike. For at least five years it has been the paramount duty of the party in power to recognize this situation and deal with it intelligently. This obligation it has failed to meet.

"When Gov. Smith took a stand which made the alteration of the present prohibition laws a live issue in politics, he showed the qualities of a true statesman—insight, courage and candor. These same qualities he has continued to show in the discussion of other questions he has taken up during the campaign."

Registration Officials Unable to Find Persons Dropped at Addresses They Gave.

With 701 names struck from the registration books because the persons could not be found at the addresses they had given, the city's registered vote for the November election today stood at 362,215.

The check was completed yesterday by clerks in the office of the Board of Election Commissioners.

It is expected that 2000 or 3000 more voters will register by Oct. 23 as absentees or invalids unable to reach the polling places during the September registration days.

MARY MARGRET RYAN

Twins' Mother is Proud, Now

Don't allow your child to remain weakened or run-down for any length of time. In that condition, children are so easily attacked by the millions of tiny germs that are seething and swarming around us. And it's so easy to get the bilious, headachy, constipated, feverish, cross, fretful, puny, underweight ones back into condition, with a hearty appetite, rosy cheeks and abundant energy, by using a purely vegetable product which physicians have endorsed for over 50 years.

Children love the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup, and it acts almost like magic to regulate their little bowels and stomachs. It gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do and you don't have to keep dosing your child. Four million bottles used a year, and the enthusiastic words of mothers everywhere prove it gives satisfaction.

Another Missouri mother, Mrs. C. C. Ryan, 6108 Charlotte Ave., St. Louis, says: "My little daughter, Mary Margret, is one of twins. She suffered terribly from constipation until she got very weak, run-down and underweight. I gave her California Fig Syrup and in just a little while she was eating heartily and gaining weight. Soon she was her bright, normal self again."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name to avoid substitutes.

TRESMENDOUS WALL PAPER

STATE'S STRAW VOTE 60 PCT. FOR HOOVER

Smith Gains by Scratches in Missouri, Literary Digest Poll Shows.

Missouri, appearing this week for the first time in the Literary Digest's poll on the presidency, shows a 60-40 division of its initial straw vote between Hoover and Smith. The vote shown, which is small thus far as compared with that of some other states of less population, is 3960 for Hoover and 2565 for Smith.

Of the 3960 Hoover supporters, 790 voted the Democratic ticket in 1924, and of the 2565 who are for Smith, 875 voted the Republican ticket four years ago.

Of two other states Virginia and North Carolina, which appear this week for the first time and which give Hoover a lead, the Literary Digest says that the returns are not nearly complete enough to be taken as indicative of the final returns. The same would appear to apply to Missouri.

In the vote as a whole, which has now reached 1,890,698 for the major candidates, besides the vote for minor candidates, Hoover has been given about 63 per cent and Smith about 36 per cent of the total. The poll is: Hoover, 1,201,869; Smith, 688,829. The week before, in a total of 752,810, the percentages were 68 for Hoover and 31 for Smith. The change is explained as due to an increasing vote from the large cities and from the South.

The first returns from New York City show 102,539 votes for Smith, of which 29,741 are cast by former Republicans, and 65,205 or Hoover, of which 9554 were cast by former Democrats.

Hoover Ahead in Chicago.

The Chicago showing is 48,522 for Hoover, of which 2745 represents former Democrats, and 37,671 for Smith, of which 12,341 represents former Republicans.

Philadelphia gives Hoover 63,677, of which 3027 came from former Democrats, and Smith 44,790, including 26,693 from former Republicans.

These city figures are but the beginning, as straw ballots were sent to the entire electorate of those cities, shown by previous registration lists. The city figures are included in the current State totals for New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

Of eight Southern states, of which only Arkansas has appeared in the previous tabulations, four give Hoover a lead. These are Alabama, North Carolina, Virginia and Texas. The four showing a lead for Smith, and the only states where Smith is leading in the poll thus far, are Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana and South Carolina. Mississippi and Florida have not yet appeared in the tabulation.

Forty states are listed this week. In 23 of these the drift of former Republican votes to Smith is heavier than the drift of former Democrats to Hoover. In 17, including the Southern states, the drift is the other way, favoring Hoover.

259,913 G. O. P. Votes to Smith.

The number of former Republicans shown as supporting Smith in the 40 states, and in ballots not showing from what state they came, is 259,913. The number of former Democrats shown as supporting Hoover is 167,386.

The total number of 1924 Republicans shown as voting in the polls is 1,104,650. Hoover's vote, 1,201,869, exceeds this by 97,119. The total number of 1924 Democrats shown is 460,585. Smith's vote, 688,829, exceeds this number by 288,244, a much greater margin of apparent gain than Hoover's.

An element of uncertainty, in figuring the drift of the vote, is the fact that nearly one-sixth of the ballots recived do not indicate how the voter voted at the last electon. In some cases, this indicates a new voter, but in most cases it means that the recipient of the straw ballot has failed to make all the marks requested. The number of ballots showing no former vote, out of the total of 1,890,698, was 299,856.

About 19,000,000 of the straw ballots have been sent out this year, and the total poll may reach 4,000,000. In 1924, with 16,000,000 ballots sent out, the vote was 2,386,052, or 8 per cent of the vote in the national election. On the basis of the poll, the Literary Digest predicted President Coolidge's re-election, and picked state results with approximate accuracy, its most successful prediction being that La Follette would carry only his own state, Wisconsin.

G. O. P. PUBLICITY BUREAU SUSPENDS AT JEFFERSON CITY

It Occupied Large Rent-Free Quarters in Capitol and Disseminated Baker Propaganda.

EMPLOYES ASSESSED FOR ITS UPKEEP.

Press Agent Said to Have Been Unable to Compete With Rival Agency Set Up by Secretary of State.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 12.—The Republican administration publicity bureau, which has operated for several months in a large, rent-free office in the State Capitol, disseminating press agent matter favorable to the Republican State administration, has suspended its press agenting and closed its office, under circumstances to which the bureau managers have given no publicity.

Some mystery accompanies the sudden cessation of distribution of approved Republican news to Republican rural newspapers in Missouri and the bureau managers today would throw no light upon the suspension. They decline to say whether they had run out of literature or whether the suspension was in keeping with the Republican platform pledge to abolish surplus bureaus.

A State official, who declined to be quoted by name, said the suspension was due to too much publicity concerning the bureau. As told in the Post-Dispatch, the bureau has operated in a Capitol office, and funds for its activities were raised by exacting an assessment of 1½ per cent of the annual salaries of employes in departments headed by Republicans.

Bureau Drew Criticism.

This use of the Capitol and the method of giving publicity to the Republican office holders, which was economical for the department heads receiving the publicity, evoked considerable criticism, it was said.

Another explanation was that the bureau had failed to make progress in competition with an individual press bureau maintained by Secretary of State C. U. Becker, and operated by one of his department employes. The Republican rural papers largely are friendly to Becker, who controls the award of contracts for publication of constitutional amendments and initiative proposals in newspapers in each county of the State, in advance of elections.

Becker did not co-operate in the administration bureau and did not make its assessment on his employes. He stayed out because of some past friction with managers of the new bureau.

Rival Bureau Gets the Publicity.

A check of the publicity results of the rival bureaus disclosed, it was said, that virtually all of the "copy" from Becker's bureau was printed in the rural papers, while the administration bureau had few of its offerings accepted.

Former Supreme Court Judge Robert W. Otto of Jefferson City, custodian of the funds collected from the employes for operation of the bureau, today asserted he did not know what had happened to the bureau and said he had nothing to tell for a newspaper story.

Charles O. Muenks, chief clerk in the Pure Food and Drug Department, and a member of the committee in charge of the bureau, said the bureau had been closed, its office force dismissed and the weekly news letter to newspapers discontinued. He said he could not tell why.

Another member of the committee, M. T. Francis, an employe of the State Insurance Department, was out doing campaign work for the Republican State Committee, it was said at his office. The third member of the committee, Roy McCoy, State Building and Loan Supervisor, also is out on a tour of the State and could not be reached.

With the closing of the bureau, a large office now becomes available for some one of the State departments which have been in cramped quarters because of the crowded condition of the Capitol.

GETS LIFE FOR MURDER WITH POISONED LIQUOR

Los Angeles Junk Dealer Attempted to Get Rid of Rival in Love.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 12.—Morris Cohen, a 22-year-old junk dealer, is under sentence of life imprisonment today for the murder of Hyman Friedman through the use of poisoned liquor.

Evidence brought out at the trial was to the effect that Cohen, to get rid of Friedman's son who was his rival in love, poisoned a bottle of liquor and left it in his rival's automobile. The elder Friedman found the liquor, drank it and died.

MAP MAKER DENIES HOOVER HAS OIL LAND

Hansbrough's Statement Discredited Also by Publisher of Manual.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—O. W. Wells, president of the International Map Co., announced last night that he had written a letter to former Senator Henry C. Hansbrough of North Dakota informing him that neither the map of his company nor the map of Jesus Jiminez gave any basis for Hansbrough's statement that Herbert Hoover owned large oil land concessions in Colombia and Mexico. That statement was made in an address by Hansbrough in Minneapolis.

"The map of this company, to which ex-Senator Hansbrough refers," Wells said, "gives absolutely no basis for any such ridiculous statements as he has made. Nor does the map of Jesus Jiminez, which I have seen and which anyone may consult in the maproom of the Congressional Library.

"As for those obscure reviews which the Senator further lists as 'source references,' two of them, I happen to know, went out of business by court order of liquidation three or four years ago.

"I have been for many years engaged in the publication of oil maps of Colombia and of other South American countries and in the negotiation and sale of mining properties in those countries. I have never heard of Herbert Hoover being interested, directly or indirectly in any oil or mining concessions or properties. Any attempt thus to connect him is downright misrepresentation."

Roy C. Megargel, head of the company which publishes Megargel's Manual, to which Hansbrough referred, said: "In no issue of our manual has there been the slightest scrap of information that would in any way support such statements." He said his company published the only manual in this field and if "at any time Herbert Hoover had been in the oil business, however indirectly, we'd have known it."

JURY DISCHARGED AFTER DEADLOCK OF 2 1-2 HOURS

Circuit Judge Hartmann Orders Mistrial in Case of David Murphy Charged With Holdup.

The jury that deliberated for two hours and a half in the case of David Murphy, 26-year-old chauffeur, 1508A Grand boulevard, charged with robbery in the first degree, was discharged and a mistrial was declared by Circuit Judge Hartmann yesterday, after the foreman had reported that a deadlock could not be broken.

Murphy also is under indictment on a charge of assault with attempt to kill.

Murphy was arrested May 12 last at Finney and Newstead avenues, about an hour after the cigar store of Eugene Le Guerrier, 4417 Easton avenue, had been robbed by two men who escaped with $57 and a gold watch. As they fled, one of them shot at Patrolman Robert Dalton. The bullet struck the police badge and he was unharmed. Murphy denied the robbery, and identification depended on a suit of blue clothes and a gray cap, which could not be found at the time of the trial. A revolver the State sought to show was Murphy's had not been mentioned in Dalton's report. Murphy also declared that Louis Grossi, a witness against him, owed him $90.

The jury said they were deadlocked 8 to 4. Murphy will be tried again.

FAVORS SMITH OVER HOOVER TO FIGHT UTILITIES

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. — The National Popular Government League, a nonpartisan liberal organization, issued today an exhaustive analysis of the positions of Secretary Hoover and Gov. Smith on the water power question.

It drew the conclusion from the records of the two candidates that the position of Gov. Smith, from the progressive point of view, is immeasurably superior to that of Mr. Hoover.

The following statement by Senator Norris was quoted approvingly:

"In my judgment, no progressive-minded citizen can honestly and logically compare the records of Gov. Smith and Mr. Hoover on the water power question without being led to the inevitable conclusion that Gov. Smith is as far ahead of Mr. Hoover as daylight is brighter than darkness."

Stressing the importance of the power issue, the league says it is unfortunate that the majority of the people "are voting on prohibition and theology while the power trust is busy, with an eye on the main chance."

"The next four years," it says, "will be crucial in the gigantic struggle for conservation of our last natural resource.

"Not only are Muscle Shoals, Boulder Dam, the St. Lawrence and the Columbia immediately at stake, but hundreds of other sites; also whether 'merging' and financial inflation shall proceed apace, also whether the political influence of the power trust shall continue to dominate both major parties, also whether private propaganda shall continue to exert its astounding influence over newspapers, magazines, publishing houses, the engineering profession, the universities and the public schools.

In this struggle the attitude of the President is the most important factor, if not the deciding factor. He molds public opinion. He influences and vetoes legislation. Three of his Cabinet members constitute the Federal Power Commission with authority in practice to enforce or nullify the terms of the Federal Water Power Act—itself a weak instrument in this crisis. He may be either a constructive leader of the people as was Roosevelt in his day, or he may be a somewhat silent but none the less powerful instrument of the power interests."

Hoover's Policies.

After extensive quotations from the statements of the two candidates on power, dating back to 1919, the league offers the following analysis of their views:

"Keeping in mind our objective, cheap current—and that means 3 cents per kwh for the home, the stores and small power users, and 5 cents for the farm — how will it be affected by the attitudes of Hoover or Smith as President?

"For eight years in official and nonofficial acts and pronouncements, Mr. Hoover has clearly stated his position on power fundamentals. His last statement regarding Muscle Shoals on Oct. 8 to the press leaves it unchanged. By no interpretation can his supporters torture his words into meaning that he has pledged himself to support public operation or public distribution of power at Muscle Shoals, Boulder Dam, the St. Lawrence or any other site.

"Very humanly he may accept votes on the claims of his backers as to what he means and what he will do. But no progressive can in the future charge him with bad faith if he adheres to the Power Trust position which is his. His sincerity is not questioned, or that he will keep faith with his announced principles and his political backers.

What Hoover Would Do.

"All the evidence indicates that if elected President he would:

"(1) Quietly or openly oppose and veto, if necessary, public ownership and operation of the generating plant or the public distribution of power anywhere.

"(2) On a compromise bill he would favor the side of the private power interests.

"(3) Appoint Cabinet members automatically constituting the Federal Power Commission, who would speed up the leasing process so that at the end of his term practically all of aur valuabl ewater power sites would be in the hands of the private power interests on 50-year leases.

"(4) Be constantly quoted and used as the major authority in Lawrence and the lower Niagara would today be in the hands of the Aluminum company, the General power trust propaganda, especially in local municipal fights all over the nation in cities where the trust is endeavoring to get possession of public plants or the people are endeavoring to establish or extend public works.

"(5) Would be silent upon secret propaganda methods of the power interests in influencing the press, the platform, the university and the public school.

"For 10 years Mr. Smith has fought the power interests in his own state. But for him the St. Electric and the Duponts.

"He led his long struggle with the Republican Legislatures and leaders and many Democratic leaders opposing him.

"His sincerity is not questioned. He has kept his promises; his opponents concede that he delivers what he pledged.

"The evidence indicates that, if elected President, he would:

"(1) Actively and openly aid in the enactment of bills which he would sign for public ownership and generation of power to be leased for distribution to private companies on short terms

INSURANCE MEETING ELECTS PRESIDENT

Next Gathering of American Life Convention to Be Held in Cincinnati.

Clarence L. Ayers of Detroit, president of the American Life Insurance Co., was elected president of the American Life Convention at its meeting at Hotel Statler last night. The convention, attended by representatives of 140 life insurance companies, will end today.

O. J. Arnold of Minneapolis, president of the Northwestern National Life C and retiring president of the convention, was elected to the executive committee. Others chosen for the committee were: Charles W. Gold, vice president of the Jefferson Standard Life Co., Greensboro, N. C., and John M. Laird, vice president of the Connecticut General Life Co. of Hartford.

Cincinnati was selected as the next meeting place.

A training school for agents maintained by the Southland Life Insurance Co., of Dallas Tex., was described today by Clarence E. Linz, vice president of that company. The school was instituted, he explained, because the company adopted the policy of obtaining inexperienced agents where possible in order to teach them the company's methods without having the obstacle of preconceived notions to overcome. Although costly, the practice had succeeded, he reported.

LIBERAL LEAGUE FAVORS GOV. SMITH TO FIGHT UTILITIES

"(2) On compromise bills he would ever favor the side of the people.

"(3) Appoint Cabinet members automatically constituting the Federal Power Commission, who would not speed up the leasing of our remaining water power sites and would enforce, as the present administration has not, the preferential clause in the Federal Power act, giving cities and states prior right to public sites.

"(4) He would be constantly quoted by the leaders of the people in local fights to prevent private power interests from securing possession of municipally-owned plants or to establish or extend public plants.

"(5) Would openly oppose secret power propaganda methods of the power interests in influencing the press, the platform, the university and the public school.

"There remains the question: Does a cold analysis of Gov. Smith's proposed plan show it superior in any way to the position of Secretary Hoover?

"Answer: It has a basic superiority from the public viewpoint. It retains both the power site and generating plant in absolute public ownership and operation. This is Smith's fundamental. Hence there could be no inflated valuation or 'blue sky' on lease rights or plant property on which the consumers must pay dividends, no futile struggle with regulatory commissions, no long drawn out, expensive fights to regain possession of public property at the end of 50-year leases. There would be added demonstration that the public as well as the companies can hire experts and manage plants, vitally needed demonstrations of what it costs on an honest basis to generate electricity in super power plants like Muscle Shoals.

"It is open to the danger that the power interests would go into politics to control either the State or Federal 'power authority' just as they now control the State Utility Commissions.

"This objection is emphasized by such progressives as Senator Brookhart supporting Hoover and by Dr. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, both of whom are for straight-cut public ownership and operation, from the power site to the meter in the home.

"This danger can be obviated only by (1) vesting in the 'power authority' the right to build transmission and distribution lines, if necessary; that is, for example, if the power companies should unite and boycott the public plant refusing to purchase its power except on their own terms; (2) preferential rights to cities for public current; (3) strict provisions fixed by law setting forth the terms on which contracts with private transmitting and distributing companies can be made and fixing in the contract the retail cost to the consumer.

"This latter, the Governor has advocated. On the other two he has said nothing so far. " What further statements of conditions the campaign may bring forth remains to be seen. Washington correspondents understand that Hoover has said his last word on Muscle Shoals and the power question in this campaign. Gov. Smith has given no such intimation."

The president of the National Popular Government League is former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma. On the executive committee are Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, Harry A. Slattery of Washington, D. C., former secretary of the National Conservation Association; Prof. E. A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin, and Jackson H. Ralston, formerly a Washington lawyer, now of Palo Alto, Cal.

Among the more active members of the organizations are J. H. McGill, a manufacturer of Valparaiso, Ind.; Edward Keating, former Congressman from Colorado, now the editor of "Labor," the newspaper organ of the railroad brotherhoods; Edwin Markham, the poet; Herman L. Ekern, former Attorney General of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Louis F. Post, wife of the former Secretary of Labor. Louis F. Post was a member until his death, as were the late Herbert Quick, the novelist, and the late William Kent, ex-Congressman from California. The bulletin on power was written by the director of the league, Judson King, a writer and lecturer. The league for the last eight years has been a supporter of Senator Norris in his fight for Government operation of Muscle Shoals.

THRONGS IN SOUTH JOSTLE POLICE IN RUSH TO SEE SMITH

Correspondent Seized in Jam, While Senator Glass Is Temporarily Denied Admittance to Virginia State Capitol.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ON GOV. SMITH'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Oct. 12.—The first half of Gov. Smith's present campaign trip—that part which traverses the South—presents the novel spectacle of a speechless speaking tour. To travel more than 1000 miles without delivering a single set address seems a singularly futile proceeding until one is permitted to see the vast crowds and the intense enthusiasm which the candidate's mere appearance evokes. His progress through Virginia and North Carolina yesterday resembled a triumphal procession.

The most dreadful aspect of all such trips is the handling of the crowds by the local police. The demonstration at Richmond, yesterday, got entirely out of the hands of the city gendarmerie, and numerous tragi-comic episodes ensued. Joseph Cohn, publicity director of the trip, was summarily barred from the Capitol grounds where all the ceremonies took place. The correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, witnessing the incident, remarked mildly upon the incompetence of the police, and was immediately seized and dragged off to face a charge of "resisting an officer."

Gov. Smith's daughters, Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Quillinan, obtained admitttance to the Capitol, but were denied permission to leave, and remained thus inside until they succeeded in convincing their captors of their identity.

Unused to the presence of so many celebrities, the police were extremely skeptical of all claims. A diminutive man of 70 applied for admittance to the chamber while Gov. Smith was making a short talk through a microphone. He told the guard he was Senator Carter Glass. The guard laughed derisively, and shoved him back. This was a mistake, because the man was Senator Glass, whose temper is, perhaps, more celebrated than any of any man in Congress. The explosion which followed was sufficient to convince the guard that he had taken too much for granted, and the Senator marched in, sizzling like a fried tomato.

During the parade in Raleigh, several youths managed to get into the procession with an old Ford sedan covered with Hoover banners. The local functionaries ordered them out of the line of march, but they refused to budge. Amid a tumult of jeering, they steered the old wreck down the main street. There was a halt, and an ofifcer of the National Guard ordered them to take their vehicle elsewhere. They remained defiant. Then the crowd took matters into its own hands. There was a wild yell and a rush for the Ford. The Hoover baners were stripped off, the doors were torn away, the occupants pulled out violently, and the machine pushed over to the curb. For a moment it looked like an ugly situation, but no one was hurt.

It was interesting to see Josephus Daniels, the man who made the navy dry, acting as chairman of the committee which welcomed Al. Smith. It reminded one of the important part which William S. Vare, wet boss of Philadelphia, played in the nomination of the dry Hoover at Kansas City. It almost persuades the impartial observer that politicians are not always guided in their conduct by devotion to issues and principles.

But here an interesting factor enters. Among the statutes which Senator Simmons, in his long tenure as boss, put upon the books of the State, is one which gives the election boards extraordinary authority. Once they have certified the returns, no court can go behind them. Moreover, absentees are permitted to vote merely by writing a leter. It has been charged by Republicans in previous elections that many absentees were voted without knowing it, by Democratic election boards.

In the present stiuation the regular Democratic organization, which is supporting Smith, is in control of the election boards. It is intimated that the weapon which Simmons forged may now be turned against him. In North Carolina, as elsewhere in the Union, politics is, as Herbert Hoover once remarked, "A very practical matter."

At Greensboro, Smith detrained for a brief automobile tour of the downtown section, where thousands cheered him to the echo. At one point in the procession his car was halted so he could shake the hands of Mrs. Maria Pope, an invalid, 96 years old, who had been taken from St. Leo's Hospital, where she has been a patient 15 years, to greet the nominee from an ambulance.

The Governor addressed a message of appreciation to the young people's Democratic clubs of the State "for their enthusiastic and loyal support."

"I will never forget their loyalty," he said, "and I am confident of their ability to co-operate in the carrying of North Carolina to a great Democratic victory Nov. 6."

No observant person can fail to notice that Gov. Smith's daily press conferences have been remarkably unproductive of real news. There is an explanation of this. Among the newspaper men on board the train is a large and solid block of Albany correspondents of New York newspapers. Virtually all of them are personally devoted to Smith, and they consistently allow their personal affection to influence their professional conduct. Consequently, whenever the Governor is asked a question which might embarrass him, one or more of this group instantly creates a diversion to prevent an answer.

In all fairness, it must be said that Smith himself appears perfectly willing to answer any question; or if unwilling, to say so bluntly. Indeed, the excess zeal of his Albany friends appear to embarrass him a trifle. He is not the sort of man who craves aid in a rough and ready exchange. Nevertheless, the situation gradully has produced a perceptible schism between the Washington correspondents, who are eager to draw Smith out on national questions, and the Albany group, which seeks to protect him from questions which they think might embarrass him.

Sectionalism Has Vanished, Gov. Smith Tells the South.

GOV. SMITH'S TRAIN ON WAY TO NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12.—Gov. Smith came into the border State of Tennessee today for more receptions and rear platform campaigning.

Before heading for Louisville, Ky., where tomorrow night he will deliver the first formal address of his second campaign tour, the Democratic presidential nominee faced a big reception in Chattanooga before noon and another late today in Nashville. Between these two cities the Governor's special train was routed into

Northern Alabama for a brief stop or two.

Touched by the warmth of his receptions yesterday in Virginia and North Carolina, the nominee heeded demands for an informal speech in both Richmond and Raleigh, the two state capitals, and used "Dixie" and "The Sidewalks of New York," which bands had played for him en route, as an illustration that sectionalism no longer existed in the United States.

In an informal address in the Raleigh auditorium, he said:

"I am entirely satisfied, from the cordial and, I might say, affectionate greeting of the people of this section of the South, that the two tunes can be blended together because, after all, people are pretty much the same. I did not notice any difference between the people of Omaha and the people of the Bronx in New York City. I did not see any difference between the people of Milwaukee and those of the city of Brooklyn. I did not see any difference between the people of Raleigh and the people of Syracuse.

"We all belong to one great big family of states that make up the greatest nation in the world, and we are all the same, no matter where we are to be found, provided we are well intentioned and we have our minds on the single objective of what is best for the greatest number.

"I appreciate your greeting; appreciate your kind reception; I am glad to be with you, and if you will listen in on Saturday night, I shall be talking in Louisville, Ky., on a very interesting subject."

Most of the Raleigh speech was a repetition of his impromptu Richmond talk.

Prisoner, Sentenced Contrary to Law, Accident Victim.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 12.—Robert Fisher, 27 years old, was killed yesterday in an accident in the county jail where he was serving a 60-day sentence which District Attorney Gardner says was imposed contrary to law. Fisher, whose home was in Youngstown, O., was sentenced in Police Court as a suspicious person. Gardner disapproved the sentence, declaring it illegal to sentence a man on suspicion.

Fisher was fatally hurt in the collapse of a scaffold on which he was at work in the jail yard.

BOTH PATTERSON AND HAY INDORSED BY DRY LEAGUE

Anti-Saloon League Organization Approves Replies of Senate Candidates to Its Questionnaire.

The Anti-Saloon league of Missouri today announced its indorsement of both candidates for United States Senator in Missouri on the basis of their answer to a questionnaire of the league and "their attitude, utterances and record regarding the eighteenth amendment and the State and national prohibition enforcement codes." The candidates are Roscoe C. Patterson, Republican, and Charles M. Hay, Democrat.

The league stated that no reply to the questionnaire had been received from Henry S. Caulfield, Republican nominee for Governor, or Francis M. Wilson, Democratic nominee for that office.

Three questions were in the questionnaire. They are: Do you favor a strict enforcement of the national and State prohibition law? Do you favor any amendment to the Federal or State prohibition laws that would tend to weaken them? Would you favor the enactment of legislation to strengthen and fortify the present prohibition laws?

Survey of Legislators' Records.

Approval of the record of dry legislation of former members of Congress or the State Legislature who are now candidates, and the attitude of candidates who have not been members of either body but have established a favorable record toward prohibition, was also given by the League. The indorsements and approval or disapproval of the candidates and their records is contained in the October number of the Missouri edition of the American Issue, official publication of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

Frank G. Harris, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor and Edward H. Winter, Republican nominee for the same office, were both indorsed by the League and their records declared favorable.

ON HONEYMOON IN NEW YORK

MRS. DOLLIE FARWELL KOLB.

MRS. DOLLIE FARWELL WEDS PETER V. KOLB

Bride Is Widow of Former President of Shoe Concern.

Mrs. Dollie Farwell, widow of Fred A. Farwell of Boston, who was president of the Ground Gripper Shoe Co., and Peter Valentine Kolb, vice president of the Provident Chemical Co., were married at St. Charles on Wednesday and now are in New York on their honeymoon. They had been introduced by mutual friends here, Mrs. Kolb being a former St. Louisan. After several weeks in the East they will make their home here.

Arriving here from Boston on Sept. 30, Mrs. Kolb took an apartment at the Congress Hotel. Kolb, who came here from Birmingham, Ala., four years ago, resides at the Embassy Apartments. In obtaining the marriage license at St. Charles they gave their ages, respectively, as 35 and 43. Mrs. Kolb is the daughter of Mrs. G. Niederhof of 3863 West Pine boulevard. Her 6-year-old son, William, is here now.

Mr. Farwell, who entered the shoe industry in St. Louis about 25 years ago, left here in 1916 to join the Ground Gripper Shoe Co., of which he became president five years later. He died on March 20, at his home in Belmont, Mass., leaving an estate of $854,288 to his widow and executrix, except for $100 bequeathed to a minor son, John Alexander Farwell.

RULES COUZENS MUST ANSWER $500,000 SUIT FOR SLANDER

Court Holds Senator Was Not Immune From Being Summoned in Tax Expert's Action.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The District of Columbia Supreme Court ruled today that Senator James Couzens of Michigan must answer a suit for $500,000 brought against him by Howe P. Cochran, a Washington tax expert, for alleged slander during a speech Couzens made on the floor of the Senate last April.

Couzens was served with a summons June 4 at the Union Station after the adjournment of Congress. He attacked the validity of the service, contending that he was immune while attending the sessions of Congress and until reaching his home.

Justice Wendell P. Stafford held that the immunity mentioned in the Constitution related only to an arrest in the sense of a physical detention and not to service of papers in a civil action. On the plea of the Senator that his remarks on the floor of the Senate were privileged Justice Stafford ruled that such a plea could not be interposed in a motion to quash service, but should be used in an answer and passed on by a jury.

G. O. P. CLINCHING NEW YORK FOR HOOVER, DR. WORK SAYS

Mrs. Willebrandt Victim of Unchivalrous Democratic Attack, He Asserts.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Dr. Hubert Work, national campaign manager for Herbert Hoover, came to Chicago today with a prediction that while Gov. Smith is visiting with the people of the South, the Republicans are clinching the State of New York for Hoover.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt is the victim of an unfair, unchivalrous attack on the part of Democratic leaders, he said. The Assistant Attorney-General, said Dr. Work, never brings religion into her talks.

"Our Democratic friends are filling the skies with wails against intolerance while their big speakers, like Gov. Ritchie of Maryland and John M. Davis, covertly play to just that ugly quirk in human nature," he said.

RULING HALTS USE OF TRUCK IN SELLING VETERANS' TICKETS

Judge Dissolves Order Against Interference, Holding Method Violation of Parking Law.

The temporary restraining order under which representatives of the George H. Durfee Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, have been permitted to sell tickets for a dance from a motor truck on which a passenger automobile is mounted, was dissolved by Circuit Judge Mix yesterday on motion of the Police Department.

Judge Mix upheld the police contention that the use of the truck was a violation of an ordinance which forbids the parking of a vehicle in a congested district for the purpose of making sales therefrom. The restraining order was obtained Oct. 3 after police had interrupted the sale of tickets at Jefferson avenue and Cherokee street, taking several persons into custody. Judge Mix did not rule on the department's contention that a lottery was being conducted.

WILBUR SAYS HOOVER WILL WIN ON THE TARIFF ISSUE

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Prediction that Herbert Hoover would be elected by an overwhelming majority was made yesterday by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who arrived here to address a meeting.

"After a careful analysis of the political reports coming in from all parts of the country," the Secretary said, "I can see the election of Herbert Hoover by an overwhelming majority. And his election will be due largely to the Republican stand for protective tariffs."

EXERCISES IN HONOR OF COLUMBUS TODAY

City Hall, Stock Exchange and Parochial Schools Closed—K. of C. Dinner Tonight.

The City Hall, the Merchants' Exchange, the Stock Exchange and parochial schools in the city and county are closed today in observance of Columbus day, the 436th anniversary of the landing of Columbus on the island of San Salvador and his discovery of America.

Banks in the city remain open as usual although the day is technically a legal holiday in the State. The public schools and offices of the Board of Education are open, as are Federal offices.

The St. Louis Chapter of the Knights of Columbus placed wreaths on the statue of Columbus that stands at the Grand boulevard entrance to Tower Grove Park, and parochial school children sang. The ceremonies began at 7:30 a. m.

Thomas A. Langen, State deputy of the Knights of Columbus, will be toastmaster at a dinner at Hotel Chase sponsored by the organization at 7 o'clock this evening. The speakers will be Edwin Shanahan of Kansas City, Mrs. E. P. Voll of the Daughters of Isabella, and the Rev. Francis P. Corcoran, vice president of Kenrick Seminary.

T. ran, Hearst correspondent in ris, who was questioned by the reign Office as to his part in publication in the United States certain documents relating to Anglo-French naval treaty, s been expelled from the An- -American Press Association, organization of foreign corre- ondents here. Expulsion came ter an investigation by the asso- ation. Horan meanwhile had left ance, and was last reported in ussels, Belgium, on his way to ndon.

Reports are that Horan gave an accurate account of his conduct that he had misled the cor- respondents' association as well as ench officials. Lady Drummond-Hay Tells Of First Day of Air Tour

By LADY GRACE DRUMMOND-HAY.

Only Woman Aboard the Graf Zeppelin.

(Copyright, 1928.)

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, OVER THE MEDITERRANEAN, by Radio via Berlin, Oct. 12.—Yesterday was the most thrilling day of my life. For two hours I was on the bridge with Commander Eckener, at his invitation, to watch with him the glorious sunset. There was the most gorgeous coloring over the mountains as we flew along the coast of Spain, the Commodore giving me his field glass and directing my eyes to the points of interest.

I felt that, if crossing the world in an airship or flying in a great air liner like this is always so smooth and exalting, I never want to travel any other way again.

I am beginning to understand why these men love their Zeppelins. The bridge, with the men whirling the steering wheels, or bending over their charts, or measuring distances, or laying out the course, or reporting to the Commodore—all of it is a fascinating picture.

As the thousands of twinkling lights come out in the towns and cities on the Spanish coast and the steamers glide underneath the stars like in a dream, I am so happy to see and experience it all that I can only gasp.

Experience Seems Strange.

Sitting in a snug cabin looking down over France with the great silver ship swaying as gently as a cradle, I could hardly believe that the attention of the world is focused on us today in this unusual adventure.

Strange as it may seem, I haven't the slightest feeling of anxiety, or insecurity, or concern as to safety of the flight. Neither has any other passenger, some of whom did not see the ship for the first time until yesterday morning. Perhaps for no other passenger was the boarding of the Graf Zeppelin so hard as it was for me. At the last moment I received the most urgent requests, demands and pleading telegrams from my father, mother and sister, asking that for their sake I give up the flight.

It is bitter to give pain to one's parents, but I couldn't bring myself to give up the opportunity. They don't know the feeling of security and safety of riding through the clouds aboard this ship with Dr. Eckener on the bridge. The word fear has not once been heard in the lounge where the passengers gather.

Upon boarding the ship, I found I had cabin No. 7. It was the lucky number. Dr. Eckener was the only other person on board with an individual cabin, but he will need some place, however small, during the voyage where he can find peace and rest. In order to give Dr. Eckener a cabin alone, the camera man, Robert Hartmann and Joseph Meyer, volunteered to sacrifice theirs. They have arranged to sleep aloft in the body of the airship.

Lieutenant-Commander Rosendahl of the United States Navy is bunking with Karl H. von Wiegand.

There looks to be an awful lot of baggage in the tiny cabins, and passengers are disclosing such funny things deemed as necessities. Supplies sufficient to stock a pawnbroker's shop include everything from snow boots, malted milk and hot water bottles to every imaginable kind of eatables, and every conceivable garment for human decoration.

At the takeoff there were only cries of exultation; never a word of fear. The dangers of the flight never appeared to me until we were gone. Where 59 men, most of whom are married, take such risks as may be in the interest of the cultural progress of the world, one woman may as well trust herself safely to such a project and be glad that a woman will share with men on the beautiful ship whatever comes of fair weather or foul.

Frau Eckener and her daughter waved good-by to me as the Graf Zeppelin rose into the air. They as Countess von Brandenstein-Zeppelin, Frau Matejko, Frau Brandt and the others did not depress their husbands with sadness at the departure. There was not a minute when the tears were not swallowed bravely, and encouragement given to these air pioneers.

Suddenly I realized the long-delayed trip had really begun. The commander, officers and passengers immediately assumed new personalities in my eyes. The former became an arbitrator of the lives of human beings—a kind of a superman for whom the aerial Leviathan wakes into being and action, while the others, none of whom I had previously met or known, became all of a sudden individually interesting as companions on this unique journey.

I had the honor yesterday afternoon of being the luncheon guest of Count von Brandenstein—Zeppelin, chairman of the board of control of the Zeppelin works, who toasted me as the only woman present at the history-making luncheon party on a trans-Atlantic air voyage.

Other Guests at Luncheon.

At the table with us sat Prussian Minister of the Interior Grzensinski; Director of Civil Aviation Brandenburg, and Capt. von Tycszka, head of the German aviation pool.

Our menu consisted of noodle soup, veal stew and stewed gooseberries, and apricots. It was served on a colored table cloth with napkins to match, and into the linen was woven "Graf Zeppelin."

The conversation was animated and the discussion seemed to range to every subject under the sun.

SECRETARY OF WAR DAVIS' SPEECH DRAWS PARIS COMMENT

Le Temps Says It Answers Erroneous Contention That Nations Would Disarm.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—Secretary of War Davis' speech at the American Legion convention found an echo in Le Temps today when the paper observed that the speech answered the erroneous contention held in certain quarters that signature of the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war ought logically to have more or less immediate effects in favor of the reduction of armaments.

In his address, Secretary Davis said that the administration did not contemplate any weakening of the national defense because of the Kellogg-Briand treaty.

Le Temps said that he idea of a reduction of armament did not exist in the minds of the promoters of the pact and it would be wrong to see in the Davis speech any recoil from the spirit in which the treaty was realized.

MELLON HAILS HOOVER AS ABLE, TRIED EXECUTIVE

'NATION'S FINANCES IN SOUND CONDITION'

Candidate Has Unparalleled Record of Constructive Achievement Behind Him He Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Hailing Herbert Hoover as a farseeing and resourceful executive, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon told a radio audience last night that the Republican presidential candidate was well qualified to carry on the "constructive" policies of the present administration.

Delivering, at station WRC here, the second political speech of his life, Mellon said that, in the final analysis, there was only one issue in this campaign—"whether the leadership offered by the Republican or by the Democratic party is better qualified to assume the burden of carrying on the Government and of solving the problems which will arise in the next four years."

"The Democratic candidate has told you what he proposes to do,' Mellon said. "The Republican candidate, Mr. Hoover, is in the fortunate position of being able to tell you not only what he will do but what he and the administration, of which he has been an important part, have already done. He offers you an unparalleled record of constructive achievement; and, on that record, he and the Republican party ask for your continued confidence and support.

"What has that record been? In the first place, it has been a complete fulfillment of the promise which the Republican party made, that the Government should be administered economically and in accord with accepted business principles, and that the affairs of the country should be put on a sound basis, so that confidence might return and the march of progress might be resumed after the long interval of the war.

"That the Administration has made good its promise is best attested by the fact that today the finances both of the Government and of the country are in a sound condition. Under the present administration taxes have been materially lowered on four occasions. Expenditures have been cut. The public debt has been reduced so that it is no longer a heavy burden on the taxpayers. The nation has been given the benefit of a protective tariff; and during the entire period the country has moved steadily forward, getting further and further away from the unsettled conditions which prevailed in 1921, when the present Republican administration took office.

"At that time the whole economic structure seemed in need of readjustment. Now, after nearly eight years, it is possible to judge of what has been accomplished. Not only has the nation passed through this difficult period of post-war readjustment, but during the last three or four years it has enjoyed one of the most prosperous periods in its history.

"In no other nation and at no other time in the history of the world have so many people enjoyed such a high degree of prosperity or maintained a standard of living comparable to that which prevails throughout this country today. Our highways are crowded with automobiles, and statistics show that the number of passenger car registrations have more than doubled in the last seven years. Saving deposits have nearly doubled; and bank deposits have increased from $39,000,000,000 in 1921 to $56,000,000,000 in 1927."

Financial Accomplishments.

Going into details of what he described as administration accomplishments, Mellon said that taxes had been removed from two and one-half million citizens with total reductions of $1,800,000,000; that great reductions had been made in Government expenditures; that the public debt had been reduced over $6,000,000,000 and that the $11,000,000,000 of foreign debts had been settled.

"Another important policy of the administration has been to provide adequate credit for agriculture," he added. "Through the War Finance Corporation, the intermediate credit banks, and the banks of the Farm Loan System, ample credit has been provided on easy terms and at low interest rates. This is one of the vital elements in the farm problem and places at the

JOHN W. DAVIS CALLS TOLERANCE GREATEST ISSUE

ATTACKS ATTITUDE OF MRS. WILLEBRANDT

Says President Should Rebuke Her for Urging Churches to Vote for Certain Candidate.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate in 1924, called upon the American people in an address broadcast last night over a nationwide radio hookup to remain true to the nation's birthright of religious liberty and civic equality.

He denounced the statement that a Catholic was disqualified for the presidency as a "betrayal of American ideals" and declared a "muddy deluge of literature and propaganda" was being turned upon the country to lead the people astray from their traditions of religious freedom.

He singled out Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, for criticism, asserting her speeches had "rightly shocked the coutnry."

"Public opinion," he said, "waits with eagerness for a rebuke of her action by her official superior, the President of the United States, or by the candidate in whose name she speaks.

"It is not that she, as an officer of the Government, should speak for prohibition or against it, but that she should urge upon church councils and clergymen that they use their clerical influence to muster all their members in support of a given party or its candidate.

Warns Against Church Division.

"God forbid that we should ever see religious bodies divided along political lines, that we should ever see any political party dominated by any religous sect or denomination or that the clergy of any church should ever attempt, or succeed in the attempt when made, to lead its membership into any political fold."

Davis said he spoke "as a Protestant and a citizen" and not in terms of votes. Gov. Smith, he pointed out, proclaimed that he did not seek the vote of a Catholic because he was of that faith.

"The issue," he added, "goes far beyond the candidates or parties or the outcome of the present campaign. It transcends in importance, I believe, any question that has confronted the American people since the abolition of slavery. Once more we are brought face to face with the question whether this nation can endure part slave and part free; five-sixths made up of those whose religion forms no barrier to political progress and one-sixth of those excluded by their faith from the highest service to the state.

Cause of War.

"Because the Constitution was silent, the long debate over slavery was ended by four years of bloody war. The Constitution has spoken on religious liberty and proclaimed it throughout the land. There should be no debate."

He reviewed the history of religious freedom in the United States and the inclusion of a declaration against a religious test for public office in the Constitution.

"It is a rare piece of historic justice," he asserted, "that a Catholic and a Quaker should be contending this year for the highest office in the gift of their countrymen."

Nevertheless, he continued, the nomination of a Roman Catholic for President has caused certain Americans, "for personal, or sectarian of political purposes, to fan into flame the ashes of religious warfare and arouse all the dark passions of prejudice and intolerance."

"Pitiful Nonsense."

"The country," he went on, "is being strewn with cards and pamphlets in many cases of a scurrilous and unmailable character. Lurid posters are distributed illustrating the bodily tortures which Protestants may expect at Catholic hands."

Combating "such pitiful nonsense as that the Pope is preparing to move to America," Davis said many Catholics had served the country faithfully in office. He cited quotations from a number of Catholic authorities to show there was no conflict between the state and church. Finally he cited the declaration of Smith himself that he recognized no power in his church to interfere with the Constitution of the United States.

Archbishop Glennon Reviews Quarter Century as Head of The Archdiocese of St. Louis

Prelate's Silver Jubilee to Be Observed Monday—Cathedral's Anniversary Is Being Marked Today.

TODAY, anniversary of the St. Louis Cathedral's consecration, began a cycle of religious observances there which will culminate Monday in Archbishop Glennon's silver jubliee. On Oct. 15, 1903, he succeeded Archbishop Kain as head of the archdiocese, having been coadjutor here for half a year, and previously coadjutor bishop of Kansas City for several years.

Knights of Columbus attended today's pontifical mass, at which Dr. Ryan of Kenrick Seminary preached. Tomorrow at 9 a. m., the twenty-fifth anniversary of Archbishop Kain's death will be observed with a pontifical mass of requiem. The silver jubilee mass will be at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning.

A silver jubilee often is made the occasion of costly presents and feasting. There was an elaborate observance in 1921 of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Archbishop Glennon's consecration as a bishop.

"But this time," the Archbishop observed, "I said I didn't want a big celebration. People said there must be some observance, and I said, all right, I would go to the Cathedral and say a mass. Then they proposed a luncheon, and I consented to that. And that will be all—except for the prayers that our people have offered."

The record of the prayers called a "spiritual bouquet," is to be presented as the jubliee offering. The luncheon, attended by the priests and the bishops of this archdiocesan province, will be held Monday at Hotel Chase.

Cites Growth of Church in City.

Talking of the 25 years of his archiepiscopate, at his Lindel. boulevard home last evening, Archbishop Glennon had most to say of the church's growth, which, he declared, has changed the face of the city, from the Catholic viewpoint, as greatly as towering hotels, apartment houses and office buildings have changed its secular aspect.

"Then," he said, referring to 1903, 'we had the Old Cathedral only. Now, the New Cathedral. Then, old Kenrick Seminary, now, the new seminary. Our hospitals, except Alexian Brothers', have been built since then. There were no women's colleges, now there are three in the city and suburbs. As many boys and girls are attending the college now as were in high school then. The diocesan high schools are an important growth of the period. Christian Brothers' College has gone through a fire and has been re-established, and St. Louis University has added departments which make it a modern city university in the fullest sense.

"The new churches;" he began reciting rapidly, "the Luxemburg parish, St. George's, St. Mary Magdalene's, Our Lady of Sorrows, Holy Family, St. Pius', Immaculate Conception, the Monks' Church, St. Cecelia's, St. Wenceslaus', St. Francis de Sales, St. Henry's—I haven't got to Chouteau avenue yet, and there are plenty more north of Chouteau.

"Of the 102 local parishes, only three have the same pastors they had in 1903. The three priests who have remained in the charges they had then are Father McGlynn of

HOOVER TO TALK FOUR TIMES ON TRIP TO BOSTON

Will Deliver Brief Messages at Springfield, Worcester and on Boston Common, Besides Main Address.

ALSO WORKING ON NEW YORK SPEECH

Likely to Discuss Merchant Marine There if He Doesn't Have Time While in Massachusetts.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Herbert Hoover is working harder this week than he has at any time in the campaign as he has been faced with the task of preparing two speeches in less time than he usually has devoted to the writing of one.

These addresses are to be delivered on the next two Mondays and that to be made at Boston on Oct. 15 had to be in the hands of the printer today to be available to the press by next Sunday.

While the Republican presidential candidate will have four days next week in which to put the finishing touches on the New York address of Oct. 22, he must get the rough draft out of the way before going to Boston as some of his time next week must be given over to political conferences and direction of the campaign.

Itinerary of Boston Trip.

If the nominee finds that he will not have time to treat at Boston on the maintenance of a merchant marine after he has expanded his views on the tariff and foreign trade, he probably will touch upon that subject in his New York speech.

The itinerary of the Boston trip has been completed in detail and calls for an absence from Washington of slightly less than 36

Taxed for Improvements Three Miles From His Home.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I OWN property in the 5200 block Page avenue, and am taxed $1 a foot for improving (widening) Easton avenue (which is six blocks north of Page) from Leffingwell to Prairie avenue. This improvement can by no stretch of the imagination benefit me any more than it can South St. Louis. The nearest point is three miles away and in an entirely different part of town.

The property owners across the street are taxed for improving Olive street from Twelfth street west.

At this rate, just what authority does the City Hall gang have to levy taxes? And where does all this money go? Surely the assessments for Easton avenue alone must mount up into millions. Is there no recourse for a home owner? Must we sit idly by and pay every few months as the bills for improving some remote part of town come in?

Campaign Comedy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SPEAKING of Al Smith and the whispering campaign, here is one good enough for the stage:

Scene: Railway Exchange Building; two men discussing Hoover and cussing Smith.

First Man: When Al Smith was in London they took him before the King and Queen of England. Queen Mary made some remark about New York State and Al Smith answered with, "You said a mouthful, Mary."

Second Man: And that's the type of man they ask us to vote for.

I trust these two intelligent (?) gentlemen read Sunday night's Post-Dispatch. The editorial in the whispering campaigns for past presidential candidates was a classic.

The writer was the third person in that elevator and I had all I could do to keep from screaming aloud. Al Jolson at his best never tickled me as did that rich crack.

ST. LOUIS is nauseated by the Graham McNamee ravings.

He has such an acute case of exaggerated ego and New Yorkitis that he considers it clever to roast anything west of the Hudson River. He was paid to report a ball game; he did it with partiality and ignorance of the plays made and the players who made them.

We have three announcers in St. Louis who have done better work in baseball announcing during the regular season.

If there are any baseball fans among the officials of the St. Louis Radio Show I trust they will relieve us from the McNamee complex at the next Radio Show.

Farmers and Prohibition.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

BEFORE prohibition the distiller and the brewer must have been quite good customers of the farmer. Now the farmer is burdened with a surplus which goes begging and depresses the prices of his products. I wonder what percentage of this surplus would be absorbed by distillers and brewers if they were still in business? If figures based on pre-prohibition days are available they would be of interest to many and would show to what extent the farmer is cutting his own throat by voting for prohibition.

Licensing Automobile Drivers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IF the Safety Council, proposing a State law to require every driver of an automobile to be licensed with revocation of same for one year upon conviction of a serious offense, is sponsoring the enactment of such a law as this as a safety measure, they should proceed with some degree of caution.

It must be admitted that something will have to be done to curb the use of automobiles by irresponsible people. At the present time, there are many unfit drivers. Some of them are physically or mentally incompetent. Some are criminals at heart, and many are ex-convicts such as bank robbers, bandits and highwaymen, who are making practical use of the automobile in their game of outlawry. Such people as this should be stopped. Responsible citizens only should be granted a certificate, or driver's license, and examination papers attesting the applicant's fitness mentally, morally and physically, should form the basis for the issuance of a permit.

If the Safety Council is really framing a measure that will strike at the root of this deadly menace to life and limb, let's have an open breast of this matter. The public is interested and has a right to know the facts.

F. P. S.

THE PRESIDENTIAL POLLS.

The presidential polls raging in the offices of many publications continue to be a feature of the campaign. All but one, that of the Nation, show the Republicans far ahead. The Nation poll shows the Democrats ahead.

The Literary Digest poll, which showed Hoover ahead last week in the proportion of 68 to 31, shows Smith gaining this week, when the proportion is 63 to 36. However, the Digest gives Smith only Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana and South Carolina. This is no better than the Farm Journal poll does for the Democrats. Last week it gave Smith only Alabama. This week it hands Alabama over to Hoover and gives Smith North and South Dakota and North and South Carolina. Had there been a North and South Alabama the Democratic candidate might have held his own down on the Tombigbee, but as it is the alligators got him.

The Hearst poll shows Smith leading in Missouri, but it has Hoover leading in Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The city polls do little better for the Democrats than the country polls. New York City, for instance, shows the Socialists first in the Nation poll, the Democrats second, the Republicans last. The Digest poll shows New York City for Smith by 102,539 to 62,205. It shows Hoover getting 4 votes to Smith's 3 in both Philadelphia and Chicago. It will be the eighth wonder of the world if Smith does not walk off with both cities.

To accept any of these polls as a sign of what will happen in the election is not, in our judgment, very discerning. All the polls are projected into a certain quarter. That of the Nation, for instance, is aimed at the left. That of the Literary Digest goes to a large segment of the population on the right which likes it pabulum predigested. Farm Life and the Farm Journal go to farmers. The great mass of people, who bulk large in the center, are hardly saying in these polls what they are going to do. Nobody, we imagine, believes that Hoover is going to carry Southern states ascribed to him by the Digest and Hearst polls. Politics in those states is largely a race question. It is not a matter affected by such externals as the liquor question, religion, the ills of the farmer or the tariff.

Therefore, what the farmers who read Farm Life and the Farm Journal say in the Northern states is to us the most revealing feature of the polls. Minnesota, for instance, is close in the Journal poll. It gives Hoover 3309, Smith 3212. Wisconsin is close. It gives Hoover 2571, Smith 2355. The Digest, which has no returns from Minnesota or the Dakotas, to a degree confirms the closeness of Wisconsin. It gives Hoover 30,413, Smith 21,394.

Farm Life confirms the Farm Journal poll in reflecting strong sentiment for Smith among the farmers. It shows that not Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas merely are close, but that Iowa is and Nebraska is fast becoming so.

Also, the totals in the Digest poll are not so revealing as the shift from one party to the other. In Illinois, 27,522 Republicans are going to Smith as against 7632 Democrats going to Hoover. In Indiana these figures are 8558 and 7405. In Massachusetts they are 16,752 and 2445. In Missouri they are 875 and 790. In New Jersey they are 8443 and 4928. In New York they are 46,846 and 17,159. In Pennsylvania they are 44,256 and 13,166. In Rhode Island they are 2166 and 327. In Idaho they are 736 and 343. In Maine they are 1875 and 778. In Montana they are 919 and 689. In Wisconsin they are 10,913 and 1710. In Connecticut they are 4146 and 1090. In California they are 20,916 and 9803. In New Hampshire they are 1314 and 562. In Ohio they are 15,785 and 12,845. In Oregon they are 3551 and 1927. In Utah they are 965 and 481. In Washington they are 4660 and 2362. In Wyoming they are 356 and 292.

States in which the greater shift is to Hoover are Alabama, where 5813 Democrats have left their party as against 584 Republicans; Arizona with 733 to 495; Arkansas with 4231 to 823; Colorado with 2178 to 2086; Georgia with 4331 to 650; Kentucky with 5079 to 2683; Louisiana with 4217 to 1288; Maryland with 3861 to 2185; Nebraska with 4009 to 3924; New Mexico with 633 to 369; North Carolina with 3097 to 557; Oklahoma with 4531 to 1158; South Carolina with 742 to 83; Tennessee with 5903 to 1600; Texas with 16,190 to 1979; Virginia with 6890 to 1418.

The much greater shift is therefore to Smith, and the shift to Hoover is chiefly confined to the South, where it is less important.

THE LINDBERGH TROPHIES.

And still they come, those waiting thousands who form queues at Jefferson Memorial to see the Lindbergh trophies. We have yet to pass the memorial without seeing such a queue, often extending far back beyond the central porch of the structure.

The unflagging interest in these mementoes of a living hero has been compared, and with some justification, we think, with the never failing attraction that Napoleon's Tomb in Paris exerts. There are always queues there, too, and not tourists alone by any means, but provincials and even Parisians. It is not difficult to imagine the Lindbergh trophies forming the nucleus of such a shrine as the years wear on and the record of his lonely, perilous flight takes on a legendary quality, as it almost inevitably will.

If Smith carries the solid South and the liquid North, Hoover will have to scratch around hard for something to carry.

SENATOR MOSES' LATEST WISECRACK.

Senator George H. Moses' job is to sit in New York and manufacture wisecracks about the Democrats. His latest effusion is a bit ponderous, but it serves to illustrate his role. Here it is:

> The tragic excursion of the brown derby into the West has been followed by a complete palsy of the candidate's efforts; and he has spent two weeks of precious time in gloomy meditation preparatory to an invasion of the Southland, once a Democratic citadel, but now beleaguered.

Apparently the national management of the Republican party is not unanimous in regarding Smith's Western trip as a tragic excursion. At least, they made haste to repair the damage Smith had done to the Republican cause by sending their shock troops into the Northwest to dog his footsteps. Senator Curtis trailed Smith until his voice went back on him, but he is now once again in service. His latest effort to counteract the influence of the "tragic excursion" is to chuck young Bob La Follette under the chin. Senator Borah, regarded as the Republican ace, was sent to Minneapolis as soon as possible after the St. Paul episode of the "tragic excursion."

As to Smith's waste of "precious time" and his "gloomy meditation," Senator Moses' humor must be received rather wryly in a camp whose chieftain has rarely ventured from his snug retreat since the campaign began. Many weeks separated West Branch from Elizabethton; perhaps Senator Moses would attribute this not to "gloomy meditation," but to "silent exultation." Anyway, for humor, we prefer Will Rogers' stuff. He is louder and a lot funnier.

COL. CALLAHAN'S ASSOCIATION.

In her speech at Hardinsburg, Ky., Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General, who is trying to rally the churches in support of Mr. Hoover, waved a letter from Col. Patrick H. Callahan of Louisville, Ky., who, she said, had exonerated her from the charge of appealing to religious prejudice. She said that Col. Callahan, as the head of the Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition, did not stand alone for prohibition.

Col. Callahan appeared before the subcommittee of the Committee on Judiciary of the United States Senate, in April, 1926, during the investigation of prohibition. He said he represented the Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition, which he described as a nation-wide organization, having directors throughout the country. We reprint a brief excerpt from the testimony of Col. Callahan:

> Senator Reed of Missouri: What is the organization you speak of?
> Mr. Callahan: The Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition.
> Senator Reed of Missouri: How many members has it?
> Mr. Callahan: About 320.
> Senator Reed of Missouri: Three hundred and twenty members? What is the Catholic population of the United States?
> Mr. Callahan: About between 18,000,000 and 19,000,000. There has been no effort made to secure any membership, just those that would take some active part in different states when there was legislation being enacted.

Mrs. Willebrandt had little reason to plume herself on the indorsement of Col. Callahan. The influence of the man who heads a nation-wide organization of 320 members out of over 18,000,000 Catholics in the country could be weighed in a jewelers' scale.

TRADE UNION ETHICS.

It is creditable to the trade that some of the organized carpenters in the United States protest against such vandalism as is practiced in St. Louis by union men.

It is not uncommon for houses here to be blown up, defaced, or smeared with creosote and tar because nonunion men have worked on them, a practice that other union men outside the city denounce by resolution. Such a resolution was passed by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, meeting at Santa Monica, Cal. It expresses what should be the indignation of all union men against such tactics.

Terrorization is not a proper weapon for either side in the relations between employer and employed. In condemning it upon the part of their own people, the trades unions dignify themselves and justify their organization. Organized labor can, as the American Federation of Labor has proved in its opposition to communism, be more than a protection to workers merely. It can also be a protection to society.

FREE PRESS, 1928 ITALIAN MODEL.

The very newest definition of free press comes from Premier Mussolini of Italy. During the course of an address in which he pointed out that the entire Italian press is Fascist, he said:

> Italian journalism is free because it serves only one cause and one regime, free because within the laws of the regime it can exercise all the functions of control, criticism and propulsion.

In other words, Italian journalism is perfectly free to belong to any political party it chooses, just so long as that party is the Fascisti.

DR. GREENFIELD SLUDER.

Not since Beaumont's study of digestion, which attracted the attention of the medical world, had any St. Louis doctor occupied so commanding a place in his profession as did the late Dr. Sluder in laryngology, or diseases of the nose and throat. In London and on the Continent, to mention Sluder's name among medical men is to encounter a familiarity with it equal to that here in St. Louis.

Dr. Sluder's fame as a specialist in this comparatively new science spread many years ago beyond the boundaries of this country, and he has long received students from various parts of the world. He had been president of the American Laryngological Society, and he was for 23 years director of the Department of Laryngology at Washington University. The outstanding characteristic of Dr. Sluder was his passion for original research, and he was interested in his practice largely as it contributed to his studies.

It is well known, of course, that Dr. Sluder's great contribution to laryngology was his revolution of tonsillectomy. Prior to his advent, the removal of tonsils was a long-drawn out and even dangerous operation. Dr. Sluder not only perfected the operating instrument used, but he evolved new methods of operation. He introduced gas as an anesthetic, for example, in place of choloform or ether. By the Sluder method, the time for a tonsillectomy was reduced roughly from a half-hour or 40 minutes to two minutes, and there was a corresponding increase of successes over failures.

A native St. Louisan, Dr. Sluder was of Dutch descent. A great giant of a man, and blunt to a degree that often masked his gentler nature, he shed luster for years upon his profession and upon St. Louis. He may be said to have given himself wholly to his work, the rewards of which were much less to himself than to mankind.

The reason "you cannot fool a whole strata of people" is because the English language will not permit it. The language, which must be saved at all costs, would say that "you cannot fool a whole stratum of people."

SOMETHING TO LOOK FORWARD TO.

Smith on Farm Relief and Power

Liberal weekly applauds Smith's stand on two burning economic issues, one of which has already caused much distress and the other having a deep meaning for the future; thinks McNary-Haugenites should prefer Smith to Hoover and that progressives should appreciate Smith's superior position on power.

From The New Republic.

GOV. SMITH'S two speeches on farm relief and water power will probably prove, in several respects, the most important of his campaign. They both concern burning economic issues, one of which has already been marked by much distress, another of which is bound to be of deep meaning for the future welfare of the people. They are addressed to the most dissentient elements of the Republican ranks—the Mid-West farmers and the progressives—whose votes would be essential to a Democratic victory. And they are the first campaign speeches by the candidate on questions of national policy, which reveal how he understands such questions, and how he proceeds in the handling of them.

The Omaha speech, in part, legitimately emphasizes the dereliction of the Republicans, with the advice and encouragement of their presidential candidate, in regard to the ills of the farmers. The farmers were in distress in 1924, and were admitted to be so in the Republican platform, which promised remedy and relief. The farmers are today still in the same kind of distress, and the same vague promises are made in the new Republican platform. During the intervening period, farm representatives hammered out and passed through Congress the measure of relief they desired, only to be contemptuously thwarted by the Republican President, with the aid of Mr. Hoover. Condemnations of this negation, and of Mr. Hoover in this connection, by eminent Republicans who have the confidence of the farmers, are quoted. Can the farmers trust the Republicans again? Such an attack is not mere political claptrap. It raises, in relation to a specific important issue, the question of party responsibility and sincerity.

Nor does Mr. Smith himself dodge the issue he raises. He gives perhaps the most accurate and the simplest popular explanation of the aims and methods of the McNary-Haugen type of legislation which has ever come before the public. He pledges himself in its favor. He makes it clear that, in a nation where industrial products receive the benefit of tariff protection, the farmer can receive equal benefit only if the exportable surplus is lifted off the domestic market. He frankly states that he does not know how best to solve the problem of distributing the cost of doing so over the crops benefiting—this problem, originally met by the famous "equalization fee," he will leave to experts. It is plain that his objection to the equalization fee does not apply to its aims, but to its details. After this, no farmer who believes in the McNary-Haugen remedy has the slightest excuse for not preferring Smith to Hoover.

And Mr. Smith is not content to leave the matter here. What, as alternatives, does Mr. Hoover propose? More tariff. But that is absurd, because the tariff we have already is ineffective in protecting crops which have an important sale abroad. Co-operative marketing associations. But Mr. Smith also favors them. The St. Lawrence waterway. But this will take so long to build that it will not help as an emergency measure. There is no flaw in Smith's logic, in his explicitness, in his frankness. He simplifies and defines the issue. He demands an intelligent choice. In spite of any misgivings as to the ultimate adequacy of the McNary-Haugen measure, one is confident that, with this emergency relief enacted, Smith would turn his attention with equal aptitude and directness upon the next difficulty. He would shape the problem so that the people could recognize it and deal with it through political instruments. This is the quality of his lucid mind and his political expertness—a quality rare and precious in a democratic Government.

Likewise, in the water-power speech, the Democratic candidate exhibits equal simplicity and concreteness in presenting to a large public the first essentials of the subject. He declares unequivocally for public ownership and control of water-power sites already in public hands, as well as of the generating plants to be built upon them, such as those proposed at Boulder Dam and Muscle Shoals. He wants also the public right to regulate by contract the distribution of the power and its price to the consumer. The New Republic has so long and so frequently advocated these measures, and has dwelt so much upon their importance, that it is needless to repeat the arguments here. The significant fact is, that for the first time in the history of this issue, a public man who could command a national audience has taken the pains to understand this subject and to explain it to the electorate. A candidate seeking an office of great power and influence has had the courage to deal with it in other than broad equivocations; to state what his concrete policy would be, and to ask the voters whether they favor it or not. And at the same time he has justly illuminated the vagueness of his opponent on the question, and has created for that opponent the moral necessity to define his position because of the connection which is shown between the power interests and the Republican party, especially in the indefensible appointment of Roy O. West as Secretary of the Interior.

Mr. Smith's attack on the propaganda methods of the power lobby is unflinching; while the standards of our public life ought to be high enough so that every candidate would without question join him in that attack, as a matter of fact our politicians have for the most part shrunk from saying anything which might offend influential groups of industrialists and their retainers. If Progressive voters do not appreciate the immense superiority of Smith to Hoover on hydro-electric power, there is little hope for progressivism in the United States. Senator Norris himself could not have done better. The issue is joined; the voters have an opportunity to exert their power in favor of a specific course on a matter of supreme importance.

BALLADE OF CONSOLATION.

Love's not a madness in the brain,
  Love lasts for but a fleeting day,
We lose its joy and live its pain
  When golden dreams turn sodden
Let poets chant their lying lay,
  At best they catch a fitful gleam
Of life amid the sad decay,
  And Helen was a poet's dream.

And if the cup of love we drain,
  Of if the bitter draught we stay,
The cup at all must seem in vain,
  Too late we know for what we pray;
Not fondest love can e'er convey
  That coursing blood of poet's theme,
The promised paths lead all astray,
  And Helen was a poet's dream.

The fitful god can never deign
  To grant our dream—our dreams
The lightest links prove heavy chai
  When harsh December follows May;
Forswear the game the high gods play,
  Nor bitter love as proper deem;
All things are lies that poets say,

L'ENVOI.

Nor ever such an urge obey,
  An urge not worth the least esteem;
What seems pure gold will prove but

"Of Making Many Books"

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

Seems to Be Kidding Us

STAMPEDE. By L. de G. Sieveking. (Brentano).

IT is reasonable to assume that the vast majority of those who go in for mystery yarns are fitted out with neat sets of conventional ideas, easily recognized as having been acquired ready-made. It could scarcely be otherwise considering the enormous popularity of the mystery yarn together with the fact that we now have quantity production and consumption in the idea business just as we have in all other thriving industries.

There still is, of course, keen competition between rival thought factories, but standardization of product, as everybody knows, is essential to successful competition. Unless all signs fail, we soon shall see a gigantic merger involving both the manufacture and merchandising of thought products. This will not only greatly reduce the overhead for all of us, but will render strictly standard thought accessible to anyone with sufficient mentality to twirl a radio dial. Moreover, automatic radio sets will be produced in large quantities for the rest of us.

But, though we may look forward with confidence to bigger and better things in this line of business, as in all others, we have already made tremendous strides toward intellectual standardization; and, considering this, one wonders how Mr. L. de G. Sieveking hopes to get by with his yarn entitled "Stampede." It is offered as a mystery story, thus plainly appealing to the myriads. But what will be the consternation of those myriads if they discover the fact that Mr. Sieveking deliberately, though slyly, pokes fun at practically every trade-marked and nationally advertised brand of thought on the market? Also, as the pages turn, the suspicion grows that Mr. Sieveking may be poking fun at the mystery yarn itself. Is this not a betrayal of public trust?

Ostensibly, "Stampede" is concerned with the invention of a marvelous thought machine and a diabolical device for projecting death-dealing rays of light. The former is a doorinkus that, when fastened on a head, writes down every thought that flits through the mind, if any. By twiddling a certain hicky on the contraption, it is transformed into an instantaneous thought-transmitter, capable of reaching anybody anywhere, providing always that there be any thought to transmit. With these two machines, a certain Her [illegible] Kanker, who is a madman of titanic intellect, undertakes to overthrow all the social organizations of the world. To this end he has organized a world-wide "Millenium Society," the purpose of which is thus set forth in one of the Doctor's speeches: "Equal—all of us—in brains, morals, courage, strength and comradeship! All of us are fit for the same work, and any man may be a leader. I myself lead you, comrades, simply because—because I am doing so. An idle chance which might easily have fallen on any of you. By co-operation and the use of my invaluable inventions we shall utterly defeat the ends of those who hold that which we all detest—Power! The people shall rule. There shall be no rule! The lowest shall govern by virtue of their position."

What follows is a desperate encounter, not between Wisdom and Virtue on the one hand and Folly and Criminality on the other, as we might expect, but between rival coalitions distinguished only by their particular brands of idiocy; and before the story is finished, one gathers that Mr. Sieveking doesn't think much of the way we are running our world. He even seems to doubt the wisdom of great statesmen, as is shown when he has a Prime Minister wear the thought machine in a time of grave national crisis. Lo, the august head is quite empty, save for a few disconnected bars of a popular song. Thereupon, the Prime Minister goes before the public and makes another "grand gesture," winning much credit thereby.

The Foreword by Gilbert Keith Chesterton really lets the cat out of the bag: but who, save an occasional reviewer, ever reads forewords? Says Mr. Chesterton:

"It is Power without Purpose. Everywhere there are Noses to the Grindstone—and the Noses are blind. Always, inevitably, there is anticlimax, and always it is unperceived by the Noses. They become directors of vast commercial concerns, or syndicates of newspapers, or Departments of State. They achieve the accumulation of what is usually called 'wealth,' either in money or in property. They invent curiously cunning devices and machines, and toss them into the crowd without a thought for the consequences. What they are all after actually is Power. And the unperceived anticlimax consists in the fact that at that point their imagination and ambition give out. They confuse the means with the end—thinking the means to be the end. With noble and highly dramatic 'gestures' they almost succeed in disguising their grotesque and gigantic futility. Once or twice in every generation there lives a man who attempts a small task in a corner, and, perceiving it clearly in its relative importance to the rest of existence, puts his nose to the grindstone—with his eyes open to the horizon—and does the thing. In the general stampede this man avoids futility."

PULITZER PRIZE PLAY GIVEN AT THE ODEON

"In Abraham's Bosom" Presented by Company From the Provincetown Playhouse.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

Paul Green's interesting and disturbing play "In Abraham's Bosom" which won the 1927 Pulitzer Prize began a three day's engagement at the Odeon last night. The presenting cast was much the same as in the New York production. A good sized audience viewed the proceedings on the stage with respect and some enthusiasm but the unsuitability of the Odeon as a theatre for spoken drama undoubtedly robbed the play of part of its effect.

Although the author is white—he was an instructor in the University of North Carolina at the time of the play's production—he had adopted the viewpoint of the Negro in unrolling the tragic biography of Abraham McCranie. This is nothing more than a necessary dramatic device and is always legitimate as long as the author does not falsify his materials. This Mr. Green certainly has not done. The situation that envelops the half-caste Negro who sees himself as a Messiah of his race is essentially true not only of the Negro who revolts against his environment but of any man stirred by a similar motive.

But although Mr. Green's idea has the universal sweep of great drama his method of presentation is such that its effect is scattered. There is never any moment in the play which gets the benefit of a cumulative feeling built up in the audience for the simple reason that none has been built up. This is partially explained by the fact that the play is cut up into short scenes extending over a long stretch of time. Moreover there was apparently no attempt to arrange the materials with a specific climax in view. These are technical objections, of course, but in the theater certain fundamental laws are almost imperative.

The cast was satisfactory without being at all brilliant. Thomas Mosely was well chosen to play the lead and he had able support from James Dunmore, Inez Clough, Alston Burleigh and Wilhelmina Williams. The Williams girl had only two or three "sides," but she read these with such delicacy and conducted herself with such finesse that she dominated the stage for the little while she was on.

St. Louis U. Students Attend Mass.

Students and faculty members of the various schools of St. Louis University attended the annual mass of the Holy Ghost at St. Francis Xavier (College) Church yesterday, marking the official opening of the school year. The Rev. Thomas S. Bowdern, S. J., dealt with the purposes of Catholic schools in his sermon. Members of the University alumni and friends of the institution also attended the mass.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.

THOUGHTS while strolling: What's become of Gertrude Ederle? Or has she given up flying? Wish someone would open a cafe where they wouldn't snatch the menu after you order. Rust colored tin can tourists who buy a flivver and see the world.

Corse Payton, who styles himself the world's best bad actor. That overworked tune, "Sidewalks of New York," again. Another Lefcourt building. He used to be a Broadway newsboy. Most everybody will stop to look at a map in a window. First orange, then pineapple and now cocoanut drink stands. Winter Garden goes "Al Jolson" again.

Karl K. Kitchen, a Cleveland, O., boy, who made good in the city. Rarely see a sky writer any more. John Roach Straton, New York's nattiest dressed minister. Elmer Davis, the new editorial writer for Life. Old ladies in dull silks who sit in hotel lobbies dreaming.

Helena Rubinstein, the penniless Polish girl who made millions out of beauty lotions. Those tousled youths with long bow ties who try to be arty but have to be "in trade" just the same. Marked down bathing suits—winter is here, and ain't I glad?

Dress shops where the customer is called "Moddom." The Lalique glass craze. A blue Chow. Archery has became another vogue. Jefferson Machamer, the cartoonist, who is also "Judge Jr." Sleepy-eyed firemen going through town in flying wagons putting on their coats.

The shabby fellows in shiny suits who refuse to leave Broadway curbs. Singed cats unafraid of the fire. Arnold Rothstein, the White Way's man of mystery. A lady watching a steam shoveler through a lorgnette. The temporary parking spaces when a building comes down.

Why are employment bureaus so dingy looking? Scotch stories seem played out. The well-dressed people in coffee pot places. "Spike" Hunt in town from his Canadian ranch. Ladies being coiffed and complexioned just as it is time for married men to scoot home.

ONE of Broadway's favorite poems is from the versatile pen of Dorothy Parker and here it is:

The sun's gone dim, and
 The moon's turned black;
For I loved him, and
 He didn't love back.

A SURPRISE for the Broadway visitor is that he may walk several blocks northward from the Rialto and find a sheep-herder almost as true to type as those on the Western range. He is the sheep-herder in Central Park who roams about the meadows with his herd and corrals them in the sheep fold at night. He is an uncommunicative old fellow who is accompanied by his beautiful shepherd dog, the father of which was given to him by J. P. Morgan Sr.

WHAT appeared for a time as one of the biggest by-products of prohibition has proved a dud. That is the sale of pocket flasks. They sold like hot cakes and then sales began to dwindle until now they are featured chiefly at cut-price sales. Those who carried liquor to cafes and night clubs in expensive flasks left too many on tables. Now they carry their liquor in the original bottles wrapped in ordinary paper.

THE newest in massages is called "the knuckle twist" and is reported to be a beaut for those who like hearty rub-a-dub-dubs and spine-cracking thuds—what is this, a Mother Goose jingle?—to put them in daily condition and few can endure it without saying "Uncle."

EPISCOPAL BISHOPS AND DELEGATES IN JOINT SESSION

Deputies Have Approved Change in Prayer Book Permitting Specific Prayer for Dead.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The first joint sesion of the House of Bishops and the House of Delegates, the legislative bodies of the Episcopal church, drew the center of attention today at the general convention of the church organization which in two days has received resolutions and committee reports looking to many reforms in doctrine and practice.

Overwhelming majority already has been recorded in the meeting of the deputies for a clause revising the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer which would commit the church to a specific prayer for the dead. A proposal to allow the administration of both parts of the Eucharist at one time by dipping the bread in the wine, was lost despite opposition from some members on the ground that drinking wine from a common communion cup aided the spread of diseases.

The final count of the offering of Episcopal women showed a total of $1,110,405 to be used for missionary purposes. This is the largest ever made at a triennial meeting. Three years ago at New Orleans $913,000 was contributed.

If a sufficient number continues to attend, the museum will be opened at night periodically.

The annual American exhibition consisting of 93 paintings, is on view now.

MARCELINE REYBURN TO WED NEW YORKER

Announces Her Engagement to Henry J. Kaltenbach Jr.

ONE of the most interesting engagements of the year was announced this afternoon when Miss Marceline Reyburn, daughter of Mrs. Charles Fletcher Sparks of 6320 Wydown boulevard, made known her betrothal to Henry J Kaltenbach Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Miss Reyburn is a graduate of Mary Institute and Miss Pollard's School in the East. She made her debut several seasons ago and became a member of the former Imperial Club and has been prominently identified in the achievements of the St. Louis Chapter of the Junior League. Miss Reyburn is an expert horsewoman and her riding has been a feature of the horse shows given in St. Louis for the past few seasons.

She has traveled extensively and spent last summer in Europe.

The romance began in St. Louis several years ago and has continued during the summers in Hyannisport, Mass., where Mrs. Sparks has a summer home and where Kaltenbach also spends the summers.

Kaltenbach is a graduate of Princeton University and the Law School of Harvard University. He is a member of the Princeton Club of New York and of several country clubs.

He came to St. Louis for the announcement party and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sparks and their family.

A large group of out-of-town guests will be in St. Louis for the wedding Monday of Miss Mary Belle Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Woods, 7069 Kingsbury boulevard, and Robert Newman Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newman W. Arthur, 5817 Cabanne avenue.

Mrs. A. F. Crider of Shreveport, La., an aunt of the bride, and her son, Kevil, have arrived and are guests at the Woods home. Miss Woods' uncles, David B. Kevil and James S. Kevil of Sikeston, Mo., will be here, as will her cousin, Wilson Woods, of Chicago. From Decatur, Ill., there will be Mrs. Della P. Gushard, Mrs. Philip Scroat, Mrs. D. M. Burner and Judge and Mrs. James Baldwin.

MISS MARGARET RUMSEY.

MISS RUMSEY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rumsey Jr., 4372 Westminster place, is expected home today from a visit at Grand Rapids, Mich. Miss Rumsey spent the summer with her parents at Fish Creek, Wis.

Cards were received this morning for two debut receptions, the first from Mrs. Thodore Moreno to present her daughter, Miss Harriet Moreno to society Tuesday, Oct. 30 from 4 to 6 o'clock at their home in Brentmoor, and the second from Mrs. Gustave Bischoff Jr. to introduce her daughter, Miss Louise Bischoff, Thursday, Nov. 1 during the same hours, at the Bischoff home, 2 Forest ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edward Lau, the latter of whom was Miss Ruth Krause, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Krause of 716 Belt avenue, have returned from their honeymoon in the East and are stopping at Kingsville-on-the-Lake, Canada, until Christmas. They will make their home in Detroit, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Lau were entertained by Mr. Lau's father, the Rev. Michael Lau of Abbotstown, Pa., and his brother, Dr. Frederick Lau of Bronksville, N. Y., during their visit in the East.

At the request of a number of members of the Town Club who desire to attend either of two large political functions Sautrday afternoon, the opening forum discussion scheduled for the luncheon hour on that day at the Town Club, has been postponed until a later date.

INFORMAL notes will be sent to her close friends this afternoon telling them of the engagement of Miss Xalissa Reid Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher R. Harris of Dorsett and Adie roads, Ferguson, to R. Langford Ballenger of San Francisco.

The engagement takes its place with the important social announcements of the fall. The wedding will take place Nov. 28 at the Harris home. Details of the ceremony and the personnel of the bridal party will be announced later.

Miss Harris is a graduate of Mary Institute and the Oldfields School in Glencoe, Md. She did not make a formal debut but participated in the gaieties of her set several seasons ago. She has traveled extensively. Her sister, Miss Janet Bond Harris, is a bud of the present season. Miss Harris is a granddaughter of the late Dr. Young H. Bond, founder of the Marion Sims Medical College.

Mr. Ballenger is the son of Judge and Mrs. Joseph S. Ballenger, a prominent Southern family, originally of Georgia. Since Judge Ballenger's retirement, he and Mrs. Ballenger have made their home on the gulf coast of Mississippi.

Miss Marian Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Leigh Green, 12 Kingsbury place, has chosen Nov. 29 as the date of her marriage to Walter Westerman Shipley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shipley, 470 Lake avenue. The ceremony will take place in the Green home in the evening, with a reception following. The bridal party is not complete, but will include the bride's sisters, Miss Elise and Miss Sally Green, and Miss Stephanie Jarvis.

Mrs. Green and Miss Marian are now in Chicago on a shopping tour, and will return home Monday.

One of the interesting debutante parties of this week will be a luncheon given at the St. Louis Country Club today by Mrs. John Howard Holmes, 6500 Forsythe boulevard, and her daughter, Miss Mary Brooks Holmes, in honor of Miss Marie Peckham Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Graham Wilson Jr., 4382 Westminster place. The guests will be 30 of the debutantes.

Monday night Miss Holmes will be hostess at a dinner party at the St. Louis Country Club for Miss Katherine Smith, daughter of Mrs. J. Herndon Smith, her fiance, Alan Thompson Smith, and their wedding party.

Mrs. W. L. Hemingway of 7711 Maryland avenue, and family, have returned from La Jolla, Cal., where they spent the summer. Miss Margaret Hemingway will depart today for New York to attend Miss Finch's School.

QUARTER CENTURY OF CHURCH HISTORY TOLD BY ARCHBISHOP GLENNON

St. Rose's, Father Foley of St. Cronan's and Father Nieters of St. Boniface's in Carondelet.

"In the past, the city was partitioned into German-speaking as well as English-speaking parishes. Those boundary lines still exist but they are fading as the newer generation replaces the older. Now, English is the official language of every church in the diocese. Some use is made of the European languages, German, Italian, Croatian, and especially Polish. The Polish people, with thei rlately recovered nationality, are still enthusiastic for the native tongue.

Not a Church Closed.

"Some day a realignment may be needed, but the time has not yet come. In these 25 years, not one Catholic church here has been closed. Some of those downtown, perhaps, do not have a regular constituency that supports them, but they are helped by transients and by their former parishioners.

"As for the state of feeling between the Catholic church and the rest of the community," the Archbishop continued, "I don't know that I can say it has improved, for it has always been of the best. It is so good that we don't have to talk about it."

Turning from the church to the business community, Archbishop Glennon commented on the passing of almost all the leading men of a quarter century ago. The world's fair period, he remarked, gave him an exceptional opportunity for acquaintance with those men—Francis, Thompson, Scullin, Campbell, Busch, Davis, Catlin, Wade and others. He inquired as to Walter B. Stevens, secretary of the Fair corporation and indefatigable scribe of the exposition era, who is still engaged in historical and literary work.

Dislikes Movies, Favors Radio.

The greatest changes in the lives of the people, in his observation, have come from the movies, of which he has little good to say, and the radio, which he considers a beneficial influence.

"Much of the movies," he said, "can be set down as cheap, tawdry, moral slush. Almost always there is the note of suggestion, when evil itself is not actually present.

"In the radio, on the other hand, speakers and singers must keep their recitals clean or they are cut off. The music is jazz in part but usually there is good music to be had. To people in the country, limited in their opportunities to hear what is worth while in music and in public speaking, the radio has been a great blessing. The radio has not affected the attendance of the Catholic churches, for our people understand that they are required to be physically present at mass."

Archbishop Glennon came to St. Louis in his forty-first year. At 66 he shows few marks of the 32 years of his episcopal office, and the quarter-century in his present rank. But a portrait in his parlor reminds the visitor that time has taken its toll of his once abundant hair. Happily, no such thinning process has affected the geniality and humor of his earlier years. He keeps up a continuous program of work and visitations, varied only by a biennial journey to his native Ireland, from which he returned a few weeks ago.

TWO EPISCOPAL CHURCHES TO BE MERGED, OCT. 28

New Congregation Will Put Up $300,000 Building, Probably Free From Debt.

St. George's Episcopal Church and St. Michael and All Angels Episcopal Church will be merged Oct. 28 as St. Michael's and St. George's Church, it was announced today.

Plans for a new $300,000 building, begun by the St. Michael's congregation, will be carried out, and with money from St. George's treasury the structure probably will be completed without debt.

A farewell service will be held at St. George's Church, Pendleton avenue and Olive street, on Oct. 21. Thereafter the united congregation will worship at St. Michael's Church, Wydown boulevard and Ellenwood avenue. The property of St. George's Church will be sold for the benefit of the united church. The Rev. Dr. Karl Morgan Block, for three years rector of St. Michael and All Angels Church, will direct the enlarged congregation.

Estate of Samuel L. Sherer.

An inventory of the estate of Samuel L. Sherer, director of the City Art Museum, who died Sept. 14, was filed yesterday. It shows property valued at $13,607, including a voucher for salary from the city amounting to $333, corporation stock valued at $1250, bonds totaling $1000, cash amounting to $735 and realty at 5970 Plymouth avenue appraised at $9500.

farmer's disposal adequate banking facilities. It does not, of course, solve those other problems of organization, distribution, and disposal of surplus, which are responsible for so many of the farmer's present troubles. These problems must and will be solved in other ways.

Praise for Banking System.

"There are three other things which should be mentioned in connection with the Governments financial policies. The war claims against Germany and Austria have been settled in a way satisfactory to those nations as well as to ourselves; the loans made to our railroads during the war have been nearly all repaid; and the charters of the Federal Reserve banks have been renewed, thus insuring continuation of the banking system under which we were able to finance the war and to pass safely through the reconstruction period.

"I would like to make it clear that, in the renewal of the charters of the Federal Reserve banks, the administration had the cooperation and support of Democrats as well as Republicans in Congress.

"Such is the record of the administration as regards its financial policies. It is a constructive record and one that speaks for itself. And yet Gov. Smith and other Democratic speakers not only seek to withhold credit from the Coolidge administration for its undisputed achievements, such as reducing debts, taxes and expeditures, but apparently do not approve that record. They are careful not to specify in what respect they would change it but content themselves with the charge that nearly eight years of good government and mounting prosperity do not, in their opinion, constitute a record of 'constructive' achievement. I submit that it is a constructive record in the best sense of the word.

Feeling of Confidence.

"Success was not achieved in this instance without a fight. Take the question of reduction of taxes and reform of the tax system, or reduction of the public debt, or the settlement of the foreign debts. All of these measures helped in building up that feeling of confidence which has been no small factor in promoting prosperity during the last three or four years. Looking at them in restrospect, each one of these steps would seem not only simple and logical, but inevitable; and yet the administration was opposed at each step of the way in trying to carry out these policies.

"The Republican [illegible] has given a notable instance of platform promises which have been carried out. Under the leadership of President Coolidge it has proved itself a party of constructive ability. In Mr. Hoover it offers to the country an able and experienced leader who will carry on the work of the present administration.

"After a long and successful business career, he has held many public and official positions of the greatest responsibility. He has proved himself a great organizer, a far-seeing and resourceful executive, and has discharged every duty in a way to merit the highest praise and admiration.

"Based on nearly eight years of close association with him, I am convinced that he will give the nation a sound and successful administration of the Government, and that he is supremely well qualified to deal with those great economic problems that influence so directly, and to such a very large extent, the prosperity of the country and the comfort, welfare and happiness of the people."

HOOVER TO TALK FOUR TIMES ON TRIP TO BOSTON

hours. This is accomplished by two hurried overnight trips and by limiting public appearances to a small number of cities.

Going direct from Washington to New Haven, Conn., the Hoover special train will be transferred to another railroad for the run to Springfield, where a brief stop and rear platform appearance will be made. Then the special will proceed east across the greater portion of the state, going to Worcester and then to Newtonville where the party will detrain to visit the suburbs of Boston and drive by motor into the city.

Two Talks in New York.

After the speaking at the Arena there will be a hurried getaway, the train leaving for Washington at 10 p. m., making the return trip through Providence, Hartford New Haven and New York. Except for Providence all of these points will be passed late at night and early in the morning so that there will be no opportunity for the candidate to make platform appearances.

Hoover probably will make three talks on the Boston trip aside from the prepared address he will deliver in that city. He will speak at Springfield, Worcester and on Boston Common where he will be welcomed by the Mayor.

His plans for the New York trip the week following call for only one talk aside from that to be made at night at Madison Square Garden. This will be at the luncheon which will be attended by the State and county chairmen and vice chairmen and others who are taking the lead in the work for the Republican ticket in that state.

Eastern Stars Pick St. Louis.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 12.—St. Louis was selected for the 1929 convention of the Order of Eastern Star at the closing session of its annual State convention here last night.

PLANE-TRAIN LINE HEADQUARTERS HERE

Air Transport Concern Employing Lindbergh, Selects St. Louis.

St. Louis is to be the headquarters of Transcontinental Air Transport, a $5,000,000 corporation organized to operate the air route of plane-train service across the country, it was definitetly announced yesterday by C. M. Keys, president of the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. and chairman of the board of the air transportation company.

The headquarters probably will be on the East Side at a 570-acre site recently purchased by a group of St. Louisans headed by Mark C. Steinberg, broker. Although not definitely announced, it is practically assured that the East Side location will be selected as a terminal in preference to Lambert-St. Louis Field because of its proximity to downtown St. Louis. The East Side location is a 10-minute drive by automobile from Broadway and Olive street by way of the Municipal Bridge, while Lambert Field is a 45-minute drive from downtown St. Louis.

The proposed terminal will include complete operations and mechanical departments, and will be the headquarters of Maj. Thomas Lanphier, former commander of the Army's First Pursuit Group, who is operation manager for the air transportation company and assistant to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, chairman of the Technical Committee. The terminal also probably will be the headquarters for Phil Love, former flying partner of Col. Lindbergh, and T. Preston Sultan, World War flyer, who are airport consultants for the company. Oscar Wiesz, former head mechanic of the Thirty-fifth Division air service and a close friend of Col. Lindbergh, has been employed by the company in a mechanical capacity.

On recommendation of Col. Lindbergh, the company is planning an all-air route westward from Columbus, O., giving a 36-hour service from New York to the Pacific Coast. The proposed East Side terminal will be a "luncheon stop" on the air route. The company has purchased 10 tri-motored Ford transport planes and has tentatively fixed June 1 as the date for beginning operation.

MEXICAN INSURGENT FORCES UNITE FOR STRONG OFFENSIVE

Groups Planning Retaliatory Measures Against Federal Troops.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 12.—Reports from the states of Jalisco and Michoagan, where Government troops recently started a new offensive to suppress the activities of insurgent groups, indicate that the latter have consolidated their forces for retaliatory measures.

The newspaper, El Sol, says that Wednesday night after attacking the town of Tucacuesco, Jalisco, where they were repulsed with numerous dead on both sides, the insurgents swooped down on Tonaya nearby. They were repulsed here, too, but not before several Federals, including Capt. Leon Gaona Villa, commander of the garrison, had been killed. The insurgents after these two reverses attacked the village of El Grullo, where the home guard defeated them, and capturing the leader, Pedro Monroy, executed him.

GEN. CHARLES KING TO OBSERVE HIS 84TH BIRTHDAY TONIGHT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 12.—Gen. Charles King will celebrate his eighty-fourth birthday anniversary tonight with festivities to be broadcast to thousands.

Hundreds will gather here to pay tribute to this novelist, soldier and veteran of five wars. Throughout the State, 5000 members of the Wisconsin National Guard will listen in" at local banquets to pay homage to the General.

Gen. King is the only living officer, according to War Department records, who is a veteran of five wars. His exploits carried him through the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars, and in skirmishes resulting from two major Indian uprisings.

SNOW AND FREEZING TEMPERATURES IN WEST

Storm Sweeps Down From Canada to Colorado, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 12. — A storm which swept into the Rocky Mountain region from Canadian prairies moved eastward, today bringing promise of lower temperatures and rain or snow throughout the Missouri Valley.

Snow, which fell in nearly every Western State and which reached a depth of eight inches in places yesterday, had turned to rain as the storm swept across Western Kansas and Nebraska last night. A six-week drouth, which had affected growth of winter wheat of the Kansas plateaus, was broken. Freezing temperatures with snow was in prospect today.

The snow and cold first hit Montana Wednesday, and spread out fanshape throughout the Rocky Mountain region. The mercury fell to 28 degrees at Helena yesterday, and snow fell all day at Great Falls, near the Canadian border. Snow was general in Wyoming and the higher Colorado Rockies.

The temperature fell in the populated sections of Colorado, and rain which fell in Denver and other towns last night was expected to turn to snow today and spread into northern New Mexico.

Eight inches of snow fell in Logan, Utah and wire communication was impaired. Rain fell throughout the day in Salt Lake City.

More than three inches of rain fell at Bisbee, Ariz. While at Prescott, the longest drouth on record since 1865, was broken by a heavy rain. Water holes in the mountains filled up, and cattlemen today made plans to return cattle to the ranges.

SCHWEITZER DEFENDS SIDENER IN TWENTIETH WARD SPEECH

Former United States Senator George Williams Praises Record of Circuit Attorney.

The record of Circuit Attorney Sidener, Republican candidate for re-election, was defended last night by Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer, a former assistant under Sidener, in a speech at a Twentieth Ward meeting at 4253 Easton avenue. Schweitzer charged the press with making an unfair fight on Sidener.

George H. Williams, former United States Senator, announced yesterday that he approved the record made by Sidener in office, and declared he would vote for him if he were not a resident of St. Louis County.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

PLANKED STEAK NICE FOR A FORMAL MEAL

Serve It From Board, Surrounded With Tempting Vegetables.

What is more delicious for this week's company dinner than a juicy planked steak bordered with fluffy mounds of mashed potatoes delicately tinted with brown on their summits, and surrounded with stuffed peppers or tomatoes, bundles of asparagus, glazed carrots, tiny buttered onions and tender string beans?

Or perhaps you would prefer whit turnip cups filled with peas to the stuffed peppers, or beet cups filled with creamed celery; sauted parsnip cakes or cauliflower instead of carrots; spinach for greens and broiled mushrooms for extra garnish. And, too, there are grilled cubes of egg plant, artichoke bottoms, brussels sprouts and a dozen other vegetables that can be used, keeping in mind always to select a combination that gives contrast in flavor, color and texture.

Planked steaks are served from the plank or the board on which they are cooked. This is generally made of oak, is oval in shape and is deeply grooved on one end to hold the meat juices. Originally planked foods were entirely cooked on the plank. Nowadays it is more expedient to partly broil steak, then put it on the plank to finish cooking.

Use a porterhouse, a cross cut of the rump or a sirloin, cut from one and three-quarters to two inches thick. Wipe the meat, remove superfluous fat and pan broil for seven minutes. If the sirloin steak is used the flank end may be finely chopped and fastened in the lower end of the steak. This is the best way of utilizing that tough piece.

While the steak is broiling put the plank in the oven to heat. Grease it. Place the steak on the plank which should be big enough to hold it and allow plenty of room around the edges for the vegetables and the potatoes. Put a border of very fluffy mashed potatoes around the edge of the plank, using either a pastry bag and a large tube, or form the potatoes into mounds with a teaspoon and a fork. It will take about six cups of mashed potatoes for a large plank. Brush the steak with butter, season with pepper and salt and put in the oven to finish cooking the meat. This will take from 15 to 20 minutes, depending on whether the steak is preferred rare or well done.

When the steak is cooked, place around it at equal intervals enough stuffed tomatoes or peppers to allow one for each person to be served. Between the peppers arrange piles of hot boiled buttered small white onions, buttered string beans, glazed carrots and stalks of hot asparagus, either of the fresh or canned variety. Place sauted mushroom caps along the top of the steak and serve the whole very hot. There are nickel holders that come into which the plank can be slipped for convenience in serving.

Butterscotch Dessert.

Melt a piece of butter the size of an egg in the frying pan. Add one and one-half cups brown sugar and let it brown nicely in the hot butter. Then add one pint of rich milk into which has been beaten one egg yolk and two teaspoons flour. Let mixture boil, then remove from stove and allow to cool. When partially cool but before it sets, add four diced bananas and one cup chopped peanuts. Place in mold and garnish top with peanuts

STUFFED VEGETABLES ARE DISTINCTIVE

When Properly Planned They Constitute Almost a Whole Meal

Fashion in foods dictates that stuffed vegetables are the thing. Almost any of the large vegetables may be stuffed. The following suggestions are submitted to cooks who desire to keep abreast of food fashions:

Peppers Stuffed With Limas.

Parboil green peppers for 15 minutes, throw into cold water, drain and cut in thick slices from the steam end of vegetables and remove seeds and fill cavity with following mixture:

Cook a pint of fresh lima beans in slightly salted water with a small ripe tomato, a slice of minced onion, several sprigs of parsley, minced, one teaspoon of sugar, one teaspono salt and pepper to taste. When beans are cooked thicken the liquid with one tablespoon of browned flour browned in two tablespoons of butter. Fill peppers with mixture and top each with a thin slice of bacon. Set in oven until the bacon is nicely browned.

Cheese Stuffed Potatoes.

Select three large smooth baking potatoes of uniform size, and wash them well. Put the potatoes in a very hot oven and bake them until they are about half done; then remove and cut in halves lengthwise. Hollow out the potatoes a little in the center, making the cavities long and shallow rather than deep. Sprinkle the cavities with salt and pepper and fill with a cheese mixture made by mixing half a cupful of grated American chees with one finely chopped pimento. Dot sparingly with butter, return to the oven and bake until the potatoes are tender.

Baked Stuffed Cucumbers.

Take three thick short cucumbers and cut in half lengthwise. Scoop out centers and add three tomatoes minced fine, one half cup finely minced chicken or ham, one-half cup bread crumbs, two tablespoons finely minced onion, one teaspoon Worchestershire sauce and pepper and salt to taste and a tablespoon olive oil or melted butter. Mix these ingredients well and heat them. Then fill the cucumber shells. Put in baking dish and pour a cup of boiling water in pan. Bake 20 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Stuffed Onions.

Take six large white onions and parboil and remove centers. Chop the centers and add one-half pound hamburger, one egg, one cup bread or cracker crumbs and one-half cup milk. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Mix these ingredients well, and fill the onion shells and place them in a baking pan with just enough water to prevent them burning. Bake 30 minutes. Nice to serve as main dish at luncheon.

Stuffed Eggplant.

Scoop the pulp from the top of an eggplant after slicing through the slender end to make a lid which may be lifted to make room for the spoon. Chop an onion, fry it in butter, add ½ cup of minced liver, turn in a cup of cooked rice, add a minced sweet pepper and stir until brown. Fill in the cavity of the eggplant, replace the lid and steam an hour. Cut in thick slices for serving.

SERVE SEA FOOD COCKTAILS FOR FIRST DINNER COURSE

Fish Appetizers Are Quite the Thing for Formal Dinners.

Formal dinners generally have an appetizer for the first course. A bite of fish or seafood makes an acceptable introduction to the main course.

Crab Meat Cocktail.

Flake the contents of one can of crab meat. Add two finely chopped hard-cooked eggs and six sliced stuffed olives. Lightly fork in one-half cup of shredded lettuce. Place in glasses and pour over it mixture of six and one-half tablespoons chili sauce, three tablespoons lemon juice, dash of salt and Worcestershire sauce and one drop of tobasco.

Chesapeake Cocktail.

Chill a can of crab meat, open and separate contents into flakes. Arrange in iced cocktail glasses and cover with a dressing made by mixing one-half cup tomato catsup, one-fourth cup chili sauce, three tablespoons minced celery, two tablespoons minced green bell peppers, one tablespoon minced pimento, one teaspoon minced capers, two teaspoons grated horseradish, one diced hard-cooked egg, dash of paprika, one-eighth teaspoon mustard, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two drops tobasco.

MAKE DAINTY SANDWICHES

School Sandwiches, Particularly Should Be Appealing.

Remember in putting up school sandwiches that the bread should be cut thinly; that both pieces of bread should be spread with butter all the way to the edges (this is a health measure as well as an appetite appeaser).

The filling, no matter what it is, should come all the way to the edge of the bread, but not ooze out; and that each sandwich should be wrapped in wax paper to keep it moist and to kep it from absorbing the flavor of other foods in the lunch, especially fruits.

GELATIN PREPARED MILK

Excellent for Undernourished Children or for Building Up Adults.

People who cannot drink plain milk often find that the addition of a small amount of gelatin makes it more readily digestible. This addition of gelatni is strongly advocated by many doctors for the feeding of undernourished children or adults, especially when a quick building-up program is in progress.

Soften one level tablespoon of plain unflavored gelatin for 10 minutes in one-half cup of cold milk. Then heat the gelatin mixture over boiling water, stirring constantly until the gelatin dissolves. Add this to a quart of cold milk. Cover, keep cold and use as desired.

FOOD Home Economics GROCERIES

COFFEE CAN BE MADE IN VARIOUS WAYS

The Cup That Cheers Requires a Sufficient Amount of Coffee.

In spite of the fact that so many people drink coffee day after day perhaps fewer housewives pay any real attention to the making of coffee than to the preparation of any other food. There are a few simple principles that should always be observed in the making of a good cup of coffee. Anyone can, of course, make coffee of a sort, but think of all the people you know and pick out the ones who make really good coffee! Generally speaking, it is lack of carefulness that is to blame. The blend or quality of the coffee is, of course, important, but many people buy the best coffee and spoil it in the making.

There are three main ways of making coffee—boiling, percolating and filtering. Decide which you want and then make it as carefully as you can. The coffee pot and all the parts of a percolator or any of the utensils used in making coffee must be carefully washed after each using. Otherwise, a good flavor of coffee cannot result.

Some people prefer to grind the coffee as they make it. Others prefer to buy that ready ground. There are advantag-s of both methods; experts, however, generally grind the coffee fresh as they use it, as they feel that there is less loss of flavor in so doing. Coffee, whether in the bean or ground, must be kept in an air tight moisture proof container. Never leave it in a paper bag or in an open can.

When coffee is boiled, measure one heaping tablespoon or two level teaspoons for each cupful of water. The coffee should be medium ground. Put it into a coffee pot; add the necessary amount of cold water and place the pot over a medium flare. Stuff the spout with a piece of clean paper to prevent the aroma or flavor going off in steam. As soon as the coffee boils up, lower the flame still more and let it boil for one minute. Then turn off the heat or put it on the back of the stove or in a pan of hot water. Let stand for three or four minutes to settle.

A crushed egg shell or one whole egg well beaten is sometimes mixed with the dry ground coffee before water is added. This makes a smoother, richer flavored coffee and a very clear one.

For filtered coffee, the coffee should be finely ground and one tablespoon used for each cupful of water. A cloth bag or a filtering paper in a drip coffee pot is necessary and boiling water is poured over the coffee in the bag or paper. Then the pot is placed in a pan of hot water to keep it hot. Sometimes it is necessary to pour off the coffee and filter through a second time to get the required strength.

Medium ground coffee is used for percolating, allowing one tablespoon for each cup. Do not cook percolated coffee more than six or eight minutes. This is where most people make a mistake.

SEA FOODS BECOMING MORE POPULAR IN INLAND CITIES

Haddock fillets make a delicious salad. Boil two pounds of haddock fillets in three quarts of rapidly boiling water to which three tablespoons of salt and three-fourths cup of vinegar has been added. Boil the fish six minutes. Then remove from water and flake. Pour on fish, six tablespoons of vinegar and add two pimientos chopped fine. Cool the mixture. When ready to serve add one cup mayonnaise, one-fourth cup chopped pickle relish, three tablespoons lemon juice and mix thoroughly. Serve on lettuce hearts.

Scalloped fillet of haddock is made by preparing one and one-half pint of rich cream sauce. Cut two pounds of haddock fillet in thin slices about one inch square. Butter a shallow baking dish and pour some of the cream sauce in the bottom of dish. Sprinkle grated cheese over sauce, then put in a layer of haddock. Season with salt and pepper, chopped parsley and a tablespoon of lemon juice. Repeat until there are three layers with sauce on top. Add grated cheese, minced parsley and paprika. Bake about 40 minutes in a medium oven.

Haddock a la Newburg is nice for Sunday supper. To make it cut one and one-half pounds of haddock fillets into one inch pieces. Put a tablespoon of butter in pan and set pan on stove to get very hot. Put fish in pan, season with pepper and salt and a dash of Tobasco sauce. Let fry very briskly. Add one-half cup of cooking sherry flavoring, one-half cup of thin cream, one tablespoon finely minced pimiento and let mixture cook five minutes more. When done, thicken with four egg yolks diluted with one-half cup of cream. Stir mixture until hot, but not boiling. Season with paprika and serve on squares of toasted bread.

EXHIBIT COMMON SENSE IN KEEPING FOODS COLD

Refrigeration Preserves Fresh Foods and Protects Against Food Poisoning.

The coolest place in most refrigerators is directly under the ice chamber and for that reason foods that spoil easily should be given this space. Such foods as milk, meats, butter and eggs.

Meat should be unwrapped and placed on a dish or platter that the cold air may reach it. Butter should be covered to prevent its taking the flavor of other foods.

Every refrigerator should be aired and thoroughly washed with soap and warm water once a week.

A set of bowls and jars, reserved exclusively for refrigerator use will be found a great convenience.

Keeping foods cool not only keeps them longer and renders them more palatable, but it is also a protection against food poisoning, caused by the action of harmful bacteria on unprotected foods.

Utilize Link Sausage.

Serve sausage on slices of pineapple; with apple rings delicately browned in butter; with fried bananas; with sweet potatoes; bore a hole in potatoes, insert links, and bake; with broiled tomatoes; roll links in biscuit dough cut thin, and bake them; place several cooked links in the center of an omelet just as it is ready to be turned over; almost any combination is good.

2 cups sugar, ½ cup water, ¼ tsp. cream of tartar, 2 egg whites, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 sq. chocolate, melted.

METHOD

1. Boil sugar, water and cream of tartar together until first indication of a thread appears, 234° F. 2. Pour hot syrup over stiffly beaten egg whites and beat with egg beater constantly. 3. Add vanilla and continue beating with spoon until mixture is fluffy and will hold its shape (about 15 minutes). 4. If this mixture does not set so that it will stay on cake, add 2 or 3 tbsp. powdered sugar, a tbsp. at a time until mixture is stiff enough. 5. Reserve 3 tbsp. of this mixture and spread rest over top and sides of cake. 6. Melt chocolate and add reserved icing. Spread chocolate mixture over white frosting on top of cake in ½-inch strips about 1 inch apart. Then draw a knife quickly across the strips at 1-inch intervals. This gives a wavy, marbled effect.

Libby's Timely Suggestions

by Mary Hale Martin

EVERY FRIDAY as part of our recipe and information service we offer these columns appearing in this paper. All recipes have been tested in our experimental kitchen by Mary Hale Martin, Cooking Correspondent.

The next time you bake a cake—

Cooler weather usually means more baking. Here are a few points to keep in mind in the baking of really fine cakes:

Reduce shortening to consistency of cream. This is best done with a round-handled wooden spoon.

Granulated sugar that is rather coarse should be sifted.

Rub sugar into creamed fat a little at a time to dissolve it as much as possible.

Do not overbeat cake batter.

Only oil or melted butter should be used to grease cake pans.

Bake cake slowly enough to allow it to rise completely before the crust is formed.

Always allow cake to cool thoroughly in the pan inverted on a wire rack.

Watch these columns next week for the big announcement—the winners in our Prize Recipe Contest. Maybe your name will be among them! Mary Hale Martin, Cooking Correspondent, Libby, McNeill & Libby, Dept. PD-12, Welfare Bldg., Chicago.

An unusual salad for your bridge party

I suppose that little bridge club of yours has started its weekly sessions by now. Perhaps it's your turn to entertain. And you're wondering despairingly what you can possibly serve that hasn't been served time and again.

There's pear salad. Always popular. But you've served pear salad before. Or have you? At least, very probably not in this unusual way I want to tell you about. It's a toothsome combination of peanut butter and firm, juice-laden, full-flavored Libby's Bartlett Pears on a bed of crisp lettuce. Try it! You'll find your guests enthusiastic about it.

Pear Salad
1 No. 2½ can Libby's Bartlett Pears
¼ cup peanut butter
Head lettuce
¼ cup mayonnaise Paprika
Drain the Pears. Arrange half Pear on bed of crisp lettuce. Fill center of Pear with peanut butter. Dot top with mayonnaise. Sprinkle with paprika. (Serves eight)

Getting variety into the breads you serve

In searching for the new and tempting we are often apt to overlook the variety possible in the breads we serve.

You'll find they readily lend themselves to novel treatment.

So today I am giving you a few recipes for really attractive, out of the ordinary breads. They'll make every meal taste better and they're so easy to make!

All the recipes call for evaporated milk. I have specified Libby's because it's pure, economical, and convenient. Exceptionally rich, too—7½ teaspoons of butterfat to each 16 oz. can. It's the kind I always buy myself for every milk and cream use.

One recipe requires mince meat. I recommend that you use Libby's Moist Mince Meat. It gives certainty of the full-bodied, "winy" flavor of choicest beef, fruits, and spices.

French Sweet Buns
¾ cup Libby's Evaporated Milk diluted with ¼ cup water
1 cake yeast
¼ cup sugar
4 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
3 tbsps. melted butter 1 egg
½ tsp. vanilla flavoring
Scald diluted Evaporated Milk. When cooled to lukewarm temperature dissolve yeast in it. Add one half the sugar and enough flour (about 1½ cups) to make spongy dough. Cover and set in warm place until bulk is doubled. Add rest of sugar, salt, butter, beaten egg, flavoring, and rest of flour. Knead and return to warm place until dough is double in bulk. Turn on floured board. Make buns in any desired shape. Let rise. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. (Makes 18 small buns)

Peanut Bread
2½ cups flour
4 tbsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ cup peanut butter
1 egg ½ cup sugar
⅓ cup Libby's Evaporated Milk diluted with ⅔ cup water
Sift the flour, baking powder, and salt. Add the peanut butter mixed with a little milk. Beat the egg. Add the sugar, the liquid, and dry ingredients. Bake in loaf pan in moderate oven (375°F.) for 45 minutes. (Makes medium loaf)

Mince Meat Biscuits
2 cups flour
4 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsps. butter or butter substitute
½ cup Libby's Evaporated Milk diluted with ½ cup water
1 cup Libby's Moist Mince Meat
Sift dry ingredients. Cut butter in with knives. Mix with diluted Evaporated Milk to form soft dough. Roll to ½ inch thickness on floured board. Spread half the dough with Moist Mince Meat. Cover with other half of dough and cut out biscuits. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) for 15 minutes.

And no special occasion needed—

Here's a satisfying dish that asks no special occasion to make it appropriate. I like it particularly for the simple, homey, any-night-in-the-week meal. It's Corned Beef Hash, Garden Style.

I always use Libby's Corned Beef Hash and Libby's Beets. Tender, fine-grained, delicately cured beef—mealy potatoes—the finest seasoning. Beets that are sweet, mild, and buttery.

Corned Beef Hash, Garden Style
2 tbsps. fat
1 No. 2 can Libby's Corned Beef Hash
1 cup Libby's Beets, chopped
Melt fat in frying pan and add Corned Beef Hash and Beets. Mix thoroughly. Cook slowly until a brown crust forms at bottom. Fold like an omelet. (Serves four)

GRANULAR CONCENTRATED SOAP
CONDENSED MILK

Condensing is a Thrift Idea applied to Soap

Soil lines vanish . . . cleaning is twice as easy . . . and the package lasts and lasts

HERE is a new kind of soap . . . condensed. Its name is Kwiksolv. It is a triumph of the Palmolive laboratories.

Like condensed milk, which has 60% of its water removed, Kwiksolv is soap from which has been removed 57% air, 20% moisture. A package weighs over 1½ lbs. That's heavier than any you've ever bought, probably, for its price, 25c. Think of the saving!

These concentrated grains of Kwiksolv soak out the dirt with uncanny speed and thoroughness. They bring your wash to gleaming whiteness without hard rubbing. A special water-softener speeds this soap's action. Try Kwiksolv on stained and greasy clothes, on the soil line of cuffs and collars. See how dirt simply vanishes.

Kwiksolv will not hurt the daintiest fabric, powerful detergent though it is. It keeps your hands white and smooth. Use this new condensed soap for dishes, cleaning, laundry. The results will delight you. And now you won't be out of soap "every few minutes." For a package of Kwiksolv lasts and lasts.

Use Kwiksolv as your all-purpose soap. The nickels it saves will buy other useful things. Your grocer can supply you.

TOMATO JUICE FOR CHILDREN

Either Fresh or Canned Tomato Juice May Be Used.

Tomatoes, either fresh or canned, are rich in vitamins A, B and C. For this reason tomato juice is now given regularly to small children when orange juice is not obtainable, when it is too expensive, or simply as a change from it.

Dr. Mary Swartz Rose, who is one of our foremost nutritionists, says in her book, "The Foundations of Nutrition," that one tablespoon of tomato juice will give as much vitamin A as one teaspoon of butter, as much vitamin B as one tablespoon of milk and as much vitamin C as an equal measure of orange or lemon juice.

Ham and Corn.

Use two cupfuls of canned corn and one large can of develed ham. Season the corn with one-half teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, and a speck of pepper. Arrange alternate layers of the corn and deviled ham in a greased baking dish. Cover with one-fourth cupful of buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven of 400 degrees F. for twenty minutes.

SOURCE OF VITAMINS

Vegetables and fruits are primarily of use in the diet because of their valuable mineral and vitamin content. Many of them have an added value in possessing laxative qualities. In this case, the fibrous parts of the vegetable or fruit forms roughage in the digestive tract that is needed to keep the muscles in good condition to eliminate the waste.

The mineral content and the juicy acids found in fruits and vegetables also help to stimulate the intestinal tract and prevent constipation.

FOOD STAINS CAN BE REMOVED WITH CARE

Various Types of Stains Require Different Kinds of Treatment.

While food is designed primarily to be eaten, accidents [illegible] happen and often some [illegible] planned for the mouth finds [illegible] a lodging place on clothing, [illegible] table cloth, generally with [illegible] or less disastrous results. With [illegible] cost of clothing as it is today, [illegible] say nothing of the cost of cleaning and pressing, such damage cannot be regarded too frivolously.

Speedy treatment is generally the most effective, as stains that are treated while they are fresh will yield much more readily to treatment than if they are allowed to dry or soak in.

Perhaps fresh fruit stains are the most prevalent ones this time of year, although we always have with us coffee stains, those made from chocolate, chewing gum, grease, such as butter, oils, salad dressings, cream, ice cream stains, eggs and beets. Some of these require special treatment, especially grease stains. Aside from the special treatment often required, the fabric itself must be taken into consideration as it is very seldom that all fabrics can be treated alike without injury.

Silk, for instance, cannot stand treatment with very hot water. Some of the newer fabrics, such as rayon and celanese, are made from vegetable products and are destroyed if strong acids are used; wool will shrink and mat if treated with very hot water. Therefore, it is often necessary to use some sort of a good commercial strain remover.

Chocolate and cocoa stains are very readily removed by the use of good pure soap suds and cold water if the fabric is a washable one. Chewing gum—that most detestable of substances when one gets it on one's clothing—can easily be removed by rubbing the spot with kerosene or with turpentine. After this, if the garment is washable, wash it in a good soap suds mixture.

Egg stains are removed most easily with cold water. Hot water will set the stain more firmly. Just keep in mind the fact that you use hot water to cook eggs.

Fruit and berry stains yield readily to hot water—sometimes to cold. Try cold first and if that has no effect soak the material in hot water or stretch the stained part over a bowl and pour the boiling water on it from a height of two or three feet.

Ice cream makes a greasy stain due to the cream or fat content of the mixture and in addition sometimes makes chocolate or fruit stains, depending on the flavor used. For this reason, it is generally necessary to use luke warm water and a grease solvent.

NOTHING DIFFICULT ABOUT MAKING FRENCH DRESSING

It Is Far Easier to Make Than Any Other Type of Salad Dressing.

So many persons say, "Oh, I never could make French dressing like yours," and you tell them just how to do it and show them how, and finally make it for them, and they come back with the same old statement.

As if there were anything in the world quite so simple to make as French dressing.

The first requisite is strong cider vinegar, to which garlic has been added. For a half pint of vinegar take a half a garlic and separate it into cloves. Put the vinegar and the garlic in a Mason jar and leave it there until the vinegar is used and then pour more vinegar over the garlic. A garlic will last for several weeks if used in this manner.

When making the dressing take another pint jar and fill it slightly more than half full of plain cider vinegar. Add two or three tablespoonsfuls of the garlic vinegar, more or less depending upon the strength desired, and almost fill the jar with good olive oil. Add two tablespoonfuls of salt, about a half teaspoonful of black pepper and paprika to color. Stir well until the dressing becomes slightly thickened.

EGG AND FRUIT DRINKS

These Palatable Drinks Are Used in Various Types of Sickness.

Beat an egg thoroughly; add two tablespoons of sugar, two of lemon juice and a cup of cold water. The water should be poured in very gradually and the mixture stirred until smooth and very well blended. It should then be strained and served.

Another combination is grape juice and egg. For this the egg is first separated, the yolk beaten with a tablespoon of sugar and a speck of salt. Meantime the white has been thoroughly whipped and two tablespoons of grape juice added to the beaten yolk. This combination is then poured over the whipped egg so that it is well blended, the ingredients should be chilled before mixing and the beverage served very cold. Orange juice may be substituted if a further variety is desired. It will be seen that there is no antipathy whatever between fruit juices and egg. In fact, physicians depend very largely on such combinations for certain types of illness or convalescence.

A cheaper cut of round steak or flank steak should be baked and not broiled, as it is listed among the tough cuts of meats. The steak may be baked plain for one and one-half hours. COOKING CAMP MEALS OVER AN OPEN FIRE

When Everyone Shares in the Work There Is Fun for All.

There is something about the idea of camping out that makes an almost universal appeal to adults and children alike. "Camping," of course, has many definitions, according to one's ideas of what constitutes the necessities and luxuries of everyday living. But what I have in mind is the real camp in the woods where meals are cooked over an open fire, and everyone shares in the work, whether it be a camp for a day or a month.

It takes a bit of practice to cook over an open fire, but it's fun experimenting, and appetites that are sharpened by lots of fresh air and exercise seldom mind black edges on the food! And once the knack is acquired it is surprisingly easy. Most or at least a great part of your food can be cooked in a very heavy frying pan on a grate that has legs to hold it up over the hot embers.

Presupposing that fall camping parties go out on Saturday and spend Sunday in the woods, three or four meals will be served at camp.

The appended menues are suggested as being easily prepared and readily served:

Saturday Supper.
Corn roasted in coals
Pan fried biscuits
Broiled thin slices of ham
Fruit salad
Whole wheat bread
Olives, cheese crackers.
Milk Coffee Tea

Sunday Breakfast.
Stewed dried apricots
Boiled bacon
Hoe cakes or bread twists
Molasses, butter
Milk Coffee.

Sunday Dinner.
Cantaloupe cocktails
Barbecued pork chops
Potatoes roasted in coals
Beans and bacon
Pickles, olives, cornbread
Watercress salad Gingersnaps
Milk, Coffee, Tea.
Soft drinks.

Sunday Supper.
Vegetable stew
Cheese sandwiches
Fruit, wafers
Tea, Coffee, Milk.

Beans and Bacon.

There are a surprisingly large number of hearty, wholesome dishes that can be cooked in this way. One of the most popular is the mixture of beans and bacon, both because it is appetizing and can be quickly prepared, also because they are so filling. It is filling foods that are usually required when camping.

If you are on a short trip you will probably use canned beans, as they are so much more convenient. To make the dish, cook the bacon first, allowing a geneorus serving for each person. When it is crisp, take it out of the fat, put it on a platter near the fire to keep as warm as possible. Pour off all but two or three tablespoons of the fat, saving it for frying potatoes.

Add to the fat left in the pan one sliced onion and cook until it is brown. Then add two cans of beans, a tablespoon of vinegar or if more convenient, two or three tablespoons of tomato ketchup. A good dash of cayenne pepper is an improvement for flavor. When the beans are thoroughly hot place them in a dish with the bacon on top and serve as hot as possible.

Vegetable Stew.

Another good camping dish is a sort of stew made of potatoes, corn and onions. Use the same heavy frying pan, heating in it three or four tablespoons of the bacon fat. Add one onion or more, if you like the flavor, cut fine and cooked slowly until brown. Then add four cups of diced cold potatoes, a can of corn, or, if you are in farm country and can get fresh corn, cut it from a dozen fresh ears.

Cook until thoroughly heated and then sprinkle in one tablespoon of flour and add two cups of milk. Let the mixture cook up slowly until it is thickened and season to taste and serve very hot.

Banana Tapioca Pie.

Make your favorite tapioca pudding, adding one-fourth extra amount of tapioca to increase stiffness. Reserve egg whites for meringue. Slice bananas over bottom of baked pastry shell, cover with cooled tapioca pudding. Top with meringue and bake as usual. If you do not consume a whole pie at one meal use individual tins, which leaves enough tapioca pudding for another meal.

Hors D'Oeuvres.

On a serving platter neatly arranged boned smoked herring and salmon, small sardines, sliced boiled beets with curled anchovies, sliced hard-cooked eggs and sliced boiled tongue with horseradish, mayonnaise, cress, curled celery, endive and radish roses.

Thought for the Day.

It is not necessary to grease a pie plate. White of egg of milk brushed over the top crust just before placing the pie in the oven will give a glazed top. It usually takes forty-five minutes to bake a pie. Be sure to dust the rolling pin and pastry board lightly with flour while rolling out the dough.

Concerning Irish Moss.

Irish moss is another sea weed that is sold in dry form for household use. It has a peculiar flavor that some people do not care for, but it is often used with milk or fruit juices in the preparation of jellies and blanc manges, for diabetics or where any easily digested foods are required.

Use Care in Baking.

Avoid opening the oven door widely or shutting it quickly while baking. A sudden draught is likely to spoil the pastry.

A Kitchen Help.

If a large lump of soda is kept in the sink and the water allowed to run over it the pipes will never become choked with grease.

PASSION PLAYER ILL FROM SEDATIVE DRUG

Adolph Fassnacht Takes Over Dose for Insomnia Caused by Worry Over Debts.

The insomnia that caused Adolph Fassnacht, German peasant who plays Christ in the Freiburg Passion play, to take an overdose of a sedative drug early today, in Forest Park Hotel, was occasioned by financial worries over the $10,000 or more the attraction has lost since coming here five months ago, Fassnacht's wife said today.

The player, becoming ill after the overdose of the drug prescribed by a physician, was taken to City Hospital. The Freiburg players are scheduled to appear Sunday in Fort Wayne, Ind., but it was said that Fassnacht would not be in condition to play his usual role.

Speaking voluble German, Mrs. Fassnacht, an attractive blonde, told a Post-Dispatch reporter through an interpretor of the trials that have beset the band of 25 Freiburgers who, last June, landed in America to make their fortune with the folk vehicle that has been acted in their native village for 400 years.

Lost $5000 on St. Louis Run.

Managers, Mrs. Fassnacht said, misled them. Bookings were not properly made. In St. Louis, where the players had large audiences in the Municipal Theater on several nights last month, the production nevertheless went $5000 in the hole. The box office receipts were $27,000 for the engagement, but the bills added up to $32,000.

The play had appeared in several mid-western communities before coming to St. Louis, and the losses were $5000 when the band opened their stand in the Municipal Theater. In the five weeks since the Freiburg players enacted their drama for the last time in Forest Park, bookings arranged by the managers have failed to materialize, Mrs. Fassnacht declared.

The Passion Play was expected to go to Cincinnati for an extended engagement following the St. Louis run, but one of the managers quit, Mrs. Fassnacht declared, and the Cincinnati run did not take place. Two persons, both claiming to be managers, sued the attraction when here for $2934, and tied up the disposition of box office money for several days.

Friends Aiding Players.

Mrs. Fassnacht declared that the living expenses of her husband and self, and most of the other members of the cast, are now being taken care of by incomes from Germany, or aid sent by friends.

Mrs. Fassnacht, who accompanied her husband to the hospital, sat at his bedside in the hospital ward, from time to time stroking his arm. Fassnacht lay with closed eyes, his lean, ascetic face beardless. From time to time he stirred out of sleep to whisper a word or two of German. Fassnacht is 46. His wife is several years younger.

15,000 PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH IN U. S. LAST YEAR

Girard C. Varnum Speaks on Fire Prevention Before Rotary Club.

Approximately 15,000 persons lost their lives and $580,000,000 in property was destroyed by fires in the United States last year, Girard C. Varnum, secretary of the St. Louis Safety Council, told the Rotary Club yesterday at a luncheon at Hotel Statler.

Varnum's address on fire prevention was made in conjunction with a campaign by the Fire Department for precautions to prevent fires.

Veteran firemen have talked at grade and high schools and have distributed 385,000 pamphlets dealing with fire prevention. Under Director of Public Safety Brod, special inspections to determine if fire hazards exist, have been conducted into business establishments, industrial plants and hotels. Fire Chief Alt already has received, it was said, 1500 reports from such inspections.

Fireman Killed in Exhibition.

By the Associated Press.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Kenneth Flinton, 27 years old, Troy fireman, died last night, a victim of a Fire Prevention Demonstration. His skull was fractured as he crashed through a life net held by his fellow firemen, in an exhibition leap from the third-story window of a downtown office building.

Debilitated Women

"BEFORE taking Cardui, I was weak and run-down. I was very nervous. My back hurt most of the time. I had been seriously ill, and could not get my strength back. I read in the newspaper how others had been helped, by taking Cardui, and so I decided to try it.

"After I had taken one bottle, I felt better, and so I continued taking it. I grew stronger and was less nervous.

"Since then, I have taken Cardui several times, when I needed a tonic, and I have always felt much better. It is a good medicine."

At the right is a new picture of Mrs. Harry Cantrell, 527 S. Ellis St., Cape Girardeau, Mo. She writes:

"ABOUT seven years ago, I was all run-down, worn-out and never felt good. A chair would be more welcome any time than my work. I was so tired when I would arise in the morning. Instead of being rested, I felt terrible.

"At last mother told me to take Cardui, and I did. After the first bottle, I could tell a difference, and when I had taken five bottles the tired feeling was all gone. I felt like a different person, thanks to Cardui. I hope that other mothers will try Cardui. I have been wonderfully benefited by it."

BEARS PLAY KANSAS, WHILE BILLIKENS OPPOSE PERU TEAM TOMORROW

SHARPE TO USE HIS STRONGEST TEAM AGAINST JAYHAWK ELEVEN; LINTZENICH ON HOSPITAL LIST

By Jack Alexander.

Of what stuff the Washington U. football team is made will be revealed tomorrow afternoon at Francis Field when the Bears oppose the Kansas Jayhawks. Last year the Bears forward-passed to a tie in the game at Lawrence, Kan.

Gale Bullman, assistant Bear coach, says Kansas is stronger than last season, and while there are no exceptionally big men on the squad, it is a well-proportioned group of athletes and trained to a fine point by Coach Hargiss, former Emporia man. The line, says Bullman, favors the Eastern style of play and is coached by Waldorf, a former Syracuse star.

Most of the Kansas formations involve complicated shifts of both line and backfield and the varsity dummy scrimmaged against the third team last night in the hope of becoming accustomed to the unorthodox formations.

Local Players Handicapped.

Dr. Sharpe, head coach, refused to say what he thought his chances were against the Jayhawks. "I'll be able to tell how they stack up after the first half," he said. "I expect our line to give the Kansas linemen a battle and the rest will be up to the backs.

"My players are handicapped by the introduction of a new coaching regime, with its different ideas, and the team is a week behind what its normal development should be at this time. I don't expect it to strike its real stride until after the first week in November and by that time it should be playing classy ball."

Sharpe will start his strongest team against the visitors. Only two of the starters, Coover at end and Hornsby at left half, are not letter men.

St. Louis U. Will Be Outweighed 35 Pounds a Man by Visiting Backfield

By Gerald Holland.

Again outweighed decisively, the St. Louis University Billikens, who have failed to warm up in two previous engagements, find themselves on the short end of the odds in tomorrow's game with the Nebraska State Teachers College eleven at the Public School Stadium.

The Billikens will concede 10 pounds of the man on the line and 35 pounds a man in the backfield. The backfield of the visitors includes Kreici, a 204-pound quarterback, and Hertz, a 227-pound fullback. "Hunk" Anderson's eleven suffers a further disadvantage in being without the services of four regulars who were with the team at the beginning of the season.

Lintzenich Out of Game.

With Joe Babka and Ed Davidson out for the season, the St. Louis U. team will be minus the services of Jack Curtin, a guard, and Joe Lintzenich, the backfield star, tomorrow. Lintzenich's old knee injury has been giving him considerable trouble and he had not participated in any of the real scrimmages. Curtin sustained a slight leg injury in practice and will not be avaliable. Lintzenich will be in uniform but it is unlikely, according to Anderson, that he will see action.

Capt. Sylvester Dirnberger will fill Lintzenich's fullback position and there is no doubt but that he is quite up to the job. With Ford Brown, he took the honors of the last game with fine defensive play and several long gains.

Ford Brown, the Billikens new triple-threat man, will be retained at end in tomorrow's starting lineup although he is likely to be shifted to the backfield for part of the game. In that event, Vic Daubner will hold down his end. Ed Brown, brother of Harvey who was assistant coach last year, will fill in for Jack Curtin at guard.

The Teachers were champions of the Nebraska State Collegiate Conference last season and won eight games with a total of 359 points to 7 for the opposition.

Picking the Backfield Is Jayhawkers' Big Problem

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 12.—With spirits bolstered by a decisive 14 to 0 victory over the Grinnell Pioneers in the opening game of the 1928 season a fast, hard driving University of Kansas eleven prepared this week for the contest tomorrow with the Washington University Bears at St. Louis.

Although the Jayhawkers did not display an offensive drive until the final quarter of the game with the Iowans last week, Coach H. W. Hargiss, making his debut in the "big time," is pleased with the showing of his warriors, many of whom are sophomores.

Assisting Hargiss are Lynn O. Waldorf, former all-American tackle at Syracuse University and recently head coach at Oklahoma City University, and John Bunn, former K. U. athletic star and freshman coach. Waldorf handles the line candidates and Bunn, who is also head baseball coach, devotes his time to the backfield.

Eleven Lettermen on Squad.

Eleven lettermen reported to Coach Hargiss for practice this fall and form the nucleus of the Jayhawker grid machine of 1928, which is a team on which sophomores will play a prominent part. Capt. Harold (Dutch) Hauser, 190-pound end, is playing his third year and is teamed with Harold McCormick, former four-sport star at Wichita (Kan.) University. Hauser is also a basketball star.

Jack Schopflin and Andrew Olson, varsity tackles, are understudied by Nelson Sorem and Ed Brablage, a pair of 199-pound sophomores.

Roland Logan, letterman, and John Shannon, halfback on the varsity last season, are holding down the guard berths. Both are fast and shifty. Floyd Ramsay, 185-pound sophomore from El Dorado, Kan., is the center choice on the first team and William Smoot, Bartlesville, Ok., a newcomer, is his understudy.

Many Ball Carriers.

While the K. U. line is more or less of a problem for the coaches the backfield presents a problem only in choosing the quartet to start the game, since the Jayhawker coaches have a wealth of ball luggers, veterans and otherwise. Virgil Paden, sophomore, and Don Cooper and Ed Ash, lettermen, are quarterback candidates with Paden getting the first call. Art Lawrence, star of the Missouri game in 1927 and who clipped off a 40-yard run for a touchdown against Grinnell, and Stewart Lyman, hard-hitting varsity back, team at the half back posts, while Forrest (Frosty) Cox, 200-pound Newton, Kan., athlete, is the first choice for fullback.

In addition Coach Hargiss has for backs Paul Fisher, a youth who forward passes with either hand; Bert Itoga, shifty young Hawaiian athlete, who is a sensational broken field runner; Edgar Schmidt, whose three place kicks against Washington last year enabled the Jayhawkers to tie the score, and Foster Payne, former Argentine, Kan., high school player.

The Kansas squad left Lawrence this morning and will stop over in Kansas City this afternoon for a workout on Muehleback field. The team will arrive in St. Louis at 8:45 tonight.

JOHN BURROUGHS AND CHAMINADE PLAY TODAY

John Burroughs will be host to the Chaminade football team at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon when the two schools engage in their annual battle. Chaminade is the favorite although little is known of the strength of John Burroughs, which is playing its season's opener.

The probable lineups:

Chaminade.	Position.	Burroughs.
Jackson (C)	L. E.	Fenseney
Flauaus	L. T.	Burns

ENGLISH FIELD HOCKEY TEAM TO PLAY GAME HERE

The St. Louis Field Hockey Association, whose season opened last Saturday with a 3 to 2 victory for Mary Institute Alumnae over the St. Louis Field Hockey Club's team, announced today its schedule of matches for the remainder of the season. The closing matches will be played over the week-end of Nov. 17, and with one exception two or three matches are scheduled for each week. Only one match is scheduled for the week-end preceding the proposed visit here of an all-star English touring team, which is to play an exhibition match against an all-star St. Louis team.

Interest in the play over the next three weeks will center on the probable selections for the team which will oppose the English visitors. Several players also will be named to go to Madison, Wis., to participate in a tournament there on Nov. 17, at which an all-star team will be chosen to represent the Middle West in an annual national field hockey tournament, which will be held at Philadelphia, Thanksgiving week.

Following is the local schedule for the remainder of the season:

Oct. 13—St. Louis Field Hockey Club vs. John Burroughs School. Mary Institute Alumnae vs. Principia College. Washington University Alumnae and Sacred Heart Convent Alumnae (combined team) vs. St. Louis.

Oct. 20—St. Louis vs. Mary Institute school team. Mary Institute Alumnae vs. Washington University Alumnae and Sacred Heart Alumnae (combined).

Oct. 27—St. Louis vs. an all-star team of St. Louis players.

Oct. 29.—Practice match. St. Louis vs. an all-star English touring team, which two days later will play an exhibition match against an all-star St. Louis team.

Nov. 3—Mary Institute Alumnae vs. Mary Institute school team. Washington University Alumnae and Sacred Heart Alumnae (combined) vs. Sacred Heart school team.

Nov. 10—St. Louis vs. University of Missouri faculty team. Mary Institute Alumnae vs. University of Missouri faculty team. Washington University Alumnae and Sacred Heart Alumnae (combined) vs. Principia College.

Nov. 17—St. Louis vs. Principia College. Mary Institute vs. Washington University Alumnae and Sacred Heart Alumnae (combined).

Bowler Scores 732.

A. P. Spencer, a member of the Highland team in the Craftsman Scratch League, rolled 732 in league competition at Rogers' alleys this week. He had games of 234, 240 and 258. Long Practice at Ames.

By the Associated Press.

AMES, Ia., Oct. 12.—Another practice lasting until after dark was meted out to the Iowa State football teams yesterday. After the usual drill in kicking, passing and signal play, Coach Workman turned his attention to line blocking and general defensive tactics. The team entrains early Saturday for Grinnell.

THREE MISSOURI GRID CANDIDATES ARE INELIGIBLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 12.—Announcement of the ineligibility—temporarily and possibly permanently of two Tiger sophomores and one veteran last night, weakens Missouri's reserve strength for the first game of the season with Centre tomorrow.

The three are Russell Dills, 145-pound sophomore halfback of Albany, Mo.; James Gladden, 190, sophomore end of Farley, Mo., and Francis Huff, 205, letter man at tackle of Marshall, Mo.

The men have not been definitely declared ineligible for the season, but have not yet been placed on the eligibility list which will hold them out of competition. All are attempting to make up scholastic deficiencies incurred last year. It is possible that they will be eligible for the remainder of the Tiger schedule.

Huff last year took his turn regularly at a tackle assignment and was expected to hold a regular position in the forward wall this fall. Dills is a regular member of Henry's first string back combinations. Gladden is the outstanding end prospect in the Missouri camp.

The loss of Huff will strike the Missouri reserve material where it is weakest. The chief worry Missouri coaches have been facing is the development of a tackle to match Bill Smith, left tackle and all Valley selection, loss of Dills and Gladden will not be felt so deeply as Missouri is well equipped with ends and backs.

ELKINS TO MAKE HIS DEBUT AS PRO SATURDAY

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Fait Elkins, former national decathlon champion, yesterday signed a contract to play professional football with the Frankford Yellow Jackets of the National League. He worked out with the Yellow Jackets yesterday and will play his first game tomorrow against the New York Yankees.

Elkins, who is a full-blooded Iroquois Indian, returned early this week from Europe, where he had been on a barnstorming tour with members of the United States Olympic team. A pulled tendon prevented Elkins from participating in the Olympics.

The great Indian athlete was reported to be in excellent condition. He weighs 190 pounds and is expected to play quarterback.

In his college days Elkins was a star allround athlete at Haskell University. He won the national decathlon championship in 1927 when he scored 7574.42 points. He is 28, married and has one child, a daughter born a month ago. His wife and child are at the home of Mrs. Elkins' parents in Durant, Ok.

Hoffmeister Nine To Play Purcell Again Tomorrow

Fourteen players, besides the manager and Reuben W. Tapperson, Public Parks Recreation Superintendent, will make the trip.

The first game will be played on the home grounds of the Purcell club tomorrow afternoon and the second game at the Cincinnati Red Sox park beginning at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

FORMER GRID PLAYER SENTENCED TO PRISON

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 12.—Johnny Hawkins, former captain and quarterback of the University of Southern California football team, yesterday was sentenced to serve five to 75 years in San Quentin prison after pleading guilty to five counts of second degree burglary.

Hawkins made a plea for leniency, declaring that an injury to his head, suffered in a football game four years ago, had caused him to suffer daily headaches and was responsible for his burglaries. After questioning Hawkins concerning circumstances of his first burglary the Court denied the probation plea and imposed the sentence.

When Hawkins was arrested he led detectives to various caches of his loot, taken from more than a score of homes.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Life's Little Laughs.

PICKING the "most valuable" player to his team in the American League is likely to cause some sore lips to hurt this fall.

The season and world series results considered, the normal thought of most fans is that Babe Ruth or Lou Gehrig will be the lucky recipient of the one thousand bucks and the embossed certificate.

Whoever is named, will not be either of this heavy artillery combination. That's because the American League regulations governing the award prohibit one player from being named "most valuable" more than once. Babe and Gehrig have been chosen in years past, and so pass out of the picture.

The tendency to name a member of the pennant-winning or, where possible, world champion team, makes it probable that a Yankee player will be selected—possibly Waite Hoyt. But the incongruity of naming any man of the same team over either Ruth or Gehrig can not fail to strike the fans as ludicrous.

It is possible that a move to reconsider this rule will be made next year. It should be done. A player good enough to win the award several years in succession should not be deprived of such signal honor.

New Managers for Old.

AT this writing the only certain shift of managers to be made during the Hot Stove campaign will be at Washington, where Bucky Harris is already out.

There is also a strong probability that George Moriarty will be replaced at Detroit, where his club has vegetated for two years.

Wilbert Robinson at Brooklyn is hanging on by virtue of another year's life to his contract; but he is not welcome to his official household. Whether the Cardinals will have their usual annual fall housecleaning in the manager's department is mere conjecture.

There is a remote chance that a change will be made at Cleveland.

Elsewhere there is satisfaction, or iron-clad contracts protecting the harried leaders against displacement.

McGraw Must Sign New Contract.

JOHN McGRAW? Oh, yea! That Bo reached the end of his contract this year and will have to decide whether he will continue or not.

As the decision rests with McGraw and as baseball is his breath of life, Napoleon will doubtless again be calling each pitch from the bench.

The spirit of McGraw is embodied in a paragraph from a New York newspaper which is worth repeating:

"True missionary zeal burns in the ample bosom of John Joseph McGraw. The Giants' boss never passes up a chance to spread baseball gospel. The other day at the stadium, in speaking of his literary labors in connection with the world's series, McGraw told this department of an offer he had received from a newspaper in Saskatchewan which wanted him to cover the series. The honorarium suggested was $5.

" 'Did you reply to it?' he was asked.

" 'Sure I replied to it,' said McGraw. " 'I accepted the offer. I felt that if that paper away up there thought enough of the series and of my ability to report it to make any kind of offer I should accept it.' "

As long as his health will permit him, McGraw will continue to be an inspiration, somewhat hard-boiled, to the youth of the game. From the strategy standpoint he is the greatest of all the survivors of the early days of baseball and can still instruct the modern professors in the art of producing a winner. McGraw has not always influenced baseball affairs in the right direction, from an ethical view point, but his playing and directing genius none can challenge.

Oh, About the Rabbit!

WHAT about Huggins, with his great record for winning pennants? Hug's success has been of annother sort. Huggins knows his baseball as well as McGraw; but surrounded as he has almost invariably been by baseball players of all-America stature, and reinforced by the bottomless pocketbook of his employers, it would be strange if he did not succeed.

Credit must be given the "Rabbit," however, for overcoming the contemptuous attitude at times assumed toward him by the Goliaths he managed. The little fellow, snorting like a little tug convoying a liner, has arrived safe at port with his cargo of mammoths, year after year.

Not only that, but he won permanency as a manger, even though a half owner of the Yankee club demanded his head, season after season.

He will never make the impress on baseball history that was made by McGraw, and will rather shine by the reflected light of Babe Ruth, Gehrig, his Murders' Row and his great pitchers.

That's his hard luck.

McGinley Wins Decision.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 12.—Johnny McGinley, this city, last night won a decision over Pancho Dencio of the Philippine Islands in 10 rounds. McGinley weighed 123¼, Dencio 120.

RUTH HIT ONLY .233 AGAINST BROWN HURLERS

By Herman Wecke

That the Browns' pitchers [illegible] far more success against the [illegible] sluggers of the Yankees—[illegible] Ruth and Lou Gehrig—than [illegible] those of the Cardinals in the [illegible] series, is shown by the records [illegible] the 1928 campaign. In four [illegible] series battles, Ruth hit .625 [illegible] Gehrig .545 against the best [illegible] McKechnie had to offer.

Facing the Brownie hurlers [illegible] ing the campaign, the wrecking crew had a far greater [illegible] But "Murderers' Row" was not [illegible] successful. Opposing Dan Howley's hurlers in 22 contests, Ruth [illegible] held to a batting percentage [illegible] only .233, whereas Columbia [illegible] had a mark of .390.

Ruth went against the Brown[illegible] pitchers 86 times and rapped [illegible] 20 hits. Gehrig in 82 attempts made a total of 32 safeties.

The Big Babe, facing [illegible] Brownie hurlers in 22 contests, made six home runs. And he connected for three in a single battle with the Cardinals. Gehrig, in 22 battles with the men of Howley, had but three four-baggers and in the world series against the pitchers who had won a pennant for the Cardinals, he pounded out four.

Facing the Browns in 22 games, Ruth scored 16 runs and drove in 14. Opposed to the Cardinals in four games, he counted nine times and pounded in five other markers. Gehrig, in the American League campaign, facing Howley's [illegible], scored 18 times and drove in [illegible] And then in the world series he scored five and batted in nine.

These figures indicate one of two things: Either the Browns pitchers were better than those of the Cardinals, or the Cardinal hurlers were terrible in the world series.

As to that, take your choice.

McKEESPORT, Pa., Oct. 12—Ike McFowler, Johnstown (Pa.) Negro heavyweight, won the decision over Joe Packo, Toledo, O., in a fast 10-round bout here [illegible] night.

ROCKNE FAVORS KANSAS JAYHAWKERS OVER BEARS HERE TOMORROW

LAWRENCE, KAN., TEAM IS TOO STRONG FOR WASHINGTON U., NOTRE DAME COACH BELIEVES

By Knute Rockne.

Football Coach, Notre Dame University.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 12.—This Saturday finds the big fall drive on in earnest.

There are some schools which are still playing contests so classified as practice games. Coaches who have these kind of games at this stage of the year consider themselves lucky as they will be bringing their team along normally, correcting mistakes as they pop up without having these mistakes lose football games to important rivals for this is what happened last Saturday at Wisconsin when Notre Dame fumbled about nine times.

KNUTE ROCKNE.

Rockne's Picks

Kansas over Washington at St. Louis.
Notre Dame victory over Navy doubtful.
Chicago U. over Iowa U.
Ohio State over Northwestern.
Indiana to beat Michigan.
Minnesota should defeat Purdue.
Illinois an easy winner over Coe College.
Iowa State should defeat Grinnell.
Nebraska over Montana, easily.
Missouri over Centre College.
Marquette-Drake game a toss-up, with edge in favor of Marquette.

On its own three-yard line the punter on fourth down even missed the ball entirely.

Mistakes of this kind would not have been particularly harmful against an organization labeled as a practice team but against a strong, hard fighting team like Wisconsin it was disaster.

The Notre Dame team will keep improving from Saturday to Saturday but whether they will be good enough to defeat Annapolis is a question.

Injuries have played havoc with both organizations. Lloyd, Spring and Clifton are a trio of great backs that the Middies can rely on. However, the Sailor line is said to be not so strong. The football loving public of Chicago should have its appetite satiated this week end with three major games in their midst. Besides the Notre Dame-Navy game, Chicago encounters Iowa at Stagg field. It looks like a very even game with the odds in favor of Chicago, particularly on the strength of their fine improvement last Saturday. However, any coach that has a back like McLain has a football team.

Ohio Favored Over Purple.

Northwestern plays Ohio State at Evanston. Ohio State appears to have an edge, being a little bit better balanced in all around strength.

Indiana, after years of second division play seems to have struck its stride this year. Michigan, which was beaten by Ohio Wesleyan last Saturday, will show a distinct improvement, but I believe Indiana has an edge in everything except psychology.

I don't see how anything but an inferiority complex can prevent the Hoosiers from taking Michigan at Ann Arbor. Pat Page has a real rugged line, a great end in McCracken and some fine backs in Faunce, Bennett and Ross if it weren't for the fact that Indiana appears to have an almost impossible schedule I would say that they had a chance for the Conference championship. However, their schedule is entirely too difficult. Last Saturday showed that Jimmy Phelan has a real good team at Purdue and that Welch is better than ever.

However, Doc Spears seems to have another steam roller lying in wait up at Minneapolis.

Gophers Have Power.

The Gophers appear to have too much power for the Boilermakers from Lafayette. Phelan probably has one of the best teams of his career, but lacks reserve strength. Minnesota should win. Zuppke will find Coe just the kind of a team to help bring his team along and Wisconsin should not have a great deal of trouble with Cornell.

Wisconsin seems to have a fine bunch of material, but any team that can only make three first downs against Notre Dame this season will have to do a lot of improving before they can be a real factor in the Big Ten race. Purdue, Michigan, Chicago and Minnesota are not in the habit of letting the ball roll around the field. In the Missouri Valley Iowa State should beat Grinnell and Kansas appears to be too strong for Washington University. Nebraska and Missouri have a couple of easy practice games before they swing into their real scramble again.

Iowa State appears to be too strong for Grinnell but Grinnell has a lot of tradition and may fight the Iowa farmers nip and tuck.

GEORGIA WILL USE VETERANS AGAINST YALE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Remembering the sad fate of the St. Louis Cardinals, Georgia's football warriors well may be permitted a snicker or two over reports of the crippled condition of Mal Stevens' Yale eleven.

Before the late world's series the New York Yankees were supposed to be at death's door. The Cardinals will tell you they were rather lively corpses on the ball field.

It may be suspected that Harry Mehre, Georgia coach, is laying his plans for the Yale battle at New Haven tomorrow on the assumption that his eleven good men and true are going to play a similar number of able-bodied Elis. Yale's great reserve strength is too well known to permit Mehre to believe his team is in for anything but a tough afternoon.

Georgia to Use Veterans.

Although Nash and Shriver, Georgia's great ends of last year, will be missing, Mehre is sending a veteran aggregation against the bulldogs of the North. Nash and Shriver played a big part in Georgia's 14-10 victory over the Elis last season, but Mehre believes he has found the men to fill their places.

Mal Stevens has been unable to send his first-string team througn a single scrimmage this week. All but three of his first choices have been on either the sick or the injured list. There is gloom enough at New Haven, but Yale teams have overcome handicaps before.

Although they battle no foe as rugged as Georgia, Princeton and Harvard may be put to considerable difficulty to beat Virginia and North Carolina, respectively. Bill Roper certainly is not entertaining any illusions of an easy battle. He has made four changes in the Tiger varsity that downed Vermont in such overwhelming fashion last week. Virginia bowed to a strong South Carolina eleven last Saturday, but has had a week to correct the mistakes of that encounter. North Carolina turned back Maryland, 26-19.

Beaten last year, 6-0, Colgate is anxious to turn the tables on Virginia Poly, but the outlook is none too bright. The Maroon bowed to Vanderbilt at Nashville last week, while V. P. I. was crushing Hampden-Sidney. The latter team meets Cornell tomorrow in the only intersectional game Gil Dobie's team will play this year.

Brown Faces Dayton.

Duke gets the jump on its Southern companions in the present invasion of the North, meeting Boston College today. The Durham (N. C.) College turned loose a bewildering flood of forward passes to bury Boston College under a 25-9 count last year, and showed another impressive aerial offensive in trouncing South Dakota last week.

Brown tackles Dayton at Providence tomorrow and Navy meets Notre Dame at Chicago in the only other intersectional games in which the East can claim an interest.

Although these games will hold a major share of football interest, there are others of equal or greater importance. Pittsburg, with another fine team, meets West Virginia with hopes of repeating its victory of last year, although there appears to be small chance that the Panthers can turn in a 40-0 score again.

Bucknell, which beat Penn State, 13-7, in 1927, hopes to turn the trick again. After revenge for a 32-0 beating last year, Fordham takes on New York University.

Dundee to Box Langford.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, will meet Wolcott Langford, Negro middleweight of Chicago, in a 10-round bout in Philadelphia Oct. 22.

SPORT SALAD
by L. C. Davis

The Cemetery Blues.

(Old Songs Made New.)

IN Brooklyn City there once did dwell
A high school boy I knew so well;
An undertaker in the fall,
In summer time he played baseball.

He saw some birds with feathers red,
And wondered if those birds were dead;
And so he thought in case of doubt
He'd knock 'em cold and lay 'em out.

He laid them out upon their biers
While saddened friends wept bitter tears;
He placed a lily in each mitt
To tell the world they could not hit.

Oh, mother, dear, you do not know
The sorrow, pain and grief and woe—
He took the Red Birds for a ride
And told the world how game they died.

The Confidence Game.

Miller Huggins says over-confidence beat the Cards. We'll say it did. The Yanks sold 'em the Bellevue Hospital when they didn't own even a cot in it.

"Babe Ruth and Gehrig to Go Barnstorming."

More work for the lightning rod agents.

When bigger and better barns are stormed Babe and Lou will storm them.

Sam Breadon doesn't care how many barns they storm but the next time Babe and Lou blow into this town he is going to take out some cyclone insurance on his birdhouse.

Alex says, "We'll have to look forward to another chance to beat the Yankees." There goes another world series record for assimilating punishment and asking for more.

At that the Cards are lucky. The Yanks couldn't beat them out of their National League championship.

And after all it's the championship of your league that counts. These post season series don't mean anything but a few thousand dollars in the pockets of the players.

At the close of the series we didn't hear any fans wishing Umpire Cy Pfirman many quick and happy returns of the day.

Slow Motion.

That's the trouble about the pitching job. If you send the ball over without first winding up and setting the alarm to notify the batter that it's time to wake up and take a swing at the ball the umpire calls time. If you stand in there and carry on a conversation with the catcher by a system of Boy Scout signals the batter walks out of the box, picks up a handful of dirt, takes a stroll around the park and doesn't return until they send out a posse to bring him back dead or alive.

The batter waits the pitcher out, the pitcher waits the batter out and the customers wait them both out. And still we marvel at the increase in crime.

Ever so often a committee composed of officials, umpires and players meets to discuss the rules and decide that they are all okay. We hold that the cash customer is entitled to representation on that committee, in the interest of efficiency and economy of time.

JONES ARRIVES FOR MATCH WITH SHERRY

Paul Jones, Nebraska heavyweight grappler, is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis today to finish training at the National Gymnasium for his bout with Jack Sherry, Oklahoma Indian, billed as one of the preliminary events on the card featuring Dick Daviscourt and Leon Labriola at the New Coliseum next Monday night.

Packs was advised today that Joe "Toots" Mondt, the Colorado cowboy grappler, will visit St. Louis Monday, to formally challenge the winners of the New Coliseum bouts.

Several Yankee Players Slated to Be Released Before Training Season

By a Secial Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Neither the world series club that almost finished third in a field of two nor the one that equalled par for the course with four straight victories will be quite the same when next it appears in public in the spring. No one yet knows who will get the contract for alterations in the St. Louis Cardinals but it is understood that sealed bids are being received. It is inevitable that changes will be effected, if only on the theory that a chance might be for the better since the likelihood of it being for the worse is at something of a minimum.

The Cards as a ball club were good enough to win the National League championship but were so bad in the series as to indicate that they might have won from New Canaan after a game, uphill rally. That kind of an outfit, regardless of what it might have been a few weeks ago, simply doesn't figure to repeat now and everybody on the ball club knows it. Almost any head can be guillotined without astounding the populace.

In on Guest Privileges.

It may be somewhat surprising that a club which won so readily as the Yankees can contemplate shifts, renovations, additions and subtractions, however. But the Yanks know, too, that they won with two men and not nine. The other seven were in there mostly on guest privileges and, if they stay much longer, they will be in danger of imposing on someone's hospitality.

Local observers today were commenting on the possibility that Mark Koenig might play third base next year. But they didn't say where. I don't know that he is one of those who may be going on a long journey soon but one might say that he is under constant surveillance. Joe Dugan is another of that kind, and so are Collins and Grabowski, the catchers, who never missed a splinter on the bench all season.

One of the new Yanks-in-prospect is alleged to be Bib Falk of Chicago. Annually the Yanks trade Meusel in for this young man and annually they go right on playing ball for their original affiliations But this time the thing is said to be on like a vulgarian's hat in the presence of a lady. The Sox are of a mind to house-clean after a disquieting season and the Yanks are believed to be reconciled to Meusel's departure.

Yanks to Get Ruffing?

Another probable Yankee for 1929 is understood to be Charley Ruffing, the Boston pitcher. They wanted Ed Morris, but so does everybody else, including the Boston Red Sox. So they are said to have compromised on Ruffing with as many as five of the current Yankees to be involved in the transaction. Several of these are certain to be infielders, as the Yanks will have plenty of that kind with Lary and Reese coming up in the spring.

Bob Shawkey to Make Japanese Tour With Cobb

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.

BOB SHAWKEY, former Yankee pitcher, now with Montreal in the International League, is here on his way to the Pacific Coast to join Ty Cobb and other players in a tour of Japan. It was understood that several major league players wished to join Cobb on the invasion of the Orient, but ran into the rule forbidding major leaguers playing after October.

Five or six players will be in the party, not enough for a full team, and they will be distributed among contesting teams in Japan.

WORLD SERIES CHECKS MAILED TO YANK STARS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Financial echoes of the world series reverberated from the office of the baseball commissioner yesterday, as Kenesaw Mountain Landis signed over checks totaling $176,289.37 to the victorious New York Yankees.

The Commissioner disposed of the Yankees' division of the spoils in checks ranging from $500, the amount given Mrs. Urban Shocker, widow of the former Yankee hurler, to $5813.20, the sum received by 26 players, coaches and Manager Miller Huggins.

From the bat boy to the mighty Babe there was something for all. Every player that figured in the Yankees' pennant climb was remembered. Wilcey Moore, the hero of the 1927 series, came in for a full share, although he was released before the close of the season because of a sore arm. Stanley Coveleskie, Albert Shealy and Rosy Ryan, who saw only part time service with the champions, were given half shares.

It was the largest cut ever received by a team winning the world series. While having no comment to make, Commissioner Landis' beaming countenance expressed his satisfaction at the success of the 1928 series.

Three quarter shares amounting to $4359.90 were given to Mark Roth, traveling secretary, and Albert Woods, trainer. Coveleskie, Shealy, Ryan and Matty Mathews came in for half shares of $2906.60. Six clubhouse boys and the bat boy received $4300 in amounts ranging from $750 to $1000.

Members of the world champion Yankees have asked that their official emblems of supremacy be wrist watches and in accordance with custom Baseball Commissioner Landis will present each player of the winning team with a watch. The watches will be purchased from the share of receipts set aside for the Commissioner. In other years rings, watches and charms have been agreed upon.

JANVRIN WINS MARATHON RACE; DE MAR SECOND

By the Associated Press.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Albert Janvrin of New Rochelle, N. Y., running under the New York U. insignia, won the fourth annual marathon race from New York City to this place this afternoon. His time was 2 hours, 57 minutes and 37 seconds.

Clarence Demar of Melrose, Mass., noted Marathoner, was second in 3 hours, one minute, 40 3-5 seconds. Hugo Cenprinn of Brooklyn was third, and Pressey Wyer of the Monarch A. C., Toronto, Canada, was fourth.

The distance from the New York A. C. clubhouse in Fifty-ninth street to Summerfield Park here is 26 miles, 385 yards. The race is sponsored each year by the Port Chester Board of Trade.

NO PUBLIC SALE OF TICKETS FOR ARMY'S GAME WITH NOTRE DAME

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Announcement was made at the Yankee baseball offices that there will be no public sale for the Army-Notre Dame football game at the Yankee Stadium Nov. 10. The Notre-Dame and Army organizations have taken all the tickets. It has not yet been determined if there will be a public sale for the Army-Stanford game Dec. 1.

STAGG WANTS "AMOS" IN RIGHT PLACE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, 66-year-old Gridiron coach at the University of Chicago, is a stickler for accuracy whether in playing football or writing about it. To start the season, he shattered the old war cry that "Stagg fear Purdue," declaring it was just a newspaperman's way of saying he respected Purdue.

Today he came out with a request that the world know that his name is Amos Alonzo Stagg. Frequently it printed "Alonzo Amos" or A. Amos" or "Alonzo A."

That's wrong says Stagg—and he wants wrong made right.

MEADOW BROOK TEAM WINS OPEN POLO CHAMPIONSHIP OF AMERICA

GUEST PROVES STAR IN 8-TO-5 VICTORY OVER ARMY QUARTET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The Meadow Brook team is the new open polo champion, but the same game in which it won the title saw it eliminated from the Monty Waterbury Memorial Cup tournament. This unusual situation is explained by the fact that the open is played on the flat, while the Waterbury competition is a handicap affair. Meadow Brook scored 8 goals to 5 for the army four in yesterday's game on International Field that served both as the final of the open as the first round of the Monty Waterbury. A handicap of five goals gave the Army a 10 to 8 victory in the latter event.

In the other half of the Waterbury Cup event, Tommy Hitchcock's Sands Point team reached the final by defeating Eastcott, 12 to 11, in an overtime encounter. The final will be played at Meadow Brook tomorrow.

Only the long drives of Winston Guest, young international star, and the speed of their ponies saved the Meadow Brook players from a double defeat. The former Yale player was the outstanding member of his team, which included two other internationalists, John B Miles of Argentina and Malcolm Stevenson. Despite the loss of their star No. 1, Capt. C. A. Wilkinson, whose jaw was broken in the preliminary game Tuesday, the Army offered stubborn resistance. Lieut. M. M. Jones was an able substitute for Wilkinson. Capts. C. H. Gerhardt, P. P. Rodes and G. E. Huthsteiner were the other Army players.

Conceding two goals by handicap, Sands Point had to overcome a long lead to win. Five goals in the eighth chukker tied the score and Hitchcock scored the winning tally in one minute, 10 seconds of the extra period. Hitchcock played at back with E. T. Gerry, Averill Harriman and S. B. Iglehart Jr. ahead of him, while the Eastcott lineup was Steven Sanford, E. A. S. Hopping, E. W. Hopping and A. C. Schwartz.

MEADOW BROOK (8).	Pos.	ARMY (5).
C. V. Whitney	No. 1	Lt. M. M. Jones
F. W. Guest	No. 2	Capt. C. H. Gerhardt

Senatorial Nominee Rebukes Attorney-General for Not Inviting Investigation of Frank's Charges

EXPLAINS POSITION ON IMMIGRATION

Favors Present Policy With Amendments 'to Relieve Injustice Done to Families of Immigrants.'

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MONROE CITY, Mo., Oct. 12.—Commenting on the remarks of Attorney-General Shartel, made in St. Louis Wednesday night, Charles M. Hay, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, in his speech here last night said:

"When I read the report of the outburst of Brother Shartel I wondered whether during my absence from the city the opposition had shifted opponents on me again. I remember that Shartel was reported as very much excited over the filing of a suit questioning my opponent's nomination.

"This young man who makes bold to talk about hypocrisy was, as quoted in the press, not frank enough with the people to invite an investigation of the charges made by one of the candidates (Nathan Frank) for the Republican senatorial nomination.

"I can conceive of no more sinister hypocrisy than that which permits one man to represent a party when in truth and justice some other man is entitled to do so but that form of hypocrisy did not seem to disturb the noble spirit of the present Attorney-General of the State of Missouri.

"It seems now that he is getting a little uneasy over the progress the gentleman who was declared nominated against me is making and has possibly decided to run for the Senate himself. I hope that if these gentlemen do not get the question settled by Nov. 6 they will pursue the matter after I am elected so that it may be determined beyond all peradventure whether a piece of election hypocrisy was perpetrated on the voters in the Republican primary or not. It seems that two very honorable, noted Republicans have so charged and their charges are considerably more dignified than the frantic effusion of a gentleman whose official conscience was moved to resent their charges.

"In this kind of free speech I know of no process by which the mouth of anyone who sees fit to resort to abuse and misrepresentation can be officially corked up but the same freedom which permits a man to purvey falsehood, fortunately permits people to tell the truth. When he charges that I want to flood the country with foreign labor against the interests of American labor he, of course, tells what is not true and tells it without any warrant or excuse therefor.

"I have repeatedly stated that I stand squarely on the Democratic platform on the immigration question and that I favor maintaining the present policy only with such amendments as will relieve the injustice done to families of immigrants.

"So far as the other question mentioned by him is concerned, reference to my original announcement will disclose that I stated then that I considered the question of American membership in the League of Nations as settled by the American people and as a loyal American citizen I accepted the verdict.

"The wild and reckless diatribe of this young man convinces me that the opposition is wincing under the exposure of the record of the party during the past seven and one-half years."

CHARGE OF ATTACK DISMISSED WHEN GIRL FAILS TO APPEAR

Nat Lerner Freed; Policeman Had Told of Provisional Judge's Request in His Behalf.

Nat Lerner, newspaper distributer, of 1318 Marcus avenue, charged with an offense against a 19-year-old girl, was discharged on his bond at a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Werremeyer in Clayton yesterday when the girl failed for the second time to appear to prosecute.

Lerner was arrested the night of Aug. 18 while with the girl in a parked automobile on a county road. Deputy constables said they had been attracted there by the girl's screams.

Ben Philipson, then acting as Provisional Judge in Police Court No. 1, was Lerner's attorney. A police officer at whose home the girl lived made a formal report to the Board of Police Commis in which he said Philipson had called him to the bench when appeared in Police Court and asked him to "call that girl off," telling him Lerner had some friends who could "do him some ood."

Philipson was not in court when charges against Lerner were dismissed.

STUDENT RESCUES TWO MEN OVERCOME BY GAS IN MANHOLE

Loses Consciousness Himself After Second Descent but is Pulled Out by Rope.

VILLANOVA, Pa., Oct. 12.—Ignoring the cries of onlookers that warned him of the poisonous gas which issued from the mouth of a manhole, Eddie Foy, of St. Augustine, Fla., 22-year-old pre-medical student at Villanova College, yesterday went into the hole and rescued two workmen who had been overcome. Foy himself was overcome.

The plight of the workmen, George Hutton and William Harmer, was discovered by motorists, who tried vainly to pull them out. When Foy arrived he climbed down the gas-filled pit and lifted Hutton's unconscious form to the roadway, then climbed out himself, gasping for air.

A rope was knotted about his waist before he made the second trip. Harmer weighs about 200 pounds and Foy had difficulty lifting him high enough for those above to pull him out. When Harmer finally was rescued Foy fell unconscious on the bottom of the pit. He was hauled out by means of the rope and revived by physicians.

School Teacher Quickly Gains 18 Pounds and New Energy

New YEAST and IRON builds weight quickly. Your own druggist guarantees results—or pay nothing

"I want to say a good word for IRONIZED YEAST so that the somewhat skeptical person may feel more safe and sure of results derived from its use.

I am a public school instructor and from my research and study I was convinced that IRONIZED YEAST was exactly the compound I needed to put me in shape for Spring sports and classroom routine. At the start I weighed 152 lbs., which is below my normal weight. I took only two bottles over a period of two months. I gained 10 lbs. with the first bottle and after finishing the second my weight was 170 lbs., a total gain of 18 lbs., which put me back to normal weight. More than the mere increase in weight IRONIZED YEAST brought more energy, greater endurance and an improved complexion."

GREATEST REAL ESTATE BOOM IN HISTORY OF CITY RIGHT ON US

Fortunes Will Be Made in Close-In Unrestricted Lots—Located Due West—During the Next 2 to 4 Years

—SEND OR PHONE FOR LIST—

Cash up on the greatest boom the city has ever known.

The next four years' boom will far eclipse the great Real Estate activity here of 1921 to 1925—when fortunes were made—SIMPLY BECAUSE a great new population is now here, and is being brought here by new factories and new businesses, which every month are coming into the city in ever-increasing numbers.

Anyone who can make monthly payments can own a close-in unrestricted lot located due west—against the solid building wall of the city—that will increase rapidly in value.

Phone CHestnut 6340, or come in for our list.

COST REDUCED
ALMOST ONE-THIRD
Loans $10 to $300

The Household Finance Corporation, by reason of large volume of business, efficient management and favorable credit facilities, attained after fifty years of operation, is now making a very substantial reduction in the cost of loans up to $300.

You can borrow from us for about one-third less than we formerly charged and about one-third less than the maximum lawful rate. For example, total cost on $50 for one month is $1.25; for five months, paid in five equal monthly payments, is $3.75. All other amounts up to $300 at same proportionate rate.

LET US EXPLAIN OUR NEW REDUCED RATE AND TELL YOU HOW MUCH YOU WILL SAVE BY BORROWING FROM US.

You get the money without delay, return it in small monthly payments, arranged to suit your convenience. Each payment of principal reduces the interest. No Endorsers. No one need know. Our service is personal and confidential; we do not notify your employer, neither do we make inquiries of your friends, relatives or tradespeople.

HOGS UP EARLY BUT ADVANCE NOT HELD

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Oct. 12.—Receipts today, estimated: Cattle and calves, 1800; hogs, 9500; sheep, 1000; horses and mules, 50.

CATTLE—An estimate of 1800 cattle and calves combined afforded little opportunity for an accurate test of market values, buyers indifferent to most offerings at that. Trade ruled slow on steers, few of which were holdovers and very few with enough fat to attract killers. Butcher stuff including cows and yearlings was generally about steady at Thursday's price level, some reporting easier bids on canner cows. Most beef grades cleared around $7.50 to $9, canners and cutters $5.50 to $7. Bulls were at a standstill, practically no demand for this class. Bolognas quotable in a range of $7.50 to $8.25 and $8.50. Veal calves sold firm at $16.50 for tops, other kinds downward in proportion. Most canner yearlings sold at $6.50.

Quotations—Beef steers, range, $9 to $17.50; light steer and heifer yearlings, range, $8.50 to $16.50; beef cows, range, $7 to $11.50; canner and cutter cows, range, $5.50 to $7. Bologna bulls, range, $7.50 to $8.50.

HOGS—Receipts were again light today and prices continued on the upgrade. The early market was fairly active, with sales largely 10c to 15c higher. Quality fair to good.

Top was $10.40, paid sparingly. Bulk of 190s up made $10.25 to $10.30, with quite a few choice kinds at $10.35. Lights 160 to 180 pounds made $9.75 to $10.15, with light lights and pigs following at $8.50 to $9.75. Packing sows cleared mainly from $8.85 to $9.

The hog market closing was with the advance lost; 190 lbs. and up late $10.10 to $10.20; clearance good; bulk of day's sales $11.10 to $10.30.

SHEEP—Receipts again dropped off in the sheep and lamb division, with 1000 estimated and 900 through and direct. The market was virtually on a nominal basis, not enough on sale to fully test values.

Quotations: Slaughter stock—Good to choice lambs, $12.50 to $13; fair to good, $11.50 to $12.50; plain to fair, $10.50 to $11.50; cull and common, $9 to $10.50; skips, $7 to $8. Good to choice yearling wethers, $10.50 to $11.25; medium to good, $10 to $10.50; plain to medium, $9 to $10; cull and common, $7 to $9. Good to choice mutton ewes, $6 to $6.50; fair to good, $4 to $6; choppers and canners, $2 to $3.50.

HORSES AND MULES—Horse and mule receipts today were confined to a small allotment that was insufficient to furnish an accurate test of market values, just a few head changing hands at prices that indicated no change from previous selling this week. Clearance for the week good.

NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

Good to choice draft, $140@200; medium to good draft, $85@140; good to choice chunks, $75@100; medium to good chunks, $50@60; choice Southern horses, $40@55; fair to good Southern horses, $25@35; smooth-mouthed Southerners, $15@25; plugs, $5@15.

NATIVE MULE QUOTATIONS.

Draft mules, 16 to 17 hands, $175@225; mine mules, 15 to 16.2 hands, $125@160; sugar mules, mares, fat, good hair, 16 to 16.2 hands, $150@175; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 15 to 15.2 hands, $115@150; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 14.2 to 15 hands, $90@115; cotton mules, mares, rough-haired, 15 to 15.2 hands, $65@90; cotton mules, mares, rough-haired, 14.2 to 15 hands, $45@65. Farm mules, broke, good bone, 15.3 to 16.2 hands, $90@125; medium farm mules, $80@90; farm mules, thin, half broke, 15.2 to 16 hands, $50@75; small, common mules, $15@40.

ALLEGED 'TECHNICAL' CORNER IN DODGE STOCK INVESTIGATED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Investigation into an alleged technical "corner" in Dodge Brothers common A stock was ordered by the New York Stock Exchange, following upon a sharp advance in the stock. Brokers throughout the country were ordered to report the long and short positions in the stock as at the close of business Oct. 10.

Dodge common, selling above $40, may be exchanged for Chrysler common in the ratio of five shares for one under the terms of the Chrysler merger offer. On that basis five shares of Dodge would have a market value of above $200, compared with $133.50 for Chrysler.

This discrepancy apparently encouraged selling of Dodge in anticipation of "covering" through the purchase of Chrysler, netting a handsome profit. It is understood, however, that shorts will not be permitted to deliver Chrysler against their Dodge short contracts.

As the Dodge stock gradually is being transferred into Chrysler, the floating supply of the former becomes scarcer. At last report 145,255 shares of Dodge A remained unexchanged, about 7¼ per cent of the original issue.

The complete report on the stock's position is to be in the exchange office Monday noon.

AVERAGE PRICE OF APPLES IN WEST VA. HALF YEAR AGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—With 100,000,000 bushels of apples about to be marketed for use as fresh fruit, enthusiasts are urging everybody to use two apples a day. Keeping the doctor away by eating only one apple per 24 hours is proving inadequate to sustain the farm price of apples.

Reports today from the Government bureaus of agricultural economics say that in West Virginia, for example, the average price to farmers is 80c a bushel, compared with $1.60 last year. Record-breaking crops of peaches, pears and grapes is the chief reason given why apples are now such a bargain.

REDISCOUNTS AT RESERVE BANK DOWN $12,164,000

Total bills discounted at the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis decreased $12,164,000 for the week ending Oct. 10. Total bills discounted were $45,240,000, as compared with $57,404,000 last week. Bills discounted secured by U. S. Government obligations $21,777,000, decrease $4,040,000; other bills discounted $23,463,000, decrease $8,124,000; total gold reserves $72,023,000, increase $2,054,000; total reserves $87,223,000, increase $1,907,000; total resources $197,618,000, increase $2000. Ration of total reserves to deposit and Federal Reserve note liabilities combined 60.8 per cent, increase 1.6 per cent.

Dun's Weekly Review.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Dun's review this week will say:

"Commercial results thus far in the new season have fulfilled expectations in numerous instances, and in some cases have been even better than was anticipated. A more buoyant situation is being manifested in various ways, and certain unsatisfactory aspects that still exist have a diminished prominence, now that favorable phases are multiplying. There has been, indeed, some lessening of adverse conditions, including an adjustment of a protracted strike in New Bedford cotton mills, and the general structure of business reflects a further strengthening. Such a development normally should appear during the autumn, but constructive tendencies have been rather more evident than usual in recent weeks, early cool weather over a wide area having provided a decided impetus to activities. Although restricted in some localities by special influences, the public purchasing power, as a whole, remains notably extensive, while attractive prices on many goods are increasing consumers' interest. That distribution of general merchandise is enlarging is evidenced by a railroad freight traffic exceeding that of the two immediately preceeding years, and the marketing of crops naturally is giving a stimulus to trade in agricultural sections. Supplementing the encouraging features enumerated, the great iron and steel industry continues to disclose the exceptional progress.

"Weekly bank clearings, $9,227,676,000, an increase of 14.2 per cent over a year ago."

To Vote on Recapitalization.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Texon Oil & Land Co. of El Paso, Tex., directors have called a stockholders' meeting for Nov. 21 to vote on reducing capital stock to 2,000,000 no par value shares from 10,000,000 shares of $1 par value.

Vote Against Increase of Stock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Stockholders of the National Surety Co. decided against a proposed increase in capital stock from $15,000,000 to $16,000,000. No explanation of the action was made public. It was stated, however, that the stockholders and the management were in agreement on the matter.

LEADING EXCHANGES OF COUNTRY ARE CLOSED TODAY, COLUMBUS DAY

THE New York Stock Exchange, Cotton Exchange and other exchanges there were closed today, Columbus day. The Chicago Board of Trade also was closed. In St. Louis the Stock Exchange and Merchants' Exchange did not hold sessions. There was no official butter, egg and poultry market.

All will resume business as usual Saturday.

WIDER INTEREST SHOWN IN BOSTON WOOL MARKET

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "While the volume of business done here this week has been by no means large, there has been a wider interest shown and the demand has been fairly well diversified. Manufacturers are unquestionably getting more business but in view of lower prices recently made in foreign markets are trying to bid this market even lower. Fine wools, however, appear to be fairly well stabilized in all world markets, while medium wools, because of their scarcity, are in a relatively strong position.

"General competition in Melbourne this week is reported in the several cables and shows that Yorkshire is in the market again, with prices both Melbourne and Sydney firmly maintained.

"The market for piece goods and for clothing is improved according to direct and indirect reports, as well.

"Mohair is quiet here but firm with adult hair bringing 63 to 64 cents in the Texas sales and kid hair 73 to 74 cents. Small lots of fall wool are reported sold at 32 to 32½ cents, although growers are wanting more money.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1928, to Oct. 11, 1928, inclusive, 274,336,043 pounds, against 304,156,126 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1928, to Oct. 11, 1928, inclusive, were, 127,415,000, against 158,386,000 for the same period last year."

POLICE NOT IN COURT, NINE DRIVERS FREED

Half of Speeding Appeals to Gayer Dismissed Without Trial.

Nine automobile drivers who had appealed from Police Court fines and workhouse sentences for speeding—just half the total number of speeding cases disposed of on appeal in Judge Gayer's Court of Criminal Correction yesterday—escaped trial when the arresting motor cycle patrolman failed to appear to press the charges.

"If we are to reduce the auto fatalities—a situation that has become a disgrace," he said, "we must punish those who are guilty of breaking the speed law. Let the young man who goes to Police Court get the idea from the way it functions that he need not take it seriously and the whole system is weakened."

Officers who allowed their cases to be dismissed for want of prosecution because of their failure to appear were: Motor Cycle Patrolmen McNail, Compton, Reinhart, Pfeifer, McPherson, McNamara and Messner. Each had one speeding case except Reinhart and McNamara, who had two apiece.

Names of Drivers Freed.

Drivers whose cases were dismissed were: George Kramer Jr., 1808 Coleman street, who had been sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse; Edward Brady, 4216 St. Louis avenue, who also faced a 10-day sentence; Eugene Springer, 1123 Market street, who had been fined $25; Sam Lorberbaum, 1515 South Broadway, $25; Oliver Hutson, 1649 South Vandeventer avenue, $25; Elmer Schulte, 4349A Bates street, $25; C. Perry Kettler, 5915 Garesche avenue, $30; Floyd Crewes, 4223 Athlone avenue, $25, and Harry J. Kunkler, 5163 Dresden avenue, $25.

In the remaining nine cases disposed of, four defendants pleaded guilty and paid costs of court, three were tried and found guilty, and three were discharged after trial.

Leniency to Sixth Offender.

Judge Gayer reduced a 30-day workhouse sentence and $100 fine to a $25 fine, to be paid in installments, in the case of Julius Heidbreder, 20-year-old grocery clerk of 5500 South Kingshighway, who drove a truck at 35 miles an hour on Kingshighway, according to Motorcycle Patrolman Palmer. The officer introduced police records showing that Heidbreder had been arrested five times previously on traffic charges, four of them speeding or careless driving charges and one for having cut-out open.

In the first speeding case, three years ago, Heidbreder was turned over to his mother. Charges of careless driving and felonious wounding growing out of an accident March 6, 1927, were continued generally. He was fined $20 and costs for speeding a month later and no disposition was recorded for another speeding and cut-out arrest the following July. He paid costs on a cut-out charge in November, 1927.

"We recommend the courageous and strenuous opposition of any candidate for the presidency of the United States who as leader of a party advocates nullification of the eighteenth amendment and Volstead act, and we urge that we use what influence we have to demand more conscientious enforcement of the laws on the part of officials now in office and condemn the violation of those laws by great hosts of American citizens."

SAYS SMITH BOLTED PARTY

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 12.—Gov. Smith was charged with duplicity in his campaign by Dr. Arthur J. Barton, chairman of the national executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America, in an address here last night.

"In the South, newspapers tell you election of Smith cannot alter the eighteenth amendment," said Dr. Barton, "while in the North they tell you it can." Dr. Barton added that Smith had "bolted" the Democratic party when he wired his acceptance of the presidential nomination. For this reason, Dr. Barton asserted, no Democrat is obligated to support him.

OPPOSES AL LILL FOR COUNTY SHERIFF

Contractor Writes Central Committee G. O. P. Nominee Once Bolted Party.

Louis Werner, a contractor, 418 Polo drive, Clayton, has written to the Republican Central Committee of St. Louis County, attacking the candidacy of Al Lill for Sheriff, asserting that his selection did not reflect the sentiment of the party. Lill, an employe of the County Treasurer's office and former Deputy Sheriff, was made the nominee by the committee upon the resignation of Arthur W. Schmid, who had been nominated in the primary. Werner, who describes himself as a life-long Republican, is friendly with reform forces in the county.

Werner declared that Lill, after failing to get the Republican nomination for Sheriff four years ago, went on an independent ticket, but when it was barred from the election ballots supported the Democratic nominee, Wilfred Jones.

At this time, "when a cleanup is so urgently desired," Werner continued, he did not think the people favored "a man who for so long a period was connected with the Sheriff's office, when so much lawlessness prevailed." The people may resent the committee's action by voting for S. C. Petersen, the Democratic nominee for Sheriff, Werner warned.

It was suggested by Werner that the committee acted hastily in naming Lill because "one of its members" aspired to Lill's present job in the treasurer's office. "To me," Werner concluded, "it appears like a sacrifice of the best interests of the Republican party for the benefit of job hunters. Can you not see the handwriting on the wall?"

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE O K'S $75,000,000 ROAD BOND ISSUE

Proposition No. 3 on November Ballot Unanimously Approved; Fund Work Aided.

The Real Estate Exchange, at luncheon at the Annex Hotel yesterday, unanimously approved the $75,000,000 State road bond issue, proposition No. 3 on the November ballot. The Exchange is co-operating with the Chamber of Commerce in raising campaign funds for the Citizens' Road Bond Committee, sponsoring the proposal.

W. Scott Hancock, addressing the Exchange, related that $8,500,000 of the bond money has been pledged by the State Highway Commission to widen existing highways into the city and add new ones, "which will open a large trade territory to St. Louis through the relief of traffic congestion." Hancock called attention to the fact that no tax increase will be caused by the bond issue, since the bonds will not be supported by property taxes but by motor license fees and the State gasoline tax, which cannot be increased for 10 years under the proposal.

Opponents of the bonds advocate doubling the gasoline tax to provide more road money, he continued, "so that it becomes necessary to vote for the bonds to protect motorists against an increase."

JAMES M. BRENNAN FREED OF LIABILITY IN $7500 NOTES

Grocer Had Been Sued in Connection With Texas Land Deal.

A decision by Circuit Judge Mix yesterday exonerated James M. Brennan, 5620 Chamberlain avenue, a grocer, from liability on notes totaling $7500 which he executed four years ago in a deal by which he was to acquire title to land consisting of 1700 lots at Fort Stockton, Tex. Brennan made the deal with F. J. Quinby, who later indorsed the notes to H. W. Huttig of Muscatine, Ia., and suit against Brennan was filed with Huttig as plaintiff. It was alleged that the notes were past due.

Brennan contended that there was no consideration, as Quinby failed to abide by an agreement to identify the lots by attaching to the contract plats and maps of them. A further defense was that Quinby was acting for Huttig, to whom he was indebted, and that neither one of them furnished salesmen, as was stipulated. Brennan had agreed to reimburse Quinby to the extent of $100,000 from the sale of lots, his answer showed.

Although the court found in favor of Brennan the decree overrules his counterclaim asking judgment for $2500 against Huttig. Brennan said he lost this amount because one of the notes he had given in the transaction became the property of an innocent purchaser and he had to pay it.

This year's show, the first since the organization of the Horticultural Society last January, has met with unusual success, both in the number of exhibitors and in visitors, according to E. C. Palmer, chairman of the show committee, who said that a spring flower show also was being planned.

WOMAN CONVICTED OF FATAL CLUBBING

Manslaughter Verdict Carries Prison Sentence of One to 14 Years.

Mrs. Frances Gillespie, 40-year-old widow of Cahokia, Ill., who clubbed to death Dolphine Berard, 68, farmer, by whom she was employed as housekeeper, was convicted yesterday in Circuit Court at Belleville of manslaughter. Conviction carries a sentence of one to 14 years in the penitentiary.

Berard, retired farmer of Cahokia, and Mrs. Gillespie were returning to Cahokia from a fishing trip Aug. 4, when a quarrel arose. She testified he attempted to strike her with part of the limb of a tree and that she wrested it from his hands and clubbed him with it. She left him lying in the road where he was found. He later died from injuries to the head, caused by blows from the club.

Mrs. Gillespie's plea was self-defense. She wept throughout the trial and for the most part was incoherent while giving her testimony. She denied, as was first reported, that she and Berard had been drinking that day.

Pictorial Story of the Giant German Airship Now on Way to America Over the Atlantic

What Some New York Notables Are Wearing

By Belle [illegible]mel.

THE smart world is homeward bound these days. Among others the Lewis Latham Clarkes are back. Mrs. Clarke arrived in a Chanel traveling costume of crimson kasha duvetyn banded in black baby lamb. Mrs. Guernsey Curran Jr. chose a dull gold and silver lame blouse and accented the more formal theme with a pleated skirt of heavy satin back crepe.

When in London I was entrusted with the delightful task of finding a gray parrot for Fannie Hurst. She had told me in Paris that she was very anxious to have an African bird, which it seems might be purchased at the parrot auction in the East End of London. Stephen Graham did the bidding for me, with the result that I chaperoned a fine featherygray and scarlet bird to New York, where he is now passionately increasing the vocabulary.

SUNDAY NIGHT brought us back to town, our brave little craft, the Eaglet, blown by the wind across the white-capped Sound A decided contrast the next night was the opening of "The War Song." The audience was dotted with celebrities and a picture we will long remember was the sight of Ethel Barrymore and Sophie Tucker chatting between acts in the lobby. Sophie Tucker wore the honey velvet wrap we saw her wear in London, while Ethel Barrymore chose a stunning black velvet cape trimmed with a spray of creamy gardenias.

Martha Clarke bowed to society at her coming out party given in the Piping Rock Club last week. Despite the heavy downpour, everybody had a good time and danced in the grill until five the next morning. The palest shade of chartreuse green georgette fashioned the charming dancing frock worn by Miss Clarke. A tight bodice embroidered in sparkling brilliants and bouffant skirt with dipping hemline were interesting fashion points. Shimmering brocaded silver bracelets furnished a twinkling note as she danced.

* * *

Looking forward anxiously to docking, the passengers as usual were on deck at dawn. The morning was fresh and bright and there were many tweed coats in evidence. Mrs. George Holt wore a straightline wrap of sunburn tweed banded in fox. Her hat stressed the off-the-face movement that is still popular in Paris, and she carried a reptile skin zipper bag which matched her one strap sandals in color and material.

* * *

NOT content with a week of rough weather at sea, we immediately rushed off for a week-end yachting party in Long Island Sound. The sparkling blue waters are filled at this season of the year with trim yachts and graceful white-winged schooners.

Saturday, the Harrison Williams steamed up the East River in the Warrior. We passed the speedy little boat Let's Go, filled with laughing girls and boys dressed in rough sport clothes.

Bright handkerchiefs played a brilliant note in the group. Hats are in the discard aboard these luxurious pleasure crafts and kerchiefs are wrapped Gypsy fashion around the sleek heads of smart women.

The black-haired, blue-eyed Peggy Laughlin presented an arresting picture as she danced off the spring board on the white sands of Tommy Hitchcock's private beach at Sand's Point. All the shades of rich reds are favored by Mrs. Laughlin, and on this occasion she wore a chic white felt hat with upturned brim, a two-piece white crepe frock, and her beloved red in a trim cardigan jacket, and ruby and diamond bracelets and brooch.

* * *

At the opening of "Jarnegan," Florence Vidor looked her loveliest for Jascha Heifetz in a golden brown velvet wrap and choker of sparkling amber. "Fast Days" on Wednesday night revealed the return vogue for ermine wraps and blondes. This time the wraps were banded in red fox and cut with curving lines.

* * *

Mrs. Harry Sinclair strolls down the Avenue these days in one of her new one-piece street frocks. It is fashioned of heavy satin back black crepe, cut with a modified V-neck and following the deep U curve below the hips, sponsored by Lelong. This line, together with the banding about the neck, sleeves and godets on the skirt involve the use of the reverse side of the crepe. Mrs. Sinclair's close fitting black felt hat is ornamented with cut-outs backed with contrasting silk and she wears a sumptuous fox scarf.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

A PROVOKING TAIL.

For sympathy should never plead.
—Jimmy Skunk.

REDDY FOX never has had any love for Jimmy Skunk. The same is true of Mrs. Reddy. Just now they felt that they not only didn't have any love for Jimmy but that they hated him. Jimmy was badly upsetting their plans. Yes, sir, he was badly upsetting their plans. He was interfering. He had gone over and joined Johnny Chuck and Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat, one or more of whom they had hoped to catch. Now, with Jimmy Skunk there, how could they possibly catch one of the others? They couldn't and they knew they couldn't. Mrs. Reddy had lost her temper and presently Reddy lost his.

Reddy drew nearer. He showed all his teeth in an ugly snarl. "I have more than half a mind to kill you for this!" he growled.

"Try it, do try it," replied Jimmy Skunk pleasantly, and that big plume of a tail of his stood up almost straight.

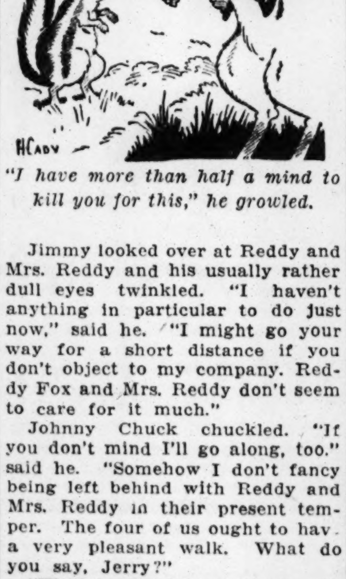
At the first movement of that tail Reddy backed away hastily. All his courage vanished. You see, Jimmy Skunk's tail is a signal flag and all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows know the signals. When it was held as Jimmy was holding it then it was a warning to be heeded. Johnny Chuck laughed right out, which of course made Reddy more angry than ever.

Jimmy had been much surprised to find Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat up there in the carrot-patch, so he inquired how they happened to be there. They told him how they had been flooded out by the great rain, which had caused the Laughing Brook and the Smiling Pool to overflow their banks. They told how they had been hungry and how, due to the rising water, the nearest food supply had seemed to be these carrots.

"But now we want to get back to the water," said Jerry.

"Well, why don't you go?" inquired Jimmy.

Jerry looked over at Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy. "How can we with those two ready to jump on us?" he protested.



"I have more than half a mind to kill you for this," he growled.

Jimmy looked over at Reddy and Mrs. Reddy and his usually rather dull eyes twinkled. "I haven't anything in particular to do just now," said he. "I might go your way for a short distance if you don't object to my company. Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy don't seem to care for it much."

Johnny Chuck chuckled. "If you don't mind I'll go along, too." said he. "Somehow I don't fancy being left behind with Reddy and Mrs. Reddy in their present temper. The four of us ought to have a very pleasant walk. What do you say, Jerry?"

"We'll be tickled to death to have your company, Johnny, and the company of Jimmy Skunk. Shall we start now?" said Jerry.

The other agreed, Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat were in such a hurry that they began to run. Now, Jimmy Skunk almost never runs. He didn't run now. He just ambled along behind and Johnny Chuck stayed with him. Reddy and Mrs. Reddy were quick to see this separation of the friends and they started to circle around, one on one side and one on the other. You see, they hoped that Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat would get so far ahead that there would be nothing to fear from Jimmy Skunk. Johnny Chuck whistled sharply. Jerry Muskrat heard it and stopped and so did Mrs. Muskrat. Jimmy Skunk began to shuffle over toward Reddy Fox and once more Jimmy's tail began to go up. It was a most provoking tail. At least, that was the way Reddy Fox regarded it. Reddy stopped and came no nearer, not even when the funny little procession moved on again. He couldn't keep his eyes off that provoking tail. You see, that tail meant so much—so very much.

Tomato Vegetable Aspic.

A very colorful and delightful salad. One package of lemon gelatine, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 chopped green pepper, 2 cups strained tomatoes. Season tomatoes with salt and pepper and use instead of water for the gelatine. Dissolve gelatine in the boiling tomato juice and cool. When cool add other ingredients and pour into single or individual molds to harden; chill. Serve surrounded by lettuce leaves with mayonnaise served separately.

When a Bargain Is Not a Bargain

WHEN is a bargain not a bargain? When we do not need the artcle we buy, is the correct answer. Modern homes are too small to fill with things we do not absolutely need.

The clever shopper makes a list of her actual needs, personal and household, before venturing forth into the shops which are tempting and lead the unwary into unintentional extravagance frequently. She goes straight to her goal and gets the necessities on her list. Then she looks about and goes adventuring. If before making her list she sees advertised at this season "white sales" that promise a saving in household linens it may pay to investigate before buying at the regular counters. But do so with the eyes open. Bargains are treacherous. Sheets may be good though short, narrow, unevenly woven or poorly hemmed.

Another thing that often fools the inexperienced buyer is the decorative value of furniture, bric-a-brac or hangings. They look lovely in the shop and we do not realize their relative size to the things we already have in our homes; or the colorings which seem to match, according to our memory. We have all known the disappointment of this hit or miss buying. Sometimes we can make an exchange; again sale offerings are not exchangeable and we must use an eye-sore, or give it away, or maybe sell it to some friend at a loss.

This is a day of colorful homes, but in restriction, and the unwritten law of correct harmony must be adhered to if the home decorations are to be successful.

Another slant on the question is that we are taking a page from the foreign decorator's book and learning from it that quantity in furnishing is not what we want. Simplicity with just the right thing in the right place is far better than overcrowding. A single perfect rose with feathery fern is more appropriate on a small table than a large bouquet that overshadows all other decorations.

When buying for the home the size of the rooms, the lighting, the old fittings too good to throw away unless we can afford everything new, the finish of walls and woodwork all form a background for the new things which must be harmonious to fit all these conditions.

Slice red radishes in very thin slices and cover with French dressing, letting them stand in it for a half hour. Drain and arrange on shredded lettuce on slices of buttered wheat bread. Very refreshing.

THE GARDEN IN THE FALL

(National Garden Bureau)

GET READY FOR VEGETABLES

MAGNIFICENT displays of home-grown vegetables at club flower shows and fairs this fall have given new interest and impetus to the home vegetable garden. It is an institution that should not be abandoned if space possibly can be found for it. No matter how cheaply vegetables can be purchased in the market, the absolute top-notch of quality cannot be bought at a store. It must be grown.

The soil for the vegetable garden may be put in shape for spring to excellent advantage this fall if no more than spading and leaving the soil to weather. In fall spading, do not break up the lumps and place the soil in fine tilth. Leave the lumps which will permit the air to penetrate the earth more easily and assist in the process of breaking it up. With the winter weathering, it will work much more easily in the spring.

If stable manure can be found, it is a very excellent plan to dig it in this fall Failing a supply of stable manure, compost made from decayed leaves and vegetable rubbish is the next best to turn under. If autumn leaves have been burned, save something from this destruction of valuable fertilizing material by gathering the ashes and scattering them over the garden. They will provide potash, a necessary element in plant food, and also add lime to the soil.

The value of autumn leaves, stacked up from year to year to decay either under the influence of rains or moisture from the hose or to be hastened by chemical reagents now on sale, cannot be overestimated. They offer a fine material for soil improvement always at hand for the gathering. The most practical method is to build a bin of rough boards, unfloored and fill this with the autumn leaves and garden refuse, wetting it and tramping it down and weighting it down after the bin is well filled.

The decayed foliage which will accumulate at the bottom of the heap in the course of seasons is almost pure humus and of the greatest value to add texture to the soil and moisture retaining quality. With the use of chemical reagents, the bin of leaves will be converted into a solid layer of thoroughly decayed synthetic manure of high fertilizing quality in three months. Started this fall it will be ready for use next spring.

Despised Portions of Meat Are Desirable

MANY housewives do not recognize the value of the so-called offal portions of the meat—liver, kidney, heart, brains and sweetbreads.

These furnish just as good food as the cuts of meat and at much less cost and waste. Science has shown that these portions of animal food are rich in vitamines and therefore should appear more frequently in the family diet.

The brains, sweetbreads and liver from young animals are the tender portions and should not be overcooked. They are usually parboiled, then sliced and either broiled, fried or creamed. Brains are good scrambled with eggs. Sweetbreads are nice creamed or served as a salad.

The heart requires long, slow cooking. It is usually parboiled, then baked. As a pot-roast or a stew it is delicious. Liver should be parboiled, then fried or baked. It is also often served as a loaf.

Kidneys should be cooked only a short time or they will become tough. Serve them as a stew or fried, and they are very tasty when minced and spread on toast. Chicken livers are considered a delicacy by the epicure.

If there seem to be too many eggs called for in the recipe, substitute ½ teaspoon cornstarch for one of them.

PUT a tablespoon of any chip soap in a strainer—a tablespoon of Super Suds in another. Plunge both strainers in warm water. Stir briskly while you count ten. Now lift from the water.

The Super Suds strainer—empty! Not a trace of undissolved soap. All in solution—ready to get busy on dirty clothes or dishes. In the other strainer—gummy, half-dissolved chips. Soap that sticks to clothes and yellows them. Soap that never does half its work, because it doesn't get dissolved in time!

Make the test today—end slavery to dishes and washday. At any grocery.

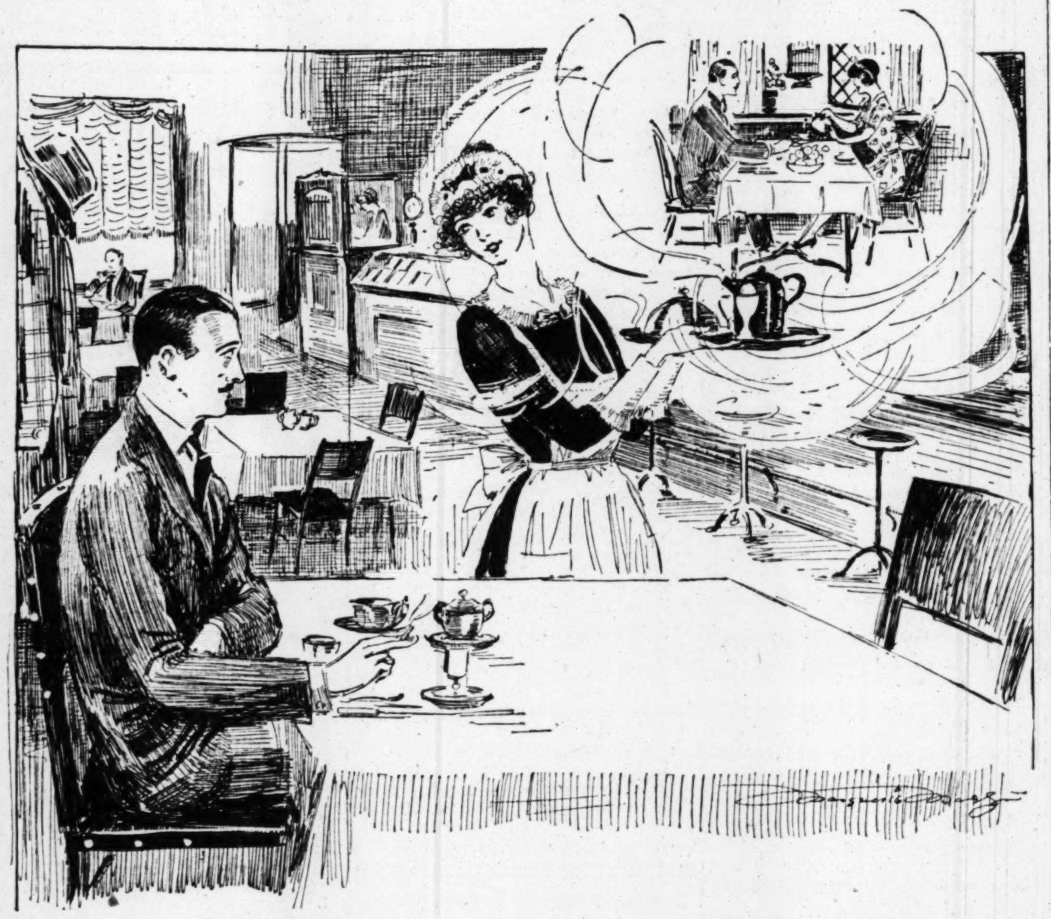
By John Collins.

New York.

WHAT happens to the hundreds of girls and young women who come to New York each month burning with the desire to become short-story writer, actresses, artists and musicians? A few, of course—a very few—become short story writers, actresses, artists and musicians, but the overwhelming majority never have a chance. The supply exceeds the demand by perhaps 100 to 1; ninety-nine must fail for one that makes the grade. What happens to the ninety-nine?



Many of them go back home sorry and disillusioned, but none the worse for their experience. Many of them after weeks of struggle with the wolf take the first job they can stumble into, for better or worse. Some of the luckiest and most intelligent become waitresses.

There are very few jobs that an untrained girl can fill which offer more tempting opportunities than that of waitress. There are few jobs that pay better, few with as easy hours and few that are easier to get. The social caste objection which might have been valid 20 years ago is dead. The social and educational distinctions that were once inherent in occupations are rapidly breaking up. College graduates and untaught immigrants from Italy, girls from Newport and girls from the lower East Side—the profession of waitress includes them all.

"I USED to work as a stenographer," said a pretty brunette girl in an uptown restaurant. "I worked six days a week from 9 to 5 and earned $20. Now I work five days a week—from 11:30 to 2 and from 5:30 to 8. I get $10 a week in wages and between $30 and $40 in tips. Also I get two meals each day, which saves me about $10 each week. The only thing that can pry me away from this job is a first-class husband. And I think I'll get him, too, if I'm just patient for a while."

The manager of a larger Fifth avenue restaurant spoke enthusiastically about the possibilities of the waitress job.

"Many of them make more money than I do," he said. "The work is pleasant and not monotonous, and the girls are of the best type. You see that girl working at the third table on the left. She's a Vassar graduate. She came in here at 2 o'clock in the morning about six months ago and asked for a cup of coffee. We don't often have down-and-outers in here looking for a free set-up, and a young and pretty girl was a new experience for me. I asked her if she wanted a job as a waitress. She's been here ever since. I suppose she makes about $50 a week. There's no future in the job, of course, but most girls are not looking for a business future anyway. She rides uptown every night with a high-hat fellow who works for a big department store. He's all the future she wants."

THERE is a rapid labor turnover in the waitress "profession," but little of it is produced by dissatisfaction. Marriage claims the vast majority of those who quit. The number who are saving money to get a good start on a home-making venture is surprisingly large.

"My boy friend makes only $30 a week," said one of these, "and we can't get married for a while yet. But I can't see why I should sit around waiting for a him to get rich. I live at home and can save almost all my money. In the last six months I've banked more than $1000."

"I came to New York two years ago from Beloit, Wis. I had a high school education and $200 and I wanted to be an actress the worst way. In about six weeks I was the most desperate little girl in this city. I quit touring theatrical agencies and tried to get a job in an office. I'm glad now I couldn't. My job here is worth twice as much as any clerical position I could hope to get, and it's more fun, too. In the last year I've bought a new Ford and put money in the bank, and a friend of mine, who works for the telephone company, borrowed $20 from me last week to pay her landlady. I guess I know when I'm well off."

A SHORT time ago it was disclosed that waitressing in the Alice Foote McDougall coffee shops was so profitable that the jobs were rented out on a concession basis—each girl paid $10 a week for the privilege of working. Estimates of the amounts earned in these shops range all the way from $50 to $150 a week. Such earnings are extraordinary; there are few places in the city where tips run so high. The service in hotels and night clubs, famous for liberal tips, is almost entirely by men, and in these places it is extremely difficult to learn how much the average waiter earns because of the fifty-fifty system which usually prevails. A $1 tip left on the table of a hotel or night club will be split several ways; bus boys, cooks and head waiters all get a certain specified portion. This splitting system is not unknown in the smaller restaurants, but here it is usually done without the sanction of the management.

The compensations of the waitress are not entirely to be measured in money. The job is interesting. Few people have a better opportunity to study human nature.

I had rather wait on men than women," said one girl in a Childs Company store. "Women are more touchy, more snobbish and more patronizing. A woman will leave a five-cent tip as if she were doing you a great favor, although everybody knows that waitresses depend upon their tips for a living and that if salaries were made higher food would cost more. A man leaves a tip unconsciously as a part of the regular routine, and surely every self-respecting girl would so prefer it. Another thing about women; many of them think they're not getting their money's worth unless they complain and criticise. And at least half the time their complaints are about things that the waitress is powerless to change; about prices, food selections on the menu, size of portion, &c. Yes, I wish all my customers were men."

Apparently there is something more in waitressing than meets either the ear or the eye.

AT THE BEAUTY SHOP

By Frances Olivier.

REDUCTION FOR THE NOSE.

MEANING reduction for the nose without the aid of the beauty surgeon's knife. And be it known, we wish to be taken seriously in this matter.

The boy with the big nose is given credit for force of character, and sooner or later finds himself holding down an executive job. The girl with the big nose writes to the beauty column asking "Who or what is the nearest, cheapest and best nose reducer you know of?"

Well, having seen one young woman with a "fixed" nose and having heard from authoritative sources of a dozen or more nose alterations that proved tragic, we are inclined to recommend the hairdresser and the milliner in preference to the beauty surgeon.

In other words, it is usually safer and much less expensive to reduce the apparent size of the nose than to turn it over to an "expert" for chiseling. And following are a few of the rules for making a conspicuous nose seem less so.

The nose that juts too far forward can be made to look shorter by building out the coiffure in back. If the hair is bobbed, avoid a close shingle. Rather encourage the hair to thicken at the back. And if the hair is long, fluff it out and finish it off with a generous "bun."

Pretty much the same rule applies in the selection of hats. And the hat with a brim, by the way, should always be given the preference over the tight turban, where the nose is a substantial feature. Which reminds us that we saw a quite handsome lady with a markedly aquiline nose spoiling her picture completely by wearing one of the popular feathered turbans—the chanticleer illusion was perfect.

But now a word about the bulbous nose, the nose that errs not in the matter of its length but of thickness. This nose—and rejoice ye who have it—is capable of more than apparent reduction. To a very great extent it can be diminished in size actually.

Here the root of the trouble is likely to be merely an excess of flesh and when this is the case, the thing to do is to break down the extra ounce or two of fatty tissue. Applying compresses of hot epsom salt water helps and so does a judicious amount of gentle massage. And the two together aid greatly in expediting the job.

Now this does not necessarily mean that directly after the epsom salt nose bath one has to break into manipulations. In fact, it is much better to perform these two quite different tasks at separate periods.

Use this simplest of massage movements: Place the thumb and forefinger at each side of the nose and stroke gently but firmly from top to tip, increasing the pressure as you near the tip. Keep up the good work for two to three minute periods.

SAYINGS OF Mrs. Solomon

By Helen Rowland

LOVE'S THERMOMETER.

My daughter, by the light of the harvest moon many things are made clear. For by that time, do a man and a damsel know in their hearts whether the romance born of April sunsets and June moons is going to "take" or not.

* * *

Go to. It is easy for a damsel to be fair and for a man to be gallant by lamplight. But the acid test of a man's vows and a woman's charms is the good old Midsummer-time!

* * *

Midsummer—when powder turneth to paste and rouge runneth down the cheek, and a man may spy a woman's real complexion and judge how she will stand the cold north light of a winter morning.

* * *

When a woman may note how her beloved appeareth without a collar and discover whether the Lord or his tailor is responsible for his slender waistline.

* * *

When a man may teach a damsel to swim and discern how good a sport she is and how much she oweth to Nature and how much to her modiste.

* * *

Or may take her camping and judge how good a cook, how good a scout and how good a pal she would make in a marital marathon.

When a damsel may note just how "helpful" or how fastidious a man is around a summer bungalow, and just how peevish he would be if the ants got into the pudding.

And a man may take a damsel fishing and observe how long she can KEEP SILENT at one time.

* * *

Yea, verily, Midsummer is the magic season, when a man and a maid discover whether 12 hours together seem like a "long, long day" or like a brief and glamorous interlude.

* * *

When a damsel may find out just how susceptible a man is to moonlight, scented silence, soft music and OTHER women, and learn whether or not she could trust him for all the summers to come—and just how FAR.

* * *

And when a man may judge whether or not a woman's kiss repayeth him for the exertion of catching the one-fifteen on a hot Saturday afternoon, when all the roof gardens are calling in his ears.

* * *

* * *

And by Labor day, a wise woman knoweth whether or not to order the orange blossoms; and a man knoweth whether or not to buy the platinum ring! For the midsummer sun, and not the May moon, is the safest guide to love.

RED CROSS FIRST AID MEASURES

(Posed and explained by Dr. W. J. Fenton of the American Red Cross First Aid Instruction Car.)

LOOSE particles may be taken from the eyelid with a clean handkerchief or a bit of clean cotton rolled on a toothpick or a match stick. If not easily removed in this way no further attempt should be made.

In fact, the only safe rule in these cases is for the operator never to make an attempt to take anything from the eyeball. Many patients have suffered blindness from the well meaning but disastrous fumbling of amateurs. Foreign bodies embedded in the lid or eyeball should be left to a surgeon. In case of serious eye injury cover with a compress of clean cloth wrung out in ice water and send the patient promptly to a hospital or a physician.

All Kinds of Collars For the Cloth Coats

AFTER a few seasons of shawl collars and the familiar Johnny type, this season promises to introduce so many distinctive collars on coats of all fabrics that it will be far from difficult to find the collar assuring the most flattering effect to the face.

The pouch collar is spoken of as new, and this is designed on lines not too similar to the pouch of some seasons ago. It is especially attractive in the fluffy furs and is achieved by means of a band of the coat material which takes the place of the fur at the back of the neck. Because of this the : stands slightly away from the face and throat, is most becoming to the wearer and also saves the wear and tear on the fur.

Whole capes of fur are shown on a number of cloth coats, presenting a luxurious appearance with the added attraction of the warmth of a fur coat without its weight. These, of course, add to the value of the coat according to the fur used and are of varied pelts.

The Jenny standing collar is employed in many versions, one having a bow of fur at the back and another looped scarf ends at the back instead. This is an excellent type for flat furs.

Vastly different is the vestee collar created by Lelong, and intended for short furs only, such as mole or flat caracul.

Split-pea soup is good garnished with hard-boiled egg yolks, which have been put through a sieve.

Make-up Coarsen Skin?

That Depends on How You Remove It

Now gentle palm and olive oils are embodied in a special soap to bring out natural loveliness and safeguard the finest skin.

THE real danger in make-up lies in the way you remove it. For unless it is removed each night carefully and thoroughly, pores will clog, skin will be blemished and sallow. Cleanse your skin with palm and olive oils in the rich lather of a beauty soap to keep its texture fine, its color glowing and youthful.

Use Palmolive, a soap uniquely embodying these priceless beauty oils. They penetrate and cleanse like nothing else will do.

Every night give skin the following care and forget about looking old: Gently massage Palmolive lather into the face for two minutes, using your own two hands. Allow the oily lather to penetrate and cleanse each pore. Then rinse with warm water, then cold. Dry by gently patting. A touch of cream if skin is naturally dry. That is all.

What A Flavor!

It's fun to watch anyone enjoying his first bowl of Heinz Rice Flakes. First there's the doubting, "nothing-new-under-the-sun" expression. Then the first glad ray of surprise. And, finally, the happy grin of deep-down delight in this new cereal food with a flavor like toasty, crunchy nut-meats.

The GREENE MURDER CASE

By S. S. Van Dyne

THE ASTOUNDING TRUTH.
(Monday, Dec. 13, 11 P. M.)

"ADA rose quietly, put on her coat, and went down to the library. Getting into the galoshes, she again walked to the front gate and back. Then she went directly upstairs so that her tracks would not show on the marble steps, and hid the galoshes temporarily in the linen closet. That was the shuffling sound and the closing door that Rex heard a few minutes before Chester was shot. Ada, you recall, told us afterward she had heard nothing; but when we repeated Rex's story to her she became frightened and conveniently remembered having heard a door close. My word! That was a ticklish moment for her. But she certainly carried it off well. And I can now understand her obvious relief when we showed her the pattern of the footprints and let her think we believed the murderer came from outside. . . . Well, after she had removed the galoshes and put them in the linen closet, she took off her coat, donned a dressing gown, and went to Chester's room—probably opened the door without knocking, and went in with a friendly greeting. I picture her as sitting on the arm of Chester's chair, or the edge of the desk, and then, in the midst of some trivial remark, drawing the revolver, placing it against his breast, and pulling the trigger before he had time to recover from his horrified astonishment. He moved instinctively, though, just as the weapon exploded—which would account for the diagonal course of the bullet. Then Ada returned quickly to her own room and got into bed. Thus was another chapter written in the Greene tragedy."

"Did it strike you as strange," asked Markham, "that Von Blon was not at his office during the commission of either of the crimes?"

"At first—yes. But, after all, there was nothing unusual in the fact that a doctor should have been out at that time of night."

"It's easy enough to see how Ada got rid of Julia and Chester," grumbled Heath. "But what stops me is how she murdered Rex."

"Really, y' know, Sergeant," returned Vance, "that trick of her shouldn't cause you any perplexity. I'll never forgive myself for not having guessed it long ago—Ada certainly gave us enough clews to work on. But, before I describe it to you, let me recall a certain architectural detail of the Greene mansion. There is a Tudor fireplace, with carved wooden panels, in Ada's room, and another fireplace—a duplicate of Ada's—in Rex's room; and these two fireplaces are back to back on the same wall. The Greene house, as you know, is very old, and at some time in the past—perhaps when the fireplaces were built—an aperture was made between the two rooms, running from one of the panels in Ada's mantel to the corresponding panel in Rex's mantel. This miniature tunnel is about six inches square—the exact size of the panels—and a little over two feet long, or the depth of the two mantels and the wall. It was originally used, I imagine, for private communication between the two rooms. But that point is immaterial. The fact remains that such a shaft exists—I verified it tonight on my way downtown from the hospital. I might also add that the panel at either end of the shaft is on a spring hinge, so that when it is opened and released it closes automatically, snapping back into place without giving any indication that it is anything more than a solid part of the woodwork"——

"I get you!" exclaimed Heath, with the excitement of satisfaction "Rex was shot by the old man-killing safe idea; the burglar opens the safe door and gets a bullet in his head from a stationary gun."

"Exactly. And the same device has been used in scores of murders. In the early days out West an enemy would go to a rancher's cabin during the tenant's absence, hang a shotgun from the ceiling over the door, and tie one end of a string to the trigger and the other end to the latch. When the rancher returned—perhaps days later—his brains would be blown out as he entered his cabin; and the murderer would, at the time, be in another part of the country."

"Sure!" The Sergeant's eyes sparkled. "There was a shooting like that in Atlanta two years ago—Boscomb was the name of the murdered man. And in Richmond, Va."——

"There have been many instances of it, Sergeant. Gross quotes two famous Austrian cases. He also has something to say about this method in general, and gives a detailed description of the mechanisms employed. And it will interest you, Sergeant—in view of what I am about to tell you—to know that the revolver was held in place by a bootjack."

He closed the volume but held it on his lap.

"There, unquestionably, is where Ada got the suggestion of Rex's murder. She and Rex had probably discovered the hidden passage way between their rooms years ago. I imagine that as children—they were about the same age, don't y' know—they used it as a secret means of correspondence. This would account for the name by which they both knew it—'our private mail-box.' And, given this knowledge between Ada and Rex, the method of the murder becomes perfectly clear. Tonight I found an old-fashioned bootjack in Ada's clothes-closet—probably taken from Tobias' library. Its width, overall, was just six inches, and it was a little less than two feet long—it fitted perfectly into the communicating cupboard. Ada, following Gross' diagram, pressed the handle of the gun tightly between the tapering claws of the bootjack, which would have held it like a vise; then tied a string to the trigger, and attached the other end to the inside of Rex's panel, so that when the panel was opened wide the revolver, being on a hair-trigger, would discharge straight along the shaft and inevitably kill any one looking into the opening. When Rex fell with a bullet in his forehead the panel flapped back into place on its spring hinge; and a second later there was no visible evidence whatever pointing to the origin of the shot. And here we also have the explanation for Rex's calm expression of unawareness. When Ada returned with us from the District Attorney's office, she went directly to her room, removed the gun and the bootjack, hid them in her closet, and came down to the drawing-room to report the foot-tracks on her carpet—foot-tracks she herself had made before leaving the house. It was just before she came down-stairs, by the way, that she stole the morphine and strychnine from Von Blon's case."

"But, my God, Vance!" said Markham. "Suppose her mechanism had failed to work. She would have been in for it then."

"I hardly think so. If, by any remote chance, the trap had not operated or Rex had recovered, she could easily have put the blame on some one else. She had merely to say she had secreted the diagram in the chute and that this other person had prepared the trap later on. There would have been no proof of her having set the gun."

"What about that diagram, sir?" asked Heath.

"There are the three stones, and the parrot, and the heart, and even your arrow, Sergeant. They're all criminal graphic symbols; and Ada simply utilized them in her description. The story of her finding the paper in the hall was a pure fabrication, but she knew it would pique our curiosity. The truth is, I suspected the paper of being faked by some one, for it evidently contained the signs of several types of criminal, and the symbols were meaninglessly jumbled. I rather imagined it was a false clew deliberately placed in the hall for us to find—like the footprints; but I certainly didn't suspect Ada of having made up the tale. Now, however, as I look back at the episode it strikes me as deuced queer that she shouldn't have brought so apparently significant a paper to the office. Her failure to do so was neither logical nor reasonable; and I ought to have been suspicious. But—my word!—what was one illogical item more or less in such a melange of inconsistencies? As it happened, her decoy worked beautifully and gave her the opportunity to telephone Rex to look into the chute. But it didn't really matter. If the scheme had fallen through that morning, it would have been successful later on. Ada was highly persevering."

"You think, then," put in Markham, "that Rex really heard the shot in Ada's room that first night, and confided in her?"

"Undoubtedly. That part of her story was true enough. I'm inclined to think that Rex heard the shot and had a vague idea Mrs. Greene had fired it. Being rather close to his mother temperamentally, he said nothing. Later he voiced his suspicions to Ada; and that confession gave her the idea for killing him—or, rather, for perfecting the technic she had already decided on; for Rex would have been shot through the secret cupboard in any event. But Ada now saw a way of establishing a perfect alibi for the occasion; although even her idea of being actually with the police when the shot was fired was not original. In Gross's chapter on alibis there is much suggestive material along that line."

"I'm glad I don't run across many of her kind," he remarked.

Some HELPFUL ideas on BEAUTIFYING your PROPERTY are presented in the SEEDS, PLANTS and TREES for sale offers in the POST-DISPATCH WANT PAGES—especially Sunday.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope.

P. E. C.—Easter Sunday in 1912 was April 7.

J. H. E.—Gene Tunney prefers his name pronounced with short "u," that is to rhyme with "funny," according to sports writers who have interviewed him.

UNION.—The City Comptroller has had charge of the fiscal management of Union Market for 35 years, and of other revenue producing property. Records of his office, if you have access to them, may show how the site was acquired. Real estate records probably exist, and the Public Library files of St. Louis History might yield something. A writer is advised when a question requires research outside this department, if name and address are given.

INTERESTED. — The United States Tariff Commission has offices in Old Land Office Building, Washington, D. C.; Chairman, Thomas O. Marvin of Massachusetts. It is a permanent commission, created by act of Congress, approved Sept. 8, 1916, that is, it is permanent unless Congress should cause it to go out of existense, which is not likely. It has authority to investigate the administration, operation and effects of the customs laws and their relation to the Federal revenues. The law directs that the commission shall put at the disposal of the President, the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, and the Finance Committee of the Senate, whenever requested, all of the information at its command, and shall make such investigation and reports as may be requested by the President or either branch of Congress. It also has power to investigate tariff relations with other countries. Read the 1927 Congressional Directory, page 387.

M. E. R.—The Pulitzer prizes are awarded annually at commencement time at Columbia University on recommendation of the Advisory Board of the School of Journalism of Columbia. The Advisory Board at present is composed of the president of the university, 10 publishers of newspapers, and the former general manager of the Associated Press. There are eight awards, the ones you particularly ask about, the novel and the drama awards, are: for the American novel published which shall best present the wholesome atmosphere of American life and the highest standard of American manners and manhood, $1000, and for the original American play performed in New York during the year which shall best represent the educational value and power of the stage in raising the standard of good morals, good taste, and good manners, $1000. All the awards are for work published, or performed, which practically limits contestants to those whose productions have attracted the attention of publishers.

MRS. B. AND OTHERS.—Butter cakes: Mix one quart of flour, one teaspoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls baking powder. Rub in three tablespoonfuls butter. Mix to a soft dough with milk, roll out three-fourths of an inch thick, cut in round cakes. Lay on a moderately hot, greased griddle, and when pale brown, turn and brown on other side. Tear open, butter liberally, and send to table.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

A. X.—If you rent the room by the month, you should give a month's notice, if by the week, a week's notice.

A DAILY READER.—You should have obtained a divorce before remarrying. You should sue for divorce from your first husband now, and then remarry your second husband when you have abtained the divorce.

A READER.—You can probably get a share of the property under the circumstances mentioned. You should consult a lawyer. This refers to question about buying a flat and having it in the name of the person you were living with.

MRS. R. W. H.—(1) and (2) There is no State law on the subject. Some School Boards exercising their authority to control the welfare of schools, have a ruling which compels vaccination. The St. Louis School Board has such a ruling. (3), (4) and (5) As to what may be done, the consensus of opinion among those who oppose compulsory vaccination for religious and other reasons seems to be that as long as the ruling exists it is better to comply in this detail, in obedience to law solely, than to deprive the child of education for the time. For your information, opponents of compulsory vaccination, under the direction of the Missouri Medical Liberty League, had a hearing before the Board of Education last October, asking for optional vaccination. You may read the account in Post-Dispatch files of Oct. 4th at the Public Library or buy the copy if editions of that date are available. The School Board voted at that time, however, not to change the present ruling.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

ANXIOUS.—The height of a person, at any age, is not a fixed figure and the weight should correspond to height and has some relation to age. If, therefore, you wish to know what your weight should be, please write again, giving age and height.

MRS. E. M. W.—The following should serve to check falling hair: Essential oil of bitter almonds, 15 drops castor oil, two ounces; tincture of cantharides, three drams; spirits of rosemary, two drams; mix, shake and apply night and morning with gentle friction. Also shampoo hair every four or five days with hot water and pure castile soap.

READER.—If you are asking about a case of specific disease which has come under your observation, or asking for yourself, go at once to the municipal clinic, first floor of Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets, for free treatment. Home or self treatment is not advised, and you should not delay having proper treatment. Names of private physicians will be sent if you wish to send stamped, addressed envelope for these.

Flying Bridegrooms Get Real "Showers"

AERIAL showers for aviator bridegrooms are becoming popular. The "shower" is all that its name implies and consists of a cascade of miniature parachutes to which are attached dolls, old shoes, tin cans, rice and household utensils.

The tiny parachutes are released from planes that circle above the house or church where the wedding is to be. Attached to each article dropped from the skies is a note stating that the finder will be reimbursed by the bridegroom if he will take the article found to the place where the wedding is to be.

Lieut. Charles Myers was the latest recipient of an aerial shower. It descended upon him from four planes circling above San Antonio on the occasion of his marriage to Miss Fannabel Hull of that city. The flying formation was led by Lieut. Brookley, who was deluged the same way when he was married. The shower cost him $14, as 14 finders brought him presents.

A Twist of the Wrist Makes Velvet Turban

The twist may take one of several forms since it is adapted to the face of the lady under the hat. Colored velvets are used. One turban with a tight twist of velvet in place of a brim, and a big bow low on the right side, is a shade formerly called American beauty. Orange and black are combined and bright shades are worn with afternoon dresses.

The United States has about 5000 landing fields available to aviators California leading with 115 and Texas being second with 90.

OH WHY WAS I EVER INVENTED!? WHY DID THEY WANT TO BRING ME INTO THE WORLD?
ISN'T THERE ENOUGH REAL PEOPLE WITHOUT BRINGING IN SUCH AS I? I'M TIRED OF THIS ALREADY
WHY DIDN'T THEY MAKE ME LOOK MORE HUMAN ANYWAY? THIS IS SILLY AND STUPID - AND I'M DOOMED TO BE ON EARTH FOREVER.
I SUPPOSE I'M MORE USEFUL THAN SOME SO CALLED HUMAN BEINGS AT THAT... I MAY NOT HAVE BRAINS BUT I'M NOT AS EMPTY HEADED AS SOME PEOPLE
IF MY CREATORS WANTED TO BE REAL DECENT, THEY MIGHT GIVE ME A MATE - SAY - UH - UH - A LADY FRIEND... EVEN ADAM HAD HIS EVE.
AND I WISH THEY WOULDN'T GO AWAY AND LEAVE ME IN THESE TIRING ATTITUDES. I WOULD LIKE TO SIT DOWN ONCE IN A WHILE.. OH I WISH I HADN'T BEEN INVENTED

WHY, COLONEL, HOW DO YOU DO! I'M SO GLAD TO SEE YOU. AND I WAS JUST DELIGHTED TO READ IN THE PAPER THAT YOU WERE INTERESTED IN SOME SORT OF AN AFFAIR TO HELP VOTERS, OR SOMETHING SUCH AS THAT I THINK POLITICS ARE WONDERFUL. I'LL DROP INTO YOUR OFFICE IN A DAY OR SO. I, TOO, LOVE POLITICS.
YES MAM......WE'RE ALWAYS VERY BUSY RIGHT NOW BUT LATER........IN A FEW WEEKS OR SO DROP IN ANY TIME MRS. DARDANELLA.
